Index to Vol. XCI of the Record and Guide

For Manhattan and the Bronx Auction Sales, Conveyances, Leases, Mortgages and Projected Buildings.

NOS. 2338 to 2363 JANUARY—JUNE, 1913, INCLUSIVE. VOL. XCI.

PREFACE.

The following is the semi-annual Index of Volume XCI of the Record and Guide, containing complete lists of the Auction Sales, Conveyances, Leases, Mortgages and Buildings Projected in Manhattan and Bronx during the first six months of 1913. Those wishing to keep a file of past six months for permanent reference should see that all the numbers are complete and have them bound. Cost of binding, $3.50 per volume. A suitable temporary binder, holding one volume, can be obtained at the office, 115 to 119 West 40th Street; price, one dollar.

The Record and Guide is now published in two sections; Section One containing auction sales and projected buildings, Section Two containing conveyances, mortgages and leases.

The folios on both sections start with page one continuing consecutively up to the end of the volume.

In order that there may be no confusion all auction sales folios are preceded by an asterisk (*) and all projected buildings folios are preceded by a dagger (†). These marks indicate that these folios will be found in Section One, all folios not so marked will be found in Section Two.

THE KEY.

Auction Sales.

The * before any folio indicates an auction sale, which will be found in Section One.

Conveyances

are distinguished by numbers without having signs attached thereto. In many instances there will be found streets, etc., indexed under pages which, on being examined, show at once that they are not in their proper order according to our customary alphabetical and numerical arrangement. A further examination will disclose the fact that while the properties appear more prominently under the other street descriptions, they nevertheless extend to the streets, etc., indicated by the Index, and having a frontage on same have been included in the paging, and it will necessitate a somewhat more thorough search than usual to locate it. The Leases, Mortgages, Auction Sales and Projected Buildings are indexed in a similar manner to the plan followed with the Conveyances.

Leases.

The figures in parenthesis denote that the transaction on the page given is Leasehold, an assignment of lease or a lease running for a short or long term of years. This explanation is made so that subscribers searching for transfers in fee can at once distinguish between the former and the latter without referring to the pages mentioned.

Mortgages.

Figures preceded by capital letters are mortgages, said capital letter indicating the first letter of the name of the mortgagor.

All the mortgages are indexed against the street or avenue in which the property is located, and memoranda added to enable searchers to find the particulars in "The Record and Guide." See "Example."

The streets and avenues are so subdivided that very few references are necessary. All readers of "The Record and Guide" are aware that the mortgages appear weekly in alphabetical and numerical order. This publication of an index against property completes the information which those interested may require.

Projected Buildings.

The † before any folio indicates a Projected Building, which will be found in Section One.

Example.

Simpson st, from Westchester av to 167th.. 17, W 72, *82, (121), 261, 307, †738.
On page 82 an auction sale will be found.
On pages 17, 261 & 307 conveyances will be found.
On page (121) a lease will be found.
On page W72 mortgages will be found.
On page †738 plans for a new building will be found.

Auction Sales, Conveyances, Leases, Mortgages and Projected Buildings.

BOROUGH OF MANHATTAN STREETS.

NOTE.—Longitudinal streets, roads and places, such as the Bowery, Boulevard, Broadway, etc., which run parallel with the various avenues, will be found in alphabetical order among the avenues.

OUR GAINS FROM THE ERIE AND PANAMA CANALS

Freight From Middle West, Which Has Gone to the Pacific by Rail, Will Hereafter Come Through New York—Natural Advantages Restored to the "Gateway of the Continent."

By FREDERICK B. De BERARD, Statistician of the Merchants' Association

THE completion of the Panama Canal will greatly modify the existing currents of transportation, not only upon the sea, but throughout a large part of the area of the United States.

To the effect of the Panama Canal in changing the direction of transportation movements will be added that of the Erie Canal; and the result will be profoundly beneficial to the North Atlantic States, and particularly to the City of New York and its adjacent territory.

Hitherto the main currents of transcontinental traffic have been by rail, the west-bound rail traffic (including the rail and water routes via the Gulf ports) to Pacific terminals in 1911 aggregating approximately 3,481,600 tons, as against 494,600 tons moving by the water routes via the Panama and Tehuantepec isthmuses.

Until 1907 this disparity was still greater, despite the fact that water rates were from 20 to 60 per cent. less than rail rates. The reason for the relatively small use of the water routes was the control of the steamship lines by the transcontinental railroads, which discouraged shipments by bad service, inadequate facilities and extreme slowness; and which prevented competition by independent lines by temporary rate-cutting until competitors were driven out of the field. After 1907 these conditions were bettered by the opening of the Mexican State railroad across the isthmus of Tehuantepec and the operation in connection therewith of the American-Hawaiian Line, which has rapidly developed a large traffic.

Trammels Will Be Removed.

The completion of the Panama Canal will at once remove all the trammels which have hitherto throttled the water traffic in order to force the greater part of the traffic over the railroads, at higher rates. Free competition in water carriage will at once result, by reason of that provision of the recently passed law regulating canal tolls, which forbids railroad ownership of or interest in any steamship line. From this freedom of competition will follow speedy and adequate service, hitherto prevented, so that the cheaper water routes will become available for much of the traffic hitherto forced over the rail routes.

New York and the East generally have been placed at a serious disadvantage by the largely compulsory use of the transcontinental rail routes, for the reason that it has been deprived in large degree of the benefit of low water rates, which if untrammelled would give it nearly all the Pacific Coast trade. The interest of the rail lines west of Chicago has been to exclude New York as far as possible from the Inter-mountain and Pacific territories to be served by Western cities. This is because the rail rate from all points east of the Missouri River to points on the Pacific Coast is the same. Thus the amount received for hauling a carload from New York, or from Chicago, to San Francisco is the same, but in the former case the amount is divided between the Eastern and the Western railroads, while in the latter case the Western railroads keep it all. The potential water competition has had the effect, however, of forcing a very low transcontinental rail rate—much lower than the local rates exacted by Western lines between intermediate points. The latter have fought vigorously against this discrimination; and it has recently become evident, from the attitude of the Interstate Commerce Commission, that the Western railroads must either abandon their policy of abnormally low through rates to Pacific points, made to meet water competition, or correspondingly scale down their now highly profitable local rates.

Will Reverse Traffic Currents.

There can be little doubt as to what they will do in this dilemma. The transcontinental traffic is of very doubtful profit at best; the local traffic at high rates is vital; and it is likely that, with the real and vigorous competition of water rates following the opening of the Panama Canal, the Western railroads will abandon the attempt to force traffic to reach the Pacific Coast by rail, by means of a highly artificial rate system.

The abandonment of the blanket rate between points east of the Missouri River and Pacific terminals (already practically ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission) and the advent of untrammelled water carriage between the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts will cause a radical change in the traffic current between the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts, not only by substituting the water for the rail route, but also by causing a partial reversal of the rail movement. Even at present water rates, commodities originating 500 miles west of New York and destined for the Pacific Coast can reach their destination most cheaply if shipped eastward to New York and thence by water. The present obstacle is defective service.

More Freight Business Here.

Under the new conditions, with lower rates and ample service, a great volume of freight which has hitherto moved westward by rail to the Pacific Coast will hereafter move eastward by rail for trans-shipment by water, thus concentrating on New York the bulk of the large trade with the Pacific Slope.

To sum up the effect of the Panama Canal upon the trade relations between New York and the Pacific Slope: The existing railroad control of the situation will be broken up. The influences which have been tending more and more to deprive New York of the far Western trade will be nullified, and through its command of a through water-route freed from railroad control and with rates made by genuine competition, it will be confirmed in its control of the already very important and rapidly growing Pacific Coast trade. In addition it will become the shipping point for a wide range of manufactured products made within a radius of 500 miles or more, of New York's City Hall which now reach the Pacific Coast by the westward all-rail routes.

New York Chief Beneficiary.

The influence of the Panama Canal upon foreign trade relations is complicated by many economic conditions. One fact is certain: that as America's volume of exports increases those exports will mainly find their outlet from Atlantic and Gulf ports, with a great preponderance in favor of New York, because of its more available water route, via the Erie Canal, from the interior. The Central States must of necessity be the situs of great manufacturing development, not only by reason of contiguity to raw materials and fuel, but also because of central location with reference to a large consuming population. In many branches of industry in which freight is not a large factor the Eastern States will continue large producers. When the Panama Canal is available, such part of these manufactured products as is exported can with few exceptions reach any part of the world more cheaply through New York than through any other American port. Hence, whatever benefit the Panama Canal confers in the promotion of foreign trade, New York will be a chief beneficiary, as it will surely become the great export market where American manufacturers of every class will maintain selling agencies.

The Erie Canal's Part.

Let us now consider the part which the Erie Canal will take in this economic readjustment. For many years past the Erie Canal has been obsolete, although it has exerted an important influence in the modification of rail rates upon grain and coarse freights. Many elements of waste have entered into canal freights which thereby have been maintained at a higher level than would otherwise be economically necessary.

Moreover, the canal has not been useful as a carrier of high-class freights by reason of slowness of transit. In the carriage of bulk freights small units have been employed at an excessive cost for operation, and the freights have been subjected to the heavy and needless charges of rehandling.

With the canal reconstructed these elements of waste will disappear. Large transportation units will be employed of such a kind as to permit their use both upon the Lakes and upon the Canal without the necessity of rehandling, and the facilities will be such, through electric traction or otherwise, as to permit a rate of speed substantially equal to that of the usual freight train after making allowance in the case of the latter for the detention at junction points and for transfers.

A Far More Important Canal.

Thus a wide range of commodities which are not now carried by the Canal may be transported under favorable conditions by water carriage from points more than a thousand miles in the interior. It will be at once realized that these changed conditions will make the Erie Canal a far more important transportation element than it ever has been in the past, both in the volume of commodities transported and in their character.

The influence of this waterway in concentrating upon New York manufactured articles destined for export will be readily seen, and it is open to little doubt that the region penetrated by the Canal will offer an extremely favorable location for manufacturing industries of many kinds. This is especially true of manufactures of iron, steel and copper, particularly those for export, for the reason that the line of the Erie Canal will afford the most economical possible point of assemblage of raw materials and likewise afford the cheapest means of transit for the finished product to the seaboard at New York for export.

Will Help Iron Works.

The ore used in the iron manufacture in the Pittsburg region is now transported by water from Lake Superior mines to Cleveland and other Lake ports. It is then rehandled and transported by rail to the point of consumption. The fuel employed is subject, however, to but a short rail haul. The manufactured product, in whatever direction it may be sent, is subject to rail charges. In the case of iron working establishments located, say, at Syracuse, the ore would be brought direct by water from Lake Superior without breaking bulk, and without rehandling or additional rail charges. The fuel would require a considerable rail haul, but the aggregate of freight charges would in all probability be less in the case of Syracuse than in the case of Pittsburg. In the distribution of its product, Syracuse on the Erie Canal would have a very great advantage by reason of its direct water carriage, not only to all points upon the Atlantic Coast but also for shipments to the Pacific Coast and for export.

Similar conditions would prevail with relation to copper products, and a great variety of manufactured products, for consumption in the Eastern States and for export, could be made under the most economical conditions along the line of the Canal.

The Cheapest Highway.

The Canal would also, as pointed out in connection with the railroad situation, afford the cheapest possible highway for the movement of manufactured products from the Central West to New York City for water distribution from this point.

In conclusion, giving due consideration to the conditions outlined above, the important changes in the railroad rate structure which will follow the opening of the Panama Canal, the reversing of trade currents which have hitherto flowed to the westward, and the great increase in the eastward flow of traffic incident to the Erie Canal, it seems reasonable to predict that New York will, within the next few years, experience an enormous expansion of its commerce, become the seat of a great industrial development covering many classes of products not hitherto made in this city, and become the center of an immense export trade.

WHERE BIG INCREMENT IN VALUES WILL OCCUR

Mr. Morgenthau Points Out the Midtown District as the Most Notable Section of Real Estate Activity During the Coming Boom—Rule of Fashion in Light Manufactures.

THERE are two elements of interest in an interview with a man of achievement—the matured opinions it conveys and the glimpse of psychology it affords. What is the habit of mind, the scope of investigation, the method of constructive thought of a real estate operator engaged in large affairs?

The first thing that struck the reporter of this twenty-minute talk which Henry Morgenthau consented to give to the Record and Guide was the quality of the inductive reasoning by which Mr. Morgenthau supported his views and the readiness with which he translated his ideas into flawless close-knit speech. The pleasure taken in conversation marked by control of logic and command of expression is analogous to that derived from the production of an artist who is master of his medium. You begin by feeling assured that there will be no false note or touch, and you next give yourself up to undisturbed enjoyment.

His Versatility.

It was not until the talk was pretty nearly over that the sense of receptive gratification gave way to a comprehension of the varied and frequently anything but inspired sources of Mr. Morgenthau's premises, of the assimilation of dry economics and drier statistics, the detailed study of industry, commerce, finance, the alert and unremitting curiosity that had gone into the making of this survey of the real estate prospect in a great city of complicated activities. And presently came the realization that if all roads leads to Rome, all knowledge bears on real estate.

The average operator argues that New York can't stop growing and that growth will turn any loosely reasoned venture into a profit. If his practice were as bad as his philosophy—if he did not habitually look for initiative to the leaders in his profession—there would be more failures to record. However, the wisdom of his class is summed up in the epigram of a personage who some years ago startled the town with a meteorics series of purchases: "In buying New York real estate, you may be twenty-five (or was it thirty) per cent. wrong, and yet make money." Mr. Morgenthau doesn't belong to that school of thought.

Mr. Morgenthau, indeed, believes we are approaching the greatest real estate boom in the history of the city. The reasons he gave need not concern us; they are by this time common property, although they were not common property a year ago when Mr. Morgenthau foretold the present country-wide revival of business and its sequel within a reasonable space of time of an unprecedented activity in New York real estate. But he does not anticipate that the boom will cause a general advance in land values. On the contrary, the increment in prices, while tremendous in the aggregate, will be notably concentrated, differing in this respect from the effects of earlier booms.

New Territory for Settlement Soon.

"The new rapid transit will open up for settlement more land than can be occupied at once, or, indeed, for some years; and, moreover, there is reason to believe that the provision of transit facilities will hereafter tend to keep pace with the growth of the city. Immense stretches of land now isolated and, consequently, low priced, will be made available as sites for one and two family dwellings and for the common run of tenements and flats. This land will come into competition with that which already is adapted for such utilities. We may look for a readjustment of prices in all but the more expensive grades of residence sites. In certain quarters there will be a loss, in others a moderate gain, of value; but the average level of prices will be lower than that which has prevailed along the traditional lines of transit expansion.

"Formerly new transportation invested all the real estate tributary to it with a monopoly value. There was never enough transportation to introduce effective competition in land. In the future competition will be a regulating factor. Except at traffic junctions, monopoly value will inhere in natural advantages, such as fine outlook, congenial surroundings, light and air, rather than in the purely artificial factor of transportation."

Construction Work.

This turn of thought, it is evident, has interesting applications. It implies, for example, that there will be less vacant lot speculation than has usually developed in the past from new transportation. The profits will lie mostly in constructive work, the fitting of land for immediate use and the building of houses, rather than in the retailing of lots to non-productive speculators for a rise. Improvements will be encouraged on a large scale by moderate prices, advancing in response to actual settlement. The business of suburban development will be greatly modified in the direction of soundness and stability.

Influence of New Transit on Prices.

Mr. Morgenthau's remarks on the influence of the new transit on prices in the case of lower grade residence property served as an introduction to his main thesis, which was that the big increment in value during the coming real estate boom would be in the midtown district of Manhattan, the district devoted to retail and wholesale trade, light manufacturing, hotels, clubs and theatres. Any property centrally situted between, say, Twenty-eighth and Thirty-third streets, and between Forty-fourth and Fifty-ninth, will, in his opinion, share notably in this enhancement, as will also, and more particularly, all corner sites at the congested traffic centers between the upper and the lower of the crosstown streets mentioned. Other realty of exceptional prospects is that enjoying intrinsically valuable easements fronting on public squares or situated on Riverside Drive or on any of the wide avenues and streets adapted for costly apartments, residences, clubs and hotels—for the use of people who can afford unique prices for commodities that are coming to be so scarce in New York as are direct sunlight, good ventilation and a restful view.

An Interesting Thesis.

Remembering that some fifteen years ago Mr. Morgenthau had foreseen the demand for office space consequent upon the "trust movement" then beginning to attract attention, and that he had organized the first company with large financial resources to operate in real estate in the office building district, and having in mind also the fact that a good many observers think the midtown district already too much exploited, the interviewer was curious to learn how Mr. Morgenthau would develop this rather surprising thesis. An instructive array of economic facts the reporter expected as a matter of course, and he was not disappointed; but he was hardly prepared for the remarkably well-informed disquisition on art, education, literature, on social and political reform, on efficiency, engineering, on the ferment of new ideas in all branches of endeavor which occupied the larger part of the interview, and, indeed, constituted the most important element in Mr. Morgenthau's argument.

An Economic Transformation.

The local transit conditions that are centering the traffic of the metropolitan district in midtown Manhattan were referred to, as were also the changes in water and railway transportation which are bringing about a new era in the national and international carrying trade, an era of augmented prosperity for New York as a port and as a canal and railway terminal. The chief emphasis was laid, however, on the commercial value of the hegemony which New York has achieved in skilled handicrafts and in manufactures subject to the influence of fashion.

"The last few years have been characterized by an amazing degree of intellectual activity throughout the United States. This activity is traceable to several causes. Among them may be mentioned the growth of a wealthy leisure class, a class which hardly existed a generation ago, and which of recent years has turned toward cultural pursuits and social work rather than idle amusement. We have, of course, had a certain concentration of wealth in late years, and a consequent increase of demand for luxuries and the costlier works of art. But at the same time there has been a remarkable diffusion of material prosperity, partly because employment has become more regular under large-scale business organization, partly because of the advancement of agriculture as a profession. In other words, economic conditions have enabled a greatly increased proportion of the population to gratify its normal aspiration for self-education and intellectual entertainment. The demand for books and periodicals, the prosperity of the stage and the opera, the purchase of works of art, the attendance at colleges, universities and schools of every description—all point toward the same conclusion. ,

"While economic conditions have favored the development of intellectual activity, this activity has been raised to very high level by a complete revolution in our educational ideals and methods. Our entire educational system from kindergarten to university has been remodeled under the influence of German practice and theory, and as we know, the wonderful development of the German Empire is due fundamentally to the efficiency of its system of public instruction. Our system of education to-day provides at once for the highest degree of specialization in advanced study and for the simplest and briefest of elementary courses. Twenty years ago universities worthy of the name could be numbered on one hand, and these were confined to the Eastern States. To-day nearly all the Western States have fully equipped universities, capping a splendid system of common schools, normal schools and agricultural colleges. It is astonishing how much brilliant research work is being done by professors of international reputation in their specialties in States which twenty years ago had no such system of higher education.

The Popular Taste.

"Meanwhile, the Federal government and many of the States are spending millions of dollars in the maintenance of experts devoting their time to scientific investigation and in the distribution of popular knowledge through monographs, bulletins and reports. University extension courses, night schools, circulating libraries are additional aids to popular education. There probably never has been another age or country in which education has been so accessible to the generality of a people.

"I want to emphasize this point as strongly as possible, because it has a direct bearing on the real estate prospect in New York. This general diffusion of knowledge reacts upon the popular taste. The artistic sense is awakened. There is appreciation of skilled workmanship. Good taste is a common possession in quarters where it formerly did not exist at all. Respect for the dictates of fashion is stronger and far more universal than it was. This means that in all handicrafts and in all manufactures where art and fashion are controlling influences New York has a tremendous market advantage over other American cities. New York is the one great center of artistic and fashionable products, and it is so for very good reasons. The creative artists are here and the skilled workmanship. Besides, the manufacturing of the products influenced by fashion make irregular demands upon labor. They belong to the 'seasonal industries,' which employ operatives by the thousand at certain times of the year and few if any at others; and no other city has the variety of seasonal industries to provide employment for, say, needleworkers, the year through.

Labor and Values.

"I must not forget to add that, while our popular education has prepared the average purchaser to appreciate and demand good taste in what he buys, it has not supplied skilled workmen. For reasons partly connected with labor unionism, industrial training has been neglected in the United States and we are importing skilled artisans from Switzerland, Germany and England; but these countries also are flourishing industrially. The fact is that the supply of skilled labor the world over is short of the demand, and New York is supplying its needs only by paying the highest salaries paid anywhere. The pick of the world's creative talent in the industrial arts, have greatly en- in workmanship is to found here, and New York is consequently the originator of fashions not only for America, but in a growing number of things also for the world.

Expanding Market for Light Manufacturing.

"Have I made clear my reasons for believing that the big real estate increment of the near future must be in the midtown district? The extension of education, coupled with the development of artistic appreciation, the diffusion of material prosperity, and the concentration here of creative talent in the industrial arts, have greatly enlarged our market for the products of light manufacturing. Such manufacturing is centering in the midtown section near the wholesale and retail stores, which sell its products. Here also must be congregated the prinicpal hotels, clubs and places of amusement, for here is to be enjoyed the patronage of the out-of-town buyers and visiting shoppers.

Industrial Expansion.

"One thing more. The local market for the light manufactures of New York has been greatly expanded, partly by the introduction of large scale business organizations, partly by improved and cheaper transportation and means of communication generally, and partly by the growing prestige of the New York imprint. Our local market to-day covers a tremendous territory, extending for 500 miles in every direction and comprising some 30,000,000 of people, a territory which has more purchasing power than has all the rest of the country and which is growing with amazing rapidity in population and wealth."

Yes, there can be no doubt that the midtown district will experience some mighty interesting real estate developments in the not distant future.

Date for Barge Canal Opening.

State Engineer Bensel predicts that the enlargement of the Erie canal will be finished in the Spring of 1916, or about a year and a half after the opening of the Panama canal. The work is two-thirds done. The enlargement of the Erie canal will make it possible to bring barges, such as are in use on the Great Lakes, through to this port without breaking cargo. The principal terminals in this harbor will be at Spuyten Duyvil, Gowanus Bay and Newtown Creek. These will be equipped with warehouses operated by the State and with appliances for the load and unloading of boats.

THE SUCCESSFUL OFFICE BUILDING

It Should Pay Six or Seven Per Cent. Upon the Whole Investment—Why Some Office Buildings Pay Less—Dark Rooms Hurt Income.

By WILLIAM H. CHESEBROUGH

I HAVE been asked to write about office buildings in reply to the comments which have been made from time to time by other people to the effect that tall office buildings in New York City do not pay an adequate interest return. In my judgment the reasons are obvious. They embrace the following causes, one or more of which may well operate to destroy their productiveness:

Badly located.
Improperly planned.
Badly managed.
Built upon land, the cost of which has been excessive.
Built during an era of high construction cost.
Tall skyscrapers built upon interior plots (not corners) which, generally speaking, ought never to be built at all.
Wasteful methods of construction.
Inferior construction and arrangement of mechanical details.

We hear so many cases of important office buildings where the owner says the building only pays 4 per cent. It is my belief that no office building which pays less than 6 or 7 per cent. upon the entire cost of land and building, including architects' fees, carrying charges during construction, interest, taxes, etc., is a successful investment. It should be remembered that office structures, like every other kind of building, depreciate in value year by year. I estimate the depreciation in modern office structures to be at least 1½ per cent. per annum. If, therefore, a building is earning 6 per cent. net upon the total cost, it is really not paying more than 4½ per cent.

A number of rich institutions and individuals have erected office structures in New York, and have an many cases left the determination as to what should be built and how it should be built entirely to the architect selected. I have dealt with a considerable number of the large architectural firms of this city, and believe them to be as competent as any architects elsewhere. I greatly admire the artistic work of many of these firms. It is a fact, however, that not all architects who are given carte blanche by an owner to design and construct an office building are able to produce a structure which possesses all the elements of a commercial success.

The Architect's Responsibility.

If they draw a picture of the exterior elevation of the proposed building first, and then endeavor to fit the interior to that picture, the income producing quality of the building suffers in proportion to the extent it benefits if this method of procedure is exactly reversed. Probably no one will ever build an important office building and get it finished without seeing at least one or more minor details where it could be improved upon; but in my judgment a substantial proportion of the tall office buildings which have been built have been foredoomed to failure before completion because those responsible for their production did not realize what tenants demand in arrangement, light, and ventilation.

One of the important factors adverse to the success of many large office structures is the fact that they contain a very substantial percentage of dark office space, which, when rented, averages a low price, and which, moreover is likely to remain untenanted except during periods of great prosperity.

Targets for Tax Assessors.

Another factor which has operated greatly to reduce the net income from office structures has been the fact that whenever a prominent tall office building has been built it has immediately become a target for the tax assessor, and it is, in my judgment, undoubtedly true that no other class of property has been so harshly treated in the tax levy as have large office buildings. Where some of these structures have been built as pioneers in locations theretofore used for inferior purposes, the tax department has almost invariably singled them out for assessment to the maximum limit, making no allowance for the enterprise and courage of their projectors, nor for the benefit to the city through the general improvement in tax values in the surrounding location, which has resulted from their construction.

Office buildings, on the other hand, when properly located, planned, and managed, and built upon land which has not cost an excessive price, and which possess, owing to their situation and design, a maximum of light, sunshine and ventilation, have generally proved good investments upon their original cost. This applies especially to those where the cost of foundations has not been excessive and which have been built during a period when construction cost was comparatively cheap. There is further to be said in favor of office building investments that the repair and renewal account is not large in comparison with other forms of real estate investment, hotels for instance, and that they are not subject to the vicissitudes of fortune or to structural depreciation in anything like the degree that hotel properties are subject to.

These Are Successful.

During the last eleven years, the writer has built or caused to be built for syndicates formed and managed by him, nine large fireproof office structures on Manhattan Island, five of which were from eleven to twelve stories in height, and four higher, one being fourteen, one fifteen, one seventeen, and one thirty-two stories high. All of them were at least 90 per cent.

rented and occupied on the day they opened their doors for tenants, and all of them have produced revenue largely in excess of that estimated when they were projected.

Six of them have been sold at a profit ranging respectively from $200,000 to approximately $1,000,000 each, and the three which remain unsold could have been sold at a substantial profit; and have not been sold only because they were not for sale. All of the above, with the exception of two, were built upon land which cost a very moderate price per square foot when it was purchased. When land upon which an office building is to be constructed costs so much per square foot that in order to show a fair return upon the investment it is necessary to build an exceptionally high building, it is the general rule that the project is not a good one. There are, of course, exceptions to this rule, where the location is exceptionally desirable or commanding.

Restriction of Height.

Some of the buildings recently erected have raised a very strong question in the minds of the public generally as to whether it is not desirable to pass laws restricting the heights of buildings. Personally, I am not opposed in principle to a limitation of building heights, but urge only that the subject is of tremendous importance, and that if artificial limitation is to be substituted for the natural laws which have heretofore prevailed and which have resulted in building up the best real estate values in the world, most careful study and consideration of the subject should be given to it by a non-political commission of high-class experts, and that any legislation which may follow shall be based upon the recommendations of such a commission, empowered to consider every phase of the question.

MANHATTAN RETROSPECT AND PROSPECT

Activity in Construction, But Dullness in Real Estate Sales—1913 Is Expected to Be the Best Year For Real Estate Since 1907.

THE year 1912 has not been a prosperous one for the owners of Manhattan real estate. On the whole, the demand for real property, entirely for speculative or investment purposes, has not been active; and in those few localities where it has been active the activity has rarely resulted in advancing prices.

The total volume of real estate business transacted has been somewhat smaller than during the preceding year. Rental conditions have not been favorable in the largest half of the borough. In almost every locality there has been a larger or a smaller amount of overbuilding. This is not true, of course, of the older tenement house districts, in which building has practically ceased and where conditions have temporarily settled down into something like quiescence. But it is true of all the new districts and of all the old ones in which building is still active.

Conditions Found in Each District.

Washington Heights has not yet recovered from the spurt in new apartment-house construction which took place a couple of years ago. A sufficient number of new buildings have been erected on the West Side to give tenants an advantage over landlords. The new leasable space along Park avenue on the East Side is being absorbed with fewer concessions, but a good many vacancies exist.

In the new mercantile district the very large amount of construction which has taken place on Fourth avenue will hardly be digested within another year. Conditions on the West Side are somewhat better, but not sufficiently better to encourage any great amount of building in 1913. The same general condition prevails or will prevail in the financial district. An enormous addition to the capacity of the office buildings in that neighborhood is being made, which will assuredly not be so fully occupied until the expiration of some years.

Building Brisk, But Buying Slow.

The most singular characteristic of the past year has been the co-existence in Manhattan of the investment of a large amount of money in new construction with a dull and stationary real estate market. The year 1912 will rank as one of the most active seasons of building which the borough of Manhattan has ever seen. The plans filed call for an expenditure of about $125,000,000 upon about 750 buildings which has only been exceeded once or twice in the history of the borough; and of this large sum, about $90,000,000 has been invested in business buildings. The number of new tenements erected and their estimated cost has been almost precisely the same as in 1911. The whole increase over the year preceding amounting to almost $20,000,000, has been spent upon office and mercantile buildings, which has assumed a volume unprecedented in the history of the city. Ten years ago, when New York was obtaining the benefit the process of business centralization, characteristic of that period, it was considered a good year when $15,000,000 was spent for new office buildings. Last year $38,000,000 was spent, or rather was planned to be spent on this class of construction.

The Consequestial Abnormal Taxation.

The reason for this condition of dullness in real estate with activity in building is, of course, the increase in taxes. Real estate is assessed at its full value and at the same time taxes are very high. The tax bills of the average property owner are anywhere from fifty to 100 per cent. bigger than they were seven years ago. There has been no corresponding increase in income, except in a few favored localities. The consequence is that property owners have a tremendous inducement to improve all unimproved or under-improved real estate. They cannot afford to carry an expensive lot unless it is covered with a modern building. In this way the streets of Manhattan are being lined with more new buildings than are necessary, and both speculation and investment in real estate are discouraged.

Real Estate to Be Active This Year.

A general feeling exists that the coming year will prove to be a better one for the real estate market than any year since the panic of 1907; and this feeling seems to be based chiefly upon two grounds of encouragement. In the first place general business is undeniably more active and more remunerative than at any time during the past five years. It is pointed out that during these five years of dull business, the enormous growth of the new mercantile and retail districts has taken place. If the mercantile communities can appropriate such a huge amount of new construction during a period of comparative business depression, it should have no difficulty in taking care of the essential surplus of rentable space during a period of business prosperity and expansion. This argument probably contains a good deal of truth. No great accession of speculative or building activity are to be expected in the business districts during the next few months, but if the expansion of general business continues, conditions may soon be sufficiently improved to warrant a resumption of operations on a large scale.

Delayed Subway Construction Hurts.

The other reason for encouragement is derived from the anticipated effect of the definite settlement of the subway problem. It is true that the actual completion of the two new subway systems is still too remote to have any general effect either upon values or upon activity. In view of the heavy taxes speculators cannot afford to buy under-improved property and hold it for a period of five years or more. At present a speculative transaction is rarely profitable unless it is quickly consummated. But certain parts of the new system will soon be in operation. The Steinway Tunnel, for instance, will be operated within a year, and its operation will benefit not only certain parts of Queens but the whole 42d street district in Manhattan. The necessary improvements can also be made in the elevated roads in comparatively short time, which will better conditions and stimulate activity on both the East and the West Sides.

The improved employment of labor will have its effect in an increasing demand for a superior quality of residential accommodation. The Dyckman tract will be rapidly built over. A large amount of money will be invested in that neighborhood during the coming year. All that new influences may well produce a different mental attitude towards real estate speculation and investment.

Simply a State of Mind.

Dullness in any particular class of business is at bottom more than anything else a state of mind. Activity and prosperity is also fundamentally a state of mind. If only men with money to invest begin to believe once again in increases in real estate values, those increases will take place as a consequence of that belief. In the long run real estate is bound to increase in value in a city whose population is increasing at the rate of 175,000 a year, and whose business expands still faster.

OUTLOOK FOR REAL ESTATE IN THE BRONX

A Far-Reaching Industrial Development Expected to Stimulate the Market and Urge Builders to New Activities.

By Hon. CYRUS C. MILLER, Borough President of The Bronx

THE Borough of The Bronx is going rapidly through a transition period. Until recent times The Bronx was in every respect a suburb. Its people looked to Manhattan for employment and the varied enjoyments of city life. Now, without forgetting that it is a part of the Greater New York, it is developing into a city in itself; theatres and other places of amusement are building; banks, department stores, and manufactories are being established and the people are increasing in borough spirit and looking forward to a far-reaching industrial development within the borough. This is bound to have a favorable effect on real estate. Vacant spaces in residence sections will be improved with dwellings and some sections now occupied by dwellings will be given over to business. Other vacant places will serve as sites for manufactories, piers and terminals.

Real estate in The Bronx has been somewhat inactive in sales during the past year owing to the high taxes imposed because of the City's necessity to raise funds for rapid transit and other improvements. The building of apartments and tenement houses has gone on apace, as it is necessary for us to meet the incoming tide of immigration from other places to The Bronx. The building operations in the borough during the past year have amounted to $34,368,750, divided as follows:

	Number.	Cost.
Dwellings	344	$1,732,950
Apartment houses	603	25,022,500
Hotels	1	10,000
Stores	65	659,950
Office buildings	17	740,875
Factories	65	1,357,050
Schools	7	919,000
Churches	3	53,000
Theatres and concert halls	41	1,494,700
Miscellaneous buildings	155	2,378,725
	1,301	$34,368,750

The number of theatres and concert halls built in The Bronx during the past year shows that the people here intend to have their own community life. It is to be noted that there is a large disparity between the values of apartment houses and business houses built during the last year. This has been because The Bronx has not entered into the commercial development which is likely to come during the next ten years.

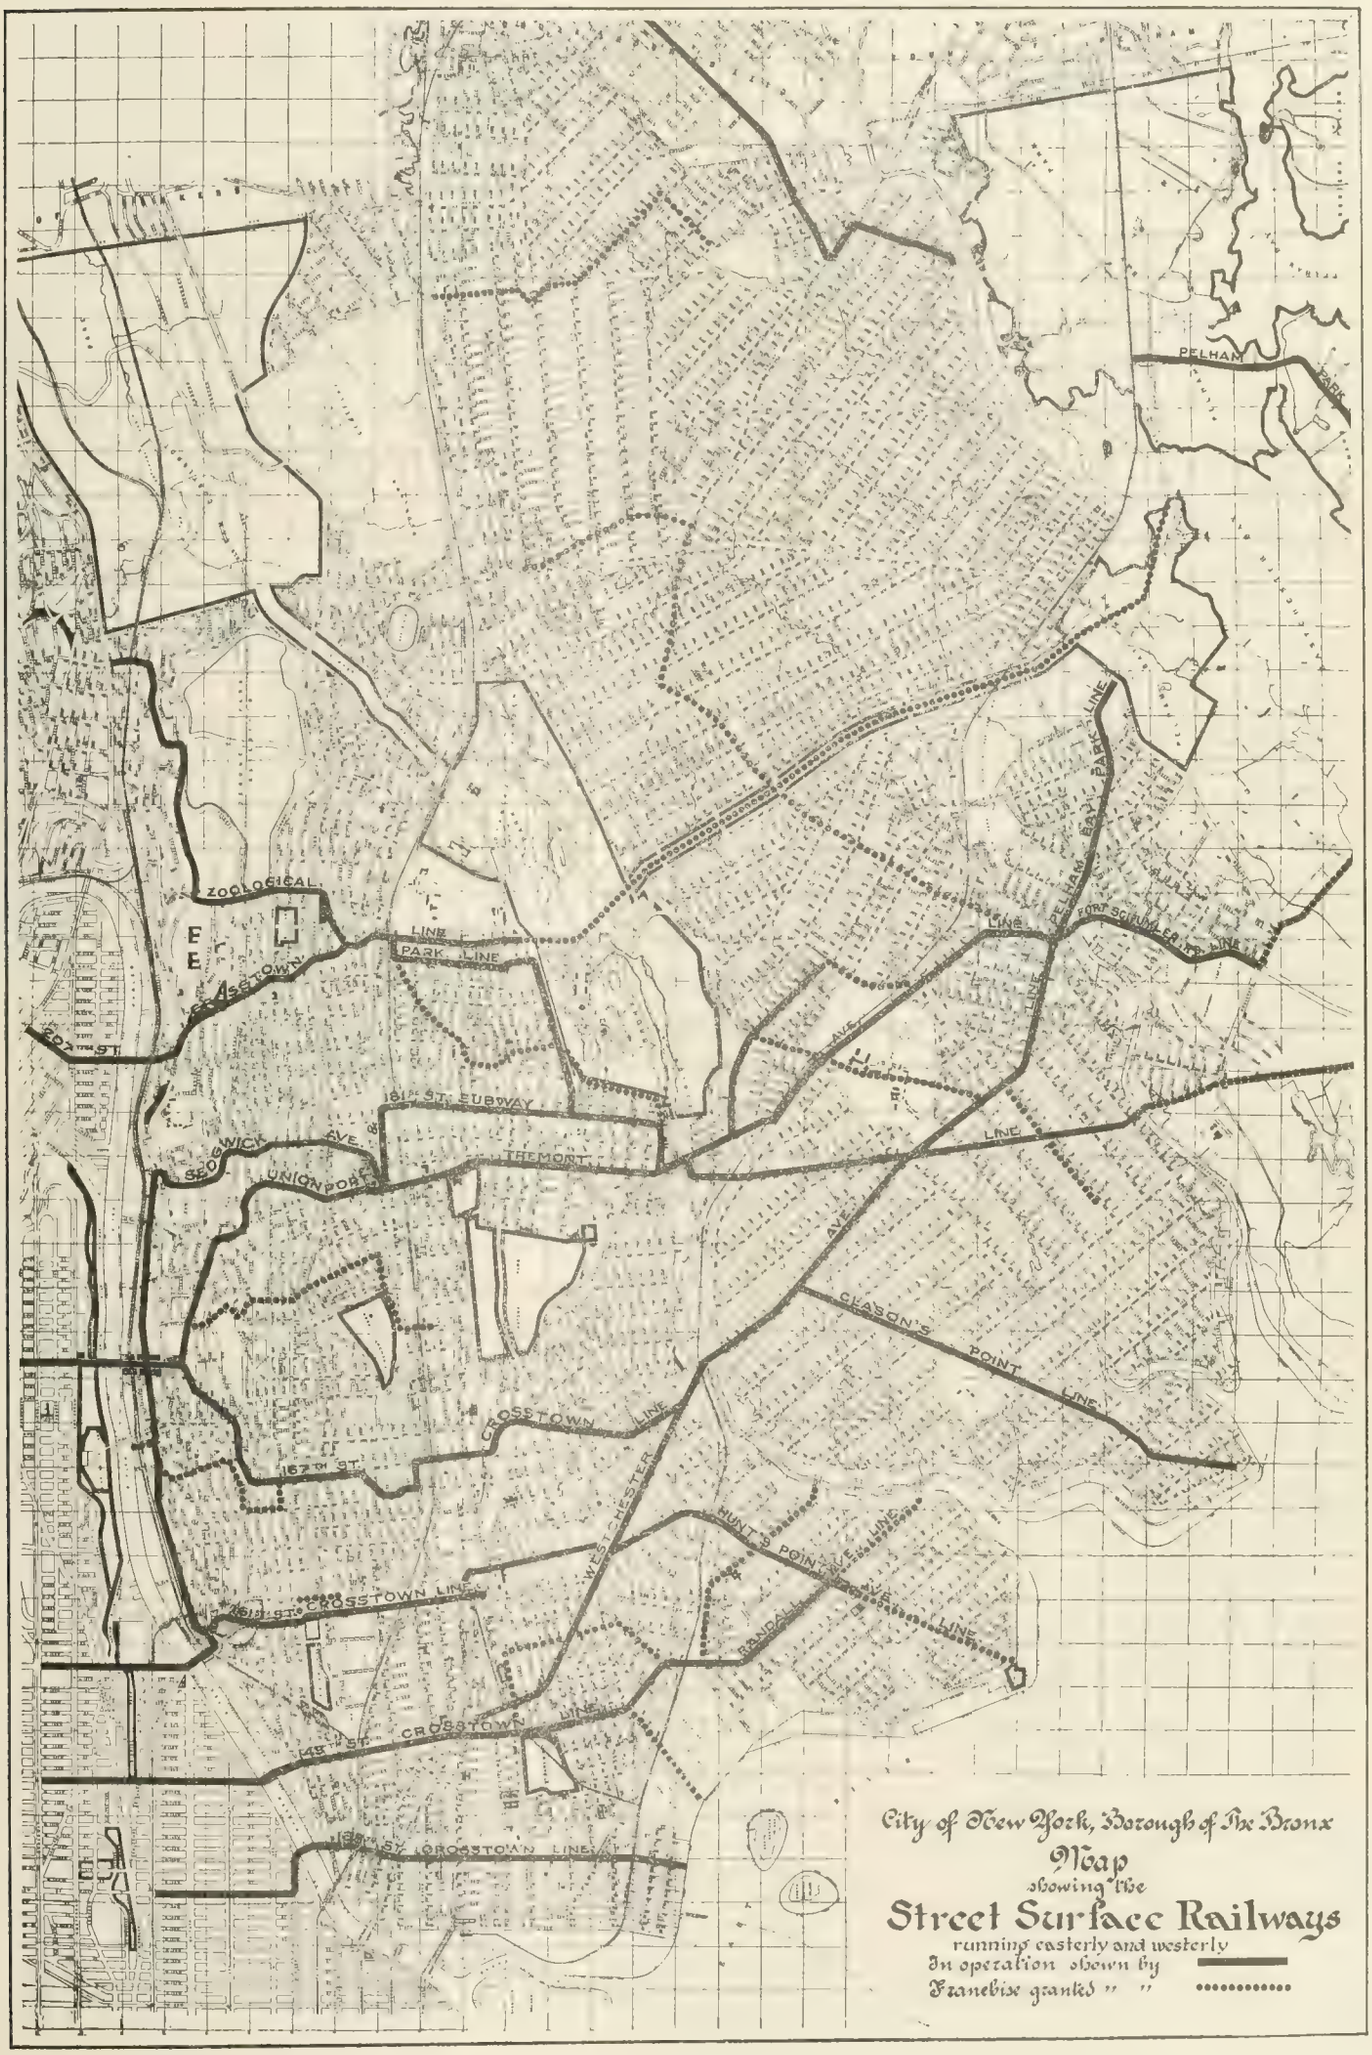
The Anti-Encroachment Victory.

This administration came into office on January 1, 1910. From that time until October constant troubles arose from the conflicting claims of the city government and its citizens over the question of encroachments of buildings beyond the street lines. This matter had been a source of contention with various city departments for some years and had not been met squarely. After extended study by me of the question from every viewpoint an order was issued in October to the effect that after November 15, 1910, no such encroachments. Storm signals immediately indicated local disturbances. Builders, owners, architects and others entered in a chorus of protest over the abrogation by the Borough President of privileges which had been exercised so long that they were considered rights. The order remained and went into force. Since that time no plans have been approved here showing such encroachments, and it is safe to say that if the builders had their own way they would not return to their former methods. A prominent builder told me recently that an apartment built under the new rule would sell for $1,000 more than one built under the old rule. The result will be that a strip of land from 5 to 8 feet in width on both sides of the hundreds of miles of streets in this borough, will be reclaimed for public use. The value of such reclaimed land is enormous. Also the lesson learned by private individuals that public streets are for public use will be of great value in the future.

HON. CYRUS C. MILLER.

Boosters for Real Estate.

As the streets of The Bronx were not congested except in a few cases, it was thought not necessary to remove all encroachments on a street at once, but rather to adopt the slower policy of compelling every new structure to be placed within the building lines. As the borough is being rebuilt rapidly and old buildings torn down to be replaced by new ones, in the course of time the entire borough will have undergone a change without the drastic action necessary in other communities, which results in so much expense to property owners. This was the first borough in which such action against encroachments was taken. President McAneny of Manhattan is deserving of great credit for applying the idea to the congested streets of that borough, where it was necessary to remove encroachments at once. The improved condition of such streets as Fifth avenue, 42d street, 34th street, Broadway and others, gives an object lesson to the people of the city of the great value of building back of the line. It has had the result of improving the appearance of those streets and increasing the renting values of stores. The effect in The Bronx will be lasting. The stand taken in this matter by the different boroughs of the city is indicated as follows:



Borough	Date Operative.	Ruling
Bronx	Nov. 16, 1910.	Encroach. prohibited
Queens	Sept. 11, 1911.	Encroach. prohibited
Richmond	Jan. 13, 1912.	Encroach. prohibited
Manhattan	Dec. 15, 1910.	Encroach. restricted
Brooklyn	Nov. 9, 1911.	Encroach. restricted

The outlook for real estate in The Bronx is exceedingly bright. There are many causes why this must be so: The nearness to completion of the Catskill aqueduct, bringing an almost limitless supply of the best water directly into the borough; the building of many new schools; the approaching completion of the Barge Canal, with three terminals in The Bronx, bringing raw materials and food supplies down the Hudson Valley, through the Harlem River and into The Bronx; the completion of the Cape Cod Canal and the Panama Canal, and the Hell Gate Bridge, connecting the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad from the South and East for freight and passengers, with the main line of the New York, New Haven and Hartford for the East and North. The development of our waterfront by an industrial railway around its south and east shores, connecting all the various railroads and docks and terminals in the borough will give us an impetus along commercial lines whose effect can hardly be estimated.

The Remarkable Shore Front.

The trend of immigration from Manhattan is northward. The phenomenal growth of The Bronx in the past ten years is not diminishing, but increasing. The development of The Bronx along commercial lines will bring more people to the borough. A short study of the shore front of The Bronx will convince anyone that this commercial development must come. From McComb's Dam Bridge around the shore, following the indentations to Pelham Bay Park is a shore front of 36 miles, much of it on water sufficiently deep for the largest ships. It is to be expected that the residents of Harlem will see the commercial facilities near at hand to be as convenient for Harlem as they are for the people of The Bronx. The two sections of the city will work together for their common development, eliminating the Harlem River as a dividing line. The ideal development for a city consists of docks and terminals along the waterfront, factories next to them, and dwellings next to them. This will be the form of development within the section of the city composed of Harlem from 110th street north, taken together with the Borough of The Bronx. In Harlem there are 800,000 people, among them many highly skilled laborers. In The Bronx there are upwards of 500,000 people of the same kind. Two subway lines will run directly through the populous sections of Harlem to and through the East Bronx, where the commercial development is expected, so that the residents of Harlem will be within a few minutes' ride of the manufactories of The Bronx. The prime requisites for manufactories are cheap raw materials, railroad and shipping facilities, and good labor supply. All of these will be had within the territory named, to a surprising amount. In addition to this, the East Bronx has been laid out with many broad streets, 80 and 100 feet wide, which will give room for the people and traffic yet to come.

During the past year the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has come to a practical agreement with the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for the operation of the new lines now building by the city. One of such lines is to be used in combination with the Ninth Avenue Elevated Railroad and the Lexington Avenue Subway, which are to meet at 162nd street and River avenue and proceed up Jerome avenue to Woodlawn Road. The eastern branch of the Lexington avenue subway is to cross 138th street in The Bronx to Southern Boulevard, run up Southern Boulevard to Westchester avenue and thence run east along Westchester avenue as an elevated structure to Pelham Bay Park. The Third Avenue Elevated Railroad is to be third-tracked so as o give additional rapid transit facilities.

Crosstown Trolley Lines.

In order that our dwellers in The Bronx may avail themselves of the commercial facilities of the East Bronx many crosstown trolley lines have been opened in The Bronx running east and west, so that the residents of the west side may be within a short ride of their work on the east side. These crosstown trolleys likewise will serve as feeders to the north and south rapid transit lines running through the borough, so that hardly a quarter square mile of the entire Bronx will be without immediate connection with rapid transit lines.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment has become impressed with the necessity for many more schools in The Bronx to meet the needs of our rapidly growing population, and it is expected that appropriations for more schools will be made within a short time and the building of them begun at once thereafter. One new school has just been completed; three more buildings and three additions to present buildings, which additions will contain 63 classrooms, are now in course of erection. Three more buildings are authorized and will be begun as soon as possible, and negotiations are started for eight more and for five additions to present buildings, to increase their capacity by 70 class-rooms the building of all of which will probably be authorized in a short time.

A Public Market for Moderate Prices.

The wholesale terminal market for farm products which I have projected for The Bronx is progressing favorably. It is designed to be a union market so that loaded cars from all railroads can run into it. Here retailers from Harlem and The Bronx can get supplies cheaply and directly. Public opinion must be educated to favor such a large proposition before it can be undertaken. The plan is a new one in this country and public opinion turns slowly, but I expect that actual building will be taken up during the first half of the year 1913. This will be a great boon to dwellers in The Bronx, and consequently to real estate.

To sum up, I believe that the coming year will see a marked change for the better in real estate conditions in The Bronx.

BROOKLYN WAITING AND EXPECTANT

Ready Buyers For Small Dwellings on Transit Lines— Real Estate Generally Marketable Only at Reduced Prices

By CECIL C. EVERS, Vice-President of the Lawyers Mortgage Co.

THE real estate market, like other markets, passes automatically through various stages, at more or less regular intervals; periods of great activity, nearly always carried to excess, are followed by others of stagnation, accompanied by diminished earnings, necessitating a readjustment of values which is evidenced by the cancellation of equities that have ceased to exist, by the reduction or extinction of third and sometimes even of second mortgages, first mortgages also being scaled down to a proper proportion to new values.

Following on several years of very great activity, Brooklyn real estate has been undergoing since the year 1908 a readjustment of values or liquidation, which may be considered as approaching its termination in the year 1912.

In normal times foreclosures in Brooklyn average about $2,000,000. In the year 1908 these were about $7,000,000, and in the years 1909, 1910 and 1911 the average was between $10,000,000 and $11,000,000. In the present year these have been about $8,000,000, showing a downward tendency; which is emphasized by the fact that they amounted to nearly $4,750,000 in the first half of the year, as against a little over $3,250,000 in the second half. This showing would tend to indicate a decided improvement in the general condition of real estate for the year 1913.

One of the noticeable features of the past year has been the difficulty experienced in finding purchasers for investment properties in most sections of the city, except at very reduced prices. Renting, however, has shown considerable improvement; vacant apartments have filled up and the number of vacancies throughout the city have been greatly reduced.

A Ready Market for Small Dwellings.

One exception to the inactivity in the selling market has been in the case of the small one-family houses within easy reach of transportation, of which so many have been recently built. These, where well located and properly constructed, have found a ready market at good prices, showing that they meet a popular demand. Apartment houses erected during the past year have been much harder to market, though they have rented so readily that builders in a great many cases have been able to carry them through the year without selling them.

Adverse Circumstances.

The lack of buyers for all except small houses is largely accounted for by two principal causes: First, the steady increase in taxes, due to the growth of city expenditures, and the uncertainty as to whether there is to be any limit to this increase; secondly, the delays which have taken place in preparing and letting the contracts for the construction of the dual transportation system, and the hesitation on the part of the investors and operators to accept as assured any system on which work is not actually begun.

On account of the known tendency of all land to increase in value, whilst all buildings depreciate, the Borough of Brooklyn has felt this increase of taxes more than other boroughs, by reason of the low value of the land as compared with the cost of the buildings erected on it.

The value of new buildings in Manhattan and even in The Bronx is seldom greatly in excess of that of the land on which they are erected. In the case of old buildings, the land nearly always exceeds the value of the buildings. The result is that in the latter boroughs and in normal times property as a whole does not depreciate in total value, except where there is some change of utilization going on, such as has occurred in the downtown Broadway commission section.

A reasonable increase in taxation where the value of the land and buildings is well balanced, where rents are increasing, or at least established for a number of years by long leases, does not work anything like the hardship on property owners which it does in Brooklyn, where so many buildings exceed very greatly in value that of the land they cover, resulting in what is known (especially in apartment house and tenement property) as "investments of diminishing value," frequently accompanied by diminished rentals.

Railroad Flats Hard to Rent.

In this borough this condition is intensified by the serious reduction in the rentals of the older type of "railroad" flat, of small units of size (from 25 to 30 feet), due to the competition of more modern buildings erected in the past few years on plots of a unit of frontage of from forty to sixty feet in width and offering accommodation more concentrated in planning and hence more convenient for tenants. Furthermore, the older types of two-family houses, four rooms deep, erected in blocks, where some of the rooms have no communication with the outer air, have been largely superseded by the small one-family house, two or three rooms deep, offering privacy, better accommodation, and all outside rooms, at but slightly increased cost.

Mortgage Money Plentiful.

Mortgage money has been quite plentiful in the last year, though the total amount of loans was slightly reduced from that of the previous year, being about $95,000,000 in 1911 and about $85,000,000 in 1912. Until the last week or two there has also been a tendency towards lower and firmer rates, and it is to be hoped that general financial conditions will be such that by the early part of 1913 these conditions will continue.

The volume of building in the past year has been between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 in excess of that of the previous year. The amount in both these years was moderate, being about $31,000,000 in 1911 and $37,000,000 in 1912, as compared with an average of $48,000,000 from 1906 to 1909, and a total of $64,000,000 in 1907.

If the contracts for the new transportation systems are let and work started in the early part of 1913, and especially if this could be accompanied by some assurance that there will be a proper reduction of assessed values on property which has generally depreciated in earning capacity, and hence in value; there is no doubt but that there will be a general revival of activity in real estate, accompanied by a readjustment and increase in values in those locations which are to receive the benefits of new transportation facilities. This, of course, provided no complications or financial disturbances due to European or other conditions intervene.

Waiting for the Dual System.

Brooklyn has never had any adequate system of rapid transit; the prevailing low land values in many sections are due to this condition. Hence the importance to its future of the dual system, which promises to raise values and increase their stability by adding greatly to the convenience of access of the territory to be served. Even since the electrification of the elevated railroads, these have been so crowded and of comparatively slow speed, especially on those lines which run at the street level after leaving their elevated structures, that the borough has been greatly handicapped in this respect. The subway communicating with the Flatbush avenue terminal of the Long Island Railroad, though it has not as yet brought about any great amount of new building in the territory it traverses, has had a decided effect on the value and rentals of properties within easy reach; its influence, moreover, has been greatly felt in those residential neighborhoods served by other lines acting as feeders to it, and to which the time necessary for communication with other boroughs has been materially reduced as the population increases.

BUILDING DEMAND AS SHOWN BY REMOVALS

General Expansion Among Business Houses Already Occupying Space From Union Square South. Commercial Shifting Less in 1912 Than in 1911.

By W. J. MAXWELL, Service Manager of the Trow Directory Company

I HAVE been asked to answ r the following questions:

1—What kind of tenant is moving into the downtown mercantile section?

2—What kind of tenant is moving into the new uptown commercial districts?

3—Is there any expansion noted by rentals during the last year among those business houses?

4—Do your statistics show a need for more commercial buildings north of Union Square and south of 42d street?

5—What is the general commercial character, if any, of the new 42d street zone?

6—How do commercial removals during 1912 compare with those of 1911?

Keeping Tabs on Leases.

To fully answer these questions it is necessary to state just how I arrive at my deductions. We have a staff of investigators constantly following up removals of all kinds so that we have in our office a complete file constantly kept up to date of every tenant in the city and we know when he moves out and when another tenant moves in. My answers to these questions are, therefore, based upon actual removals during the last year.

As to what kind of tenant is moving into the downtown mercantile section I find that there was a marked tendency among the textile trades to halt in their northward march. There is, however, a constantly increasing demand from small manufacturers to move into the old sections whese textile and general merchandise interests formerly were located, but during the last year, for one cause or another, there was not so great a tendency on the part of these business interests to shift northward. Owners down there are doing more alteration work to accommodate old and new customers, and some are actually rebuilding to keep the jobbing and general wholesale merchandise trade that still remains.

The Midtown Central Demand.

With reference to the character of business that is moving into the uptown, or as well call it central midtown, we find that in the district between Fourth and Seventh avenues from 15th street north to 34th street, the greatest removals have been among light manufacturing interests such as shirtwaists, cloaks and suits, women's dresses, skirts, silks, velvets, ribbons, etc., dry goods, laces and embroideries, neckwear for men and women and upholstery goods.

So great has been the demand for rentable space in modern buildings in that section of the city during the last year that we consider it as already permanently established as the new business districts for these particular lines.

The next question asks whether there has been any expansion noted among tenants who moved into the new midtown central zone during the last year. Most emphatically yes. In tnis district there has been a tremendous demand for larger space from those interests which left the old business districts, one, two, three or four years ago. And this brings up the question of tendency. Many persons think that this trend is continually toward the north. Our reports show that having established itself in the midtown central section, this class of trade is reversing the general order of things and is moving southward. From 14th street, between Third avenue and Sixth avenue, the greatest expansion at the present day is taking place. The reasons for this are hard to place, but the commercial exodus northward in recent years has had a tendency, doubtless, to lower rents and houses already established in the boundaries named are more inclined to move into larger quarters in the district where they have always been located than to shift uptown, for the very simple reason that they are in close proximity to the new commercial centers and the new transportation terminals and enjoy lower rents.

Where the Greatest Expansion Is.

Generally classified, I find the greatest expansion among specialized business in that district to have been as follows: wholesale clothiers, raincoat manufacturers, paper box manufacturers, knit wear makers and wholesalers, hosiery jobbers, wholesale hats and caps, cap manufacturers, manufacturing furriers, wholesale millinery goods, men and women's underwear manufacturers, jobbers, and distributors, manufacturing tailors, women's hat manufacturers, feathers, fancy leather goods, manufacturing and distributing and human hair goods manufacturers.

As to whether there is a need for more commercial buildings north of Union Square, I cannot authoritatively answer that question. It must be borne in mind, however, that the filling up process is now under way in all classes of commercial buildings, but there is always a large shifting population both residential and commercial in Manhattan. I do not believe that New York is over-built, as a whole. There may be a plethora of a certain type of structure in a given center, but new and modern buildings are rented sooner or later at slight, if any, concessions.

There is a big future for new building construction on the East Side from 10th street north to 34th street, and the great West Side is still, you might say, undeveloped. West Hudson street probably will continue to be a great candy manufacturing, grocery and warehouse district as far north at 38th street, but from there up, a tremendous development is bound to take place as the 42d, 34th, 33d and "upper 20's" districts xepand toward the Pennsylvania station.

Building Interests Concentrating.

And this leads me to the fifth question: the character of the new business centering in the 42d street zone. Here is where the big suburban real estate mart of the Metropolitan district is being established. Every new office building that goes uptown is being rented fast either by real estate and allied interests, such as building material, including brick, steel, stone, cement and building specialties, and household furnishing establishments as well, including rugs and carpets, and art goods. Into this district the printing interests seem to be moving, although the tendency is not yet general. But there is another strong factor leading the way into a part of the new 42d street district, and that is the concentration of architects and allied interests in the vicinity of the Grand Central Terminal. The new architects' building at Park avenue and 40th street, standing next to the Terminal building, occupied largely by mason material supply distributors, contractors, stone, marble and other building material supply concerns, is a strong drawing card for the neighborhood.

The last question is a simple one to answer. The number of removals reported during 1912 are considerably fewer than were those in 1911, and you can draw your own conclusions as to whether that means a lessening of demand for new building construction or whether it is attributable to the policy of expansion to which I have heretofore referred.

—At the annual meeting of the Heights Taxpayers' Association representing the West Bronx from High Bridge to Kingsbridge, the following officers were elected for 1913: Albert E. Davis, president; T. Riordan, first vice president; Geo. F. Kalle, second vice president; P. J. Murphy, secretary; A. V. Overbaugh, treasurer, and Chas. F. Kalle and James P. Haight, executive committee.

THE QUEST FOR NEW UPTOWN BUILDINGS

A Commercial Need That Has Only Recently Been Realized by Building Investors, and How the East Twenty-Third Street Association is Helping to Meet It.

By ROBERT B. MOYER
Secretary and Manager of the E. W. Bliss Buildings, Inc.
Secretary of the East Twenty-Third Street Association.

IN the first place, I do not pose as an authority on the subject of the realty needs of the Middle East Side, but during the decade just closing I have been won over from an attitude of casual interest in the development of the Middle East Side as a new commercial and manufacturing center to an out and out enthusiast in its future.

Is there a need for new uptown manufacturing buildings? I can speak from my own experience as a renter of commercial and industrial space when I say that there is not only a need, but a very real demand for suitable buildings where finished articles can be placed on display by wholesalers and jobbers and for buildings in which manufacturing, both light and heavy, can be carried on. There are continual demands for rentable space from large concerns doing business as jobbers, commission men or manufacturers downtown who want to move uptown so as to be near the new wholesale and importing centers of Manhattan island. So far as manufacturing buildings are concerned, this need is not now being met in any degree worthy of the constantly increasing demand, and I firmly believe that there is an excellent opportunity for investors specializing in building construction to study this situation with profit.

This city has been pushing steadily northward ever since the Dutch rigged up their little church and bowling alley at the Battery. Until the last few years it has been the custom to crowd as much of the island's business population into the narrowest strip of land possible. The result has been congestion of population and confusion of traffic until Father Knickerbocker in plain self-preservation had to let out a few more holes in his belt to expand. The process of filling up is now in progress.

Most Remarkable Development.

The development of the great new business section in and immediately contiguous to Fourth avenue between Seventeenth and Thirty-fourth streets is the most remarkable development in New York realty that has ever taken place. The erection of modern loft buildings of a high class has been very rapid and renting agents show that the space has been gobbled up almost as fast as it was made available. Now, then, is there any reason why this development should be concentrated only in Fourth avenue? Is New York going to repeat the mistakes of the past and converge and congest its commercial and industrial population into as narrow a margin as possible when land values are comparatively cheap and opportunities exist on every hand for spreading out? I hate to think so.

Making Realty Investors See.

It is the purpose of the East Twenty-third Street Association to make realty investors see the opportunities that exist in the Middle East Side. We are following out a definite, concerted plan to bring these opportunities to the attention of just such a class of investors as the Record and Guide reaches, namely, the men who are looking about for desirable sites to develop, especially where there is an actual need such as exists in this part of the city today.

Low insurance rates, better natural light, wider and more regularly laid out streets, fireproof buildings designed to meet the special requirements of prospective tenants according to the character of goods they handle or manufacture, elevator service and modern appliances, especially in the matter of better and more sanitary toilet accommodations for employes are bound to prevail sooner or later against all influences to hold given lines of business in the old commercial districts. Give a manufacturer the light, airy, sanitary loft building he requires, that will insure him freedom from annoyance from the tenement, building, health, factory and a hundred and one other city inspectors, and he will welcome the opportunity to move uptown even though he has to pay a little higher rent.

Elements of the Proposition.

Let the prospective building investor consider that the East Side is a bully labor center; let him consider that it is entirely logical for the retail and the wholesale and the manufacturing interests to be comparatively close together, geographically; let him consider the saving in time and wear and tear effected by trucking his wares through broad, well paved streets, regularly laid out, as against the narrow, cross-currented canyons of the lower part of the city, and he cannot doubt but that there is a good field for investment on the Middle East Side of the city.

We as an association have been urging the city to dispose of some of its great realty holdings in this part of the city and turn them over to private owners for commercial development. The land can be sold at a very good profit to the city and still permit bargain hunters a chance to take a profit from property that is ready for immediate development and improvement. This would not only put millions in the city treasury but also add greatly to the taxables of that part of the city. The development of the East River water front at points where small West Indian and coast steamers and traffic with all the prosperous New England towns and cities can be handled easily and profitably right at the very doors of manufacturing interests which get their raw materials either from down east or from the Great Lakes region is another matter in which we are deeply interested. With the completion of the Erie Canal extensions slow freight facilities via the Harlem River ship canal and Hudson River will be vastly improved and should have an important influence on the middle East Side.

Wholesale Center of the Future.

The belief is general among many students of realty improvements that the section from Twenty-third street to Thirty-fourth street, between Madison avenue and Third avenue, is destined to be one of the greatest wholesale centers in the city, if not the greatest. The exodus from downtown can only be temporarily checked. The signs all seem to point to the development of the section between Third and First avenues in the tens, twenties and lower thirties as a great manufacturing center. Recent improvements along this line are typified by the new structures of the group of E. W. Bliss buildings at Second avenue and Twenty-third street, the Schlegal building at Second avenue and Twenty-second street and the new Bush Terminal building and the Frankel building farther north not to mention other modern manufacturing buildings of a high order.

Advantages of the Middle East Side.

There is a need that nowhere is being met, so far as I have been able to ascertain, and that is in supplying the very small manufacturer with desirable space. The tenement and building laws are very strict about the conversion of tenement houses into manufacturing establishments, and the result is that a great many new loft building managers in the Middle East Side are constantly besieged with applicants for small rooms in which to carry on light manufactlring work. The demand is there, and it has seemed to me that in the hands of specialists buildings specially designed to meet it might be made to pay fairly well.

That is the building situation in the Middle East Side as I see it, and as I judge it from my own personal experience I firmly believe that a prosperous future awaits this part of the city, and I confidently look forward to a big building movement in that section within the next few years.

The Subway Negotiations.

During the past week the Public Service Commission for the First District has been holding daily conferences with representatives of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and those of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company for the purpose of completing the contracts for the operation of the dual system of rapid transit, so that the statutory hearing on the forms of contracts may be held as soon as possible. These contracts were prepared by counsel for the commission last September, and since that time the representatives of the companies concerned and the commission have been carefully going over details of the instruments and harmonizing points of difference between the city and the corporations. It is expected that the contracts will be so far perfected that the commission this week can adopt a resolution calling for a public hearing. Two weeks' notice by advertisement must be given of such hearing, after which the contracts will be put in permanent form and forwarded to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment for its approval. The contracts will involve the expenditure by the city and the companies for the construction and equipment of the new lines amounting to more than $300,000,000.

WILL THE LITTLE JOBBER FOLLOW UPTOWN?

What the Character of the Downtown Commercial Transformation Really Is —The Problem of Accommodating the Light Manufacturing Establishment.

By F. K. ANDERSON, Vice-President, National 5 and 10 Cent Store Magazine.

YOU have asked me to give my views of the probable trend of the small jobbing trade in the matter of building accommodation and what I have found to be the character of tenant moving into the old district in the lower part of Greenwich village. In the first place, the small jobber is following the big commission house uptown, and in the second place the quarters vacated by him are being taken up with light manufacturing establishments uptown. A year ago the light manufacturer came in where vacancies occurred. Today the small jobber is being driven out by these interests. And here begins a startling story of the rise and fall of commercial renting values uptown and downtown.

Stepping back a decade we find the distributing business centered in certain well defined districts with lower Broadway as the backbone of the drygoods, silk, lace, millinery and general merchandise zone. Those were the days when the retail shopping center was at 14th street, and 23d street was the bonton bazaar zone. That was before the auto and the subway became practical, commonplace entities in city life. The wholesale districts clung close to the main postoffice station at Park Row, because mail distribution was slower then and the big railroads dumped the Western buyer along the lower end of West street, a step or two from the big houses.

Today the mail is shot by pneumatic tubes to all sections of the city, and much of Manhattan's population is also shot through tubes from the wholesale to the retail districts, and from there by tunnel and tube to the manufacturing plant itself a dozen miles into the heart of East Jersey. The Western manufacturer's representative and the Canadian, Pacific Coast, Southern and Down East buyers are dumped in a heap in the center of the new jobbing district and do not have to take a street car to reach their hotels, theatres, clubs or trains back home.

Must Keep With the Push.

Here is your answer to the question whether the little jobber will follow the big fellow uptown. He's got to, in order to keep in business any length of time. Of course, there are some big houses like A. Steinhardt & Bros., Samstag & Hilder Bros. and Dieckerhoff, Raffloer & Co., not to mention houses like Claflins, Butler Bros. and Charles Broadway Rouse, who still hold out in the downtown districts. They can affor dto be independent, but the little jobbers, those who are not so well known, are at present about equally divided between nestling close to the big long-established giants of their trade or hiking uptown to be near the new transportation terminals and the new, modern buildings and more progressive, though younger, houses.

But we must not lose sight of the fact that not all of downtown commercial New York is moving uptown. There is a big army of old-established houses which has not yet shifted. There is the glassware district in West Broadway Greenwich, and there are the importers of novelties heretofore mentioned who have remained pat, and then there is the big art pottery and drygoods trade. Why do they stay downtown when so many advantages are being offered them uptown?

As a matter of fact, they were not content to remain downtown until the last year when owners of buildings in the old district found themselves confronted with two distinct problems: they would have to provide their present trade tenants with better buildings, or they would have to let the light manufacturers from the East Side crowd into the old ones at lower rents. Some of the owners decided to tear down and rebuild on their tenants' plans buildings especially designed to meet the particular requirements of the class of trade they represented.

Others Are Standing Pat.

New building construction is the only way realty owners in the downtown sections can hope to keep the jobbers and commission men in the textile and allied trades in the old districts. There must be enough of these specialty buildings erected to firmly establish the character of the neighborhoods to be developed because the East Side light manufacturer is determined to creep into the new territory with its assurance of future subway connection with every part of the city and outlying sections, and they are willing to occupy the old lofts and showrooms vacated by the commission men and jobbers. When this element strikes into any old-established mercantile district, up go insurance rates, and this makes necessary the establishment of annexes in other parts of the city.

Leasing Annexes.

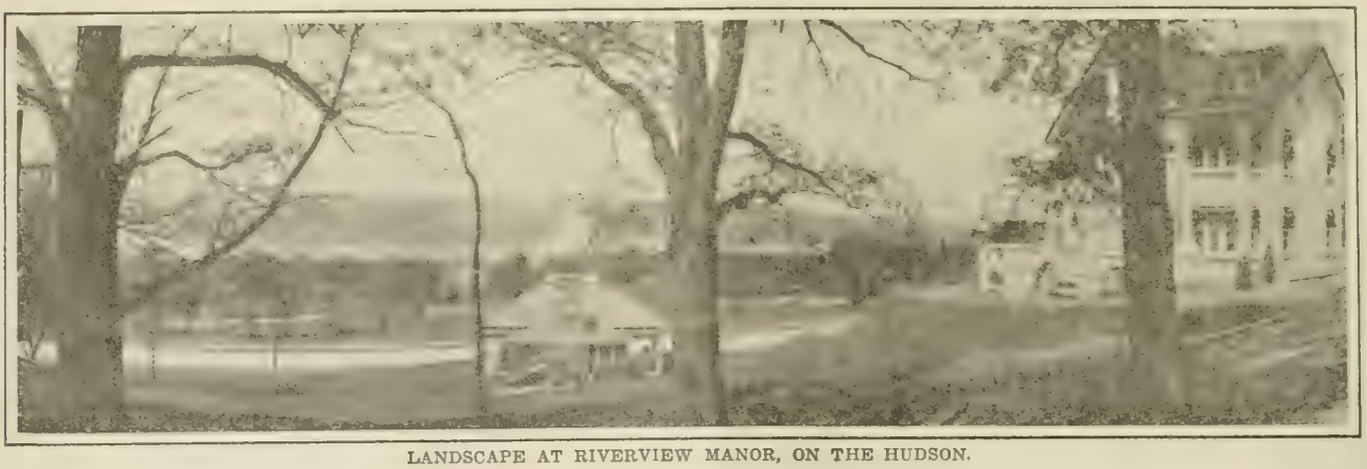
Some startling instances of the tendency on the part of important jobbers and commission houses to lease annexes at widely separated sections of the city to avoid the constantly increasing fire risk and consequent advancing rates, are shown in the case of the H. B. Claflin Co., Calhoun & Robbins, Chas. Broadway Rouse, Frederick Vietor and Achilles, Lord & Taylor (wholesale), and practically every big jobber in the business. Even the uptown department stores, crowded as they have been by manufacturing establishments creeping up to their back doors, have been compelled to seek numerous annexes for their reserve stock in different parts of the city.

This runs up the renting account on the books of jobbing houses, and there is a general protest against conditions which make this additional expense necessary, but with almost total absence of sprinkler equipped and otherwise modern commercial structures in the commercial district there has been no alternative but to distribute jobbing stocks in different and widely separated sections of the city.

Most of the available annexes downtown are not suitable, because they are old, flimsy and far from fireproof buildings, as compared with the modern, fireproof and sprinkler equipped buildings on the upper East and West Sides.

My conclusion is, therefore, that there is a good demand among general merchandise, glassware, imported novelties, light machinery, pottery, domestic and importing grocery, woodenware and printing trades for bigger and better buildings downtown. The struggle is on to maintain the supremacy of the lower West Side of the city as a commercial district over the aggressive efforts of the East Side light manufacturing concerns to encroach upon the new domain with its promised quick transportation facilities. The owners of property in those districts can check the upward march of their tenants if they care to make the investment, but if they continue to maintain the air of indifference they have shown in the past they will have to be content in the future with a different class of tenant, bringing greater wear and tear upon their properties and paying lower rents themselves being less permanent.

Generally speaking, only the silk and woolen interests have moved uptown as a trade. Can the realty investors get together in time to prevent other trades from shifting?



Hearings on "L" Extensions.

The Public Service Commission has selected Friday, January 17, as the date for hearings on the certificates for the extensions and third tracking of the existing elevated lines of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company in Manhattan and The Bronx and of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company in Brooklyn and Queens.

The Interborough certificate authorizes it to construct and equip at its own expense a three-track extension of the Third avenue line from Pelham and Third avenues, a two-track extension of the Ninth avenue line from 157th street, a two-track extension of the Second avenue line from a point between 58th and 60th streets across the Queensboro Bridge, and a two-track extension of the Third avenue line from about 143d street to a connection with the West Farms division of the present subway.

The franchise for these extensions is to be for eighty-five years. One-half of the net profits of the elevated lines, with the extensions, in excess of the average annual earnings of the existing roads for the two years ending June 30, 1911, shall be paid to the city as compensation for the extensions, less the rental paid to the city for the additional tracks under the third tracking certificate.

The third tracking certificate permits the Manhattan Elevated Railway Company to complete its third tracks on the Third, Sixth and Ninth avenue elevated lines. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit certificate provides for tracks on the Broadway, Fulton street and Myrtle avenue lines, and for the extension of the Broadway line from Crescent street along Jamaica avenue to Grand street, Jamaica; of the Fulton street line from Liberty avenue to Lefferts avenue, Queens, and of the Brighton Beach line, already referred to.

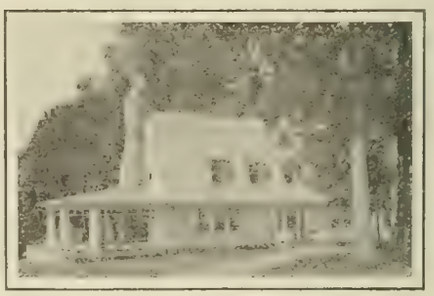
ECONOMIC CAUSES OF THE SUBURBAN MOVEMENT



Attitude of City Governments Toward Congestion and New Sanitary Ideas are Important Influences—Rapid Transit—Large-Scale Suburban Developing.

By WILLIAM HERBERT.

A GREAT many indications point to the fact that during the next twenty-five years New York is destined to enjoy a wholy unprecedented suburban growth. At the end of that time a very much larger proportion of the population than at present will be living under distinctly suburban conditions. Considering the relatively slow suburban development of the past in and about New York, this prediction may seem to be hazardous; but it is justified by a careful consideration of the social, economic and engineering conditions which will hereafter determine the manner of life of the population of large cities. Those conditions have of recent years changed in certain essential respects. They are destined to change still more radically during the next quarter of a century, and the tendency of all these changes will be to distribute the urban population over larger stretches of territory. They will dominate the development of practically all the large cities of the world; but their effect will be peculiarly important in New York City, because of its enormous size, its unprecedented growth for so large a city, and the great efforts which are being made to take care of that growth.

This article is the first of a series of fourteen, of which twelve are by William Herbert, author of "Houses for Town and Country," and two by A. F. Brinckerhoff, landscape architect. The series is the first systematic study of the practice and theory of the business of suburban development, including land improvement, landscape architecture, house planning and selling.

The suburb is of course the creation of mechanical transit. As long as horses supplied the only means of locomotion, suburbs were impossible, except for a very short distance on the immediate outskirts of a city. When it took longer to travel from the City Hall to 38th street than it now does to go from the Pennsylvania Station to Jamaica, the possible development of suburban life was extremely limited. During the days of horse cars and omnibuses, people lived either in the country or in the city. All well-to-do people who lived in the city occupied private houses, and there was no congestion of population except in the poorer neighborhoods. After the war the service offered by the steam railroads improved to such an extent that certain suburban developments took place around all large cities. The whole inner suburban region of New Jersey was developed by the steam railroad, as were places like Yonkers, Mount Vernon, New Rochelle, and White Plains to the north. Later, particularly in small cities, the trolley did the work even more effectually than did the steam railroads. Almost all the medium-sized cities of this country are suburban in general character, because the quicker surface transit which was offered by the trolley lines came before any very considerable congestion of population had taken place. The majority of middle Western families live not merely in individual but in detached houses.

In New York City, however, the growth in population was always running ahead of the improvement in means of transit. The geographical location of Manhattan made it enormously expensive and difficult to provide any machinery of travel sufficient to prevent congestion. Broad stretches of water barred the way in every direction, except to the north, and population spread so rapidly in that direction that the horse car service broke down sooner than in any other city in the country. Elevated roads were built early, but they were scarcely constructed before some kind of an express service was found necessary, and before the subway was in operation it was already evident that it would be wholly inadequate to meet the needs even of that part of the city which touched upon its route.

The consequence was that a really stupendous effort had to be made by the municipal government of New York to provide for the distribution of the city's population. When the new subway system is finished the circulatory system of the city will for the first time in a couple of generations be emancipated from certain preventable causes of congestion, and its population will be able to expand freely in almost every direction. But the freedom of expansion which New York has purchased at so much expense of money and work has been obtained very much more easily in other cities of this country and Europe. In all English speaking countries and in Germany the movement towards suburban residences is stronger than it ever was before. It is assisted by the constant improvements which are being made in the suburban service of railroads. As yet very few of these railroads, except in New York, have electrified their suburban service, but the tendency is in that direction, and gradually the great majority of suburban trains will be run by electricity. In the New York, Boston and Westchester Railroad the city of New York already possesses the type of the future suburban means of transit, which will consist of a combined express and local service operated by electricity at exceptionally fast time. The electrification of the suburban steam roads will make as much difference to the comfort and convenience of the passengers using them as did the electrification of the elevated roads in New York City.

But while the most important condition the world over in favor of suburban development is the improvement in means of communication, it is far from being the only condition. A considerable influence is exerted by a certain general improvement in moral and sanitary standards. Thousands of families are moving to the suburbs because they are coming to believe that suburban life is more wholesome for mind and body. This motive is peculiarly strong in New York, for life in the ordinary apartment house is neither pleasant nor healthful, particularly for families with children. Comparatively poor people make great sacrifices of money and time so that they can bring up their children under better normal and physical surroundings. Indeed this motive is frequently the dominant one. Probably in the majority of cases it would be as cheap, if not cheaper, to live in the city, but the semi-country is preferred for its own sake and in spite of many inconveniences and drawbacks.

In the second place, city governments all over the world, appreciating the physical and moral advantages to their inhabitants of semi-rural surroundings, are deliberately and ingeniously encouraging the distribution of their population. In countries like Belgium and Prussia where the railroads are owned by the state, the encouragement takes the form of very cheap fares, which enable a laboring man to live at a considerable distance from his work in a place where rents are really cheap. In Germany the distribution of population is encouraged also by scientific methods of town planning, whereby the factories are usuallly located at points remote from the center of population or of commercial life, and the population is further scattered by this device. No English or American city has carried town planning as far as it has been carried in Germany, but in this country the new manufacturing plants built by private capital are usually placed with much more care than they used to be. Low cost of production demands the most approved means of handling and shipping their freight, and this usually means a site on the margin of a city, near a railroad, where land is not too expensive.

But in our own country, and particularly in and near New York, one important reason for the accelerating suburban development is the more intelligent methods used by the companies which engage in the business of selling suburban land. They are making suburban life more possible and more attractive to thousands of families by more intelligently meeting the real needs of their customers. During the last few years the methods used by these companies has changed very radically, and every change has been in the direction of making it easier and pleasanter for a family to move into the country. The surroundings have become more attractive than formerly. The companies are finding it more and more necessary to sell houses rather than lots. The houses are better planned and designed, and they are offered to intending purchasers on very convenient terms. Selling methods have been worked out with the utmost care and on the basis of a comprehensive experience. Enterprises of this kind have come to demand the employment of large amounts of capital and a high order of business ability. The consequence is that a family that is hesitating about buying a suburban house is not likely to hesitate for long. If such a family is discovered it is usually won. The opportunities of the business are developed as never before.

Future City a Vast Suburb.

It is becoming more and more apparent, consequently, that the city of the future is on its domestic side likely to become one vast suburb, and that an enlightened municipal administration will co-operate with private enterprise in order to bring about this result. Certain phases of the business life of our cities are likely to be intensely concentrated in a few unusually desirable neighborhoods, but their inhabitants will live scattered over larger and larger areas and will live healthier and better lives because of this fact. The congestion of population, which is the most dangerous aspect of modern urban life, particularly in New York, will be gradually eradicated, and every thrifty citizen can, if he pleases, own his own home and small garden.

BUILDING MANAGEMENT

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for the American Real Estate Company.

Real estate agents in New York are also generally building managers. That is, they as a rule have full charge of buildings, purchasing the supplies and hiring the help. This arrangement has certain advantages. An agent who buys for a number of buildings is able to purchase advantageously; and the economies he may effect in this direction place him in a position to shave rents, yet maintain the owner's normal net returns. The ability to offer especially attractive rents on occasion is a matter of the first importance where the competition for tenants is so keen as it is in New York. It may mean all the difference between a full and profitable rent roll and a ruinous percentage of vacancies.

The custom of uniting the functions of agent and building manager in one person is a traditional one in New York, although it is by no means universal. It has grown more common since the introduction of tall buildings. And, by the way, tall buildings are of pretty recent origin. Twenty-three years ago there were only eighteen buildings of ten or more stories in Manhattan. Today there are 1,156, of which not fewer than sixty contain from twenty to fifty odd floors. The changes in architecture, engineering and the building trades caused by the tall building have been most radical. It has brought increased importance and rising prosperity to a great number of professions and trades, as well as augmented growth to New York.

No profession has benefited more by the multiplication of tall buildings than has the real estate profession, particularly the agency branch of it. But it has also placed more exacting demands upon real estate men, for the management of a complex modern office building, mercantile structure or apartment house calls for a higher order of executive ability than was demanded by the low and simple construction of a quarter of a century ago. It is estimated that the managers of buildings within the metropolitan district have the expenditure of some $481,000,000 a year. In other words, a great deal more money is spent annually on the upkeep of existing buildings than is spent on the construction of new ones, a statement which was probably not true upwards of twenty years ago.

Now, the building managers of New York are as a rule primarily real estate men. They have been obliged to acquire their knowledge of modern management by experience. As yet there is no comprehensive treatise or text book on the successful theory and practice evolved by this experience. The Record and Guide purposes to supply this want in the present department of Building Management, under the supervision of Mr. Roberts, our former real estate editor, now building manager for the American Real Estate Company. We ask for Mr. Roberts the co-operation of our readers in making this department of practical help to the real estate profession.

REDUCING THE COST OF FUEL

Grades of Coal That Are Not in Common Use May Be Burned in Place of the Higher-Priced Domestic Sizes.

ONE of the most important problems that the building manager has to contend with is the purchase and use of fuel. Coal is one of the most expensive articles which he has to purchase, and price, quality and certain deliveries are very vital considerations. Not only must the manager know how to buy, but a study must be made of the conditions confronting him in each individual plant, so he may be able to determine what grade of coal is best suited to the needs of each individual building.

Millions of dollars are spent annually for fuel in New York City alone, and yet it is fair to say that over one-half of the buyers of coal know almost nothing about the best way to use this commodity. To most people coal is simply coal, and the only question asked is how much does it cost per ton.

The sizes of anthracite coal offered on the general market range from broken coal, the largest, to No. 3 buckwheat and yard screenings or dust, and the price varies according to the size, the larger sizes being the most expensive. In the last few years the price of anthracite has been steadily increasing, but the rate of increase has been much higher in the domestic sizes than in the smaller grades. As a consequence, the up-to-date building manager should carefully study his plant with a view to burning the smallest size which will keep the necessary steam under his boilers.

No. 3 Buckwheat Is Very Usable.

In the majority of cases it is entirely practical to burn No. 3 buckwheat in any mercantile building. If the natural draft is good, it is always possible. Many buildings are using pea, but in most of them No. 3 buckwheat could be burned if the grate bars were made small enough. With the contract price of pea coal at $4.25 a ton and No. 3 Buckwheat at $3.50 a ton, the saving to be obtained by the use of the smaller grade is very apparent. In determining the size of coal adapted to any one plant the building manager will ofen find it advisable to call in expert advice and not trust entirely to the advice of his own engineers.

The smaller coal requires more firing than the larger grades, and there are many not over-scrupulous engineers who will not hesitate to tell their owner or manager that his plant will not burn small coal, simply because the engineers wish to save themselves a little work. The writer has known of many instances where an engineer has been obliged to try a small grade of coal at the demand of the manager and has prevented its continued use by opening an unseen by-pass in the furnace or placing a few bricks in the flue to spoil the draught. This little trick would never be discovered except by drawing the fires and having the furnaces and flues examined by an expert.

There are a number of reliable engineering companies making a specialty of heating problems, and for a moderate fee their advice can be obtained. It is often a good idea to also consult the maker of the furnace. If the maker and the outside expert both agree that a certain grade of coal can be used, the building manager is then in a position to tell his engineer that he expects him to produce the necessary steam from that particular grade of fuel or there will be a vacancy to be filled in the engine room staff. This method of handling the situation will usually prove effective. In a certain large building downtown the owners have been buying hundreds of tons a year of egg coal simply because the engineer who has been in the building for many years, insists that egg is the only grade adapted to the plant. The owners have thus needlessly been spending several hundred dollars a year purely on the advice of a dishonest engineer.

Buying Under Contract.

Having ascertained the lowest possible grade of coal which will economically produce steam, the next question which confronts the manager is the buying of fuel. Large consumers will nearly always find it advisable to buy under contract, and contracts are usually made in the Spring for the next Winter's supply. At present there is not much competition in price between the big retail dealers, and on this account the main thing to be considered is the reliability of deliveries. Some dealers are much better than others in this respect, and the manager will discover that he may save himself many sleepless nights during the Winter if he picks a dealer who can be relied upon to give him coal whenever and wherever he needs it.

Many large owners in New York buy their coal from wholesalers and have it delivered in barge lots alongside the wharves. They then make a contract with some stevedoring company to deliver the coal to the various buildings. In this way the retailer's profit is saved, but this method of purchasing is only possible where the bunker capacity of the buildings is large. In the great majority of buildings in New York the bunkers are very small, and the buyer must necessarily deal with the retailer. Wholesale buying will generally effect an average saving of about twenty-five cents a ton.

The quality of coal must be a matter of serious consideration with the building manager if he wishes to operate his buildings in an economical manner. In the last few years many coal users have become educated to the idea of buying coal not simply by the pound, but by the number of heat units contained in the coal. The most important considerations in anthracite coal are the ash, the moisture, and the heat units. The amount of energy produced by a pound of coal is measured by the number of heat units contained therein, and the standard measurement is known as the British Thermal Unit, commonly called the B. T. U. Good anthracite coal caries in ash from 11 to 16 per cent., and should contain close to 12,000 B. T. U.'s.

Determining Quality.

Of course the only way that the quality can be determined is by expert analysis, and there are a number of engineering companies which make a business of analysing coal. Where one is a large consumer of coal a contract by the year can be made with one of these companies for analysis of coal, and the expense is amply justified by the results.

A good illustration of this is furnished by a case which recently came under the personal observation of the writer. The manager of a certain building, acting on expert advice, had decided to change the grade of his coal from pea to No. 1 buckwheat. The first time he tried it he had trouble in developing the necessary steam. He was therefore on the point of going back to the use of pea when a friend induced him to have an analysis of the coal made. This he did, and the result showed about 18 per cent of ash with less than 11,000 B. T. Us. By comparing the result with other analyses he was able to see at once that his coal was of a much poorer quality than usually furnished by the dealer, from whom he always bought. He immediately called the dealer's attention to this fact, and a much better grade of fuel was supplied. He had no more trouble with his plant and is now burning No. 1 buckwheat with entire satisfaction and at a saving of 75 cents a ton over the former cost of his coal.

Not only does a high percentage of ash reduce the energy of the coal, but it increases the daily amount of ashes to be handled. This means extra labor for the engine room force, and as each can of ashes in a mercantile plant costs from four to seven cents for removal, the sum which this amounts to in the course of a year is well worth considering.

Some dealers are now making contracts with buyers on the basis of quality alone. That is to say, the dealer guarantees that his coal will not run over a certain fixed percentage of ash nor under a certain number of B. T. Us. If the coal does not come up to specifications, the dealer pays a penalty, while if it exceeds the specifications he receives a bonus from the buyer.

There is no reason why the manager or owner should not pay as much attention to the quality of his fuel as he does to that of his other supplies. A little careful study along scientific lines will enable him to make a material saving in his annual fuel bills and will at the same time insure better service to the buildings under his charge.

—Building managers frequently have occasion to remove varnished tile paper from walls. The best way to do this is to soak the paper with hot water and remove it by the scraper process. If Venice turpentine or Canadian balsam has been used in the paste, this will be very difficult to remove the paper in this way. If a small quantity of ammonia is added to the hot water it will help. Managers having their rooms equipped with steam will find that a jet applied from a small hose with a sharp nozzle discharge, will simplify the work. Lime spots should be first treated with vinegar and when this has dried they should be touched up with a thin size of wall varnish and turpentine.

HOW TO CHECK WATER METERS

Practical Suggestions from Commissioner Thompson on the Readings of the Dials.

Before attempting to read a water meter, see that it is registering. To do this you must turn on the water and allow it to pass through the meter. If the meter is registering, the pointer on the lower dial will move; but if it does not move under these conditions, you should notify the water department at once, as this will tend to lessen disputes as to charge for water consumed while your meter was out of order.

Commence reading the meter by noting carefully the value of the unit in which the dial reads. These figures indicate the value of one complete revolution of the pointer, therefore, each division of a dial represents one-tenth of the amount marked against each dial. It should further be noted the one complete revolution of a pointer of any dial is equal to one division of the dial of next higher value.

Care must be taken to note the direction of movement of the pointers which rotate on alternate dials in opposite directions.

Read the dials commencing with the one marked 10 and continue in the order shown by figures on outside of each dial, setting down the figures as read, i. e., the reading in the tens column, etc.

Always set down the figure, on each dial, that has been passed last or is just covered by the pointer.

As the reading of each dial depends upon the reading of the one of next lower value, care must be taken, when the pointer of the dial being read is close to or covering a figure, for unless the dial of next lower value has completed a revolution or passed the 0, the pointer which is being read has not completed the division upon which it may appear to rest and the last figure which it has entirely passed should be set down on the record.

When the meter has registered its full capacity, that is one complete revolution of the highest dial, it returns to 0 and starts again. Whenever this happens, place in front of the reading of all the dials, the figure 1. You must do this in order to obtain the present reading.

Substract from the present reading the previous reading and calculate the difference at ten cents (10 cents) per 100 cubic feet, and you have the amount of your bill in dollars and cents.

There are two types of meter dials. One a direct reading dial which needs no instruction. The other is shown below:

"		10,000	8,000
"		100,000	90,000
	The reading is		98,345 cu. ft.

The city charges for metered water $1.00 per 1,000 cubic feet.

Meters will be installed and repaired by city plumbers on the failure of property owners to have this work done within the time specified by department orders. The cost of such work will become a lien upon the property.

The meter approved for use by the Board of Aldermen are the Worthington Piston Water Meter, the Crown Water Meter, the Thomas Water Meter, the Trident Water Meter, the Nash Water Meter, the Standard Water Meters, the Hersey Disc Water Meter, the Hersey Rotary Water Meter, the Worthington Disc Water Meter, the Keystone Water Meter, the Trident Crest Water Meter and the Worthington-Turbine Water Meter.

NEW THINGS

A New Type of Flush Tank.

Realizing the need of a design of flush tank to meet modern requirements, Merritt & Company, of Camden, N. J., are supplying a tank known as the Merritt Semi-Automatic Water Saving Flush Tank. The advantages of this tank are that the flushing can be done at any frequency whatsoever and secondly, by reason of the decreased frequency of flushing permissible, more water can be used per flush and more effective cleansing obtained, while at the same time, the total yearly consumption of water is far less than would be the case with automatic tanks.

The figures 1 and 2 show two styles of siphons as used in semi-automatic tanks and the general appearance of the semi-automatic cut-off valve. The siphons are entirely automatic, the semi-automatic feature is secured by the cut-off valve. Fig. 1 shows a Type K overhead siphon with internal sewer vent controlled by a Priestman Patent Pilot Pipe. Fig. 2 shows a low head semi-automatic flush tank with the type M siphon requiring a minimum of excavation for the trap. Both siphons can also be used for automatic tanks. In fact, all semi-automatic flush tanks can be readily converted to automatic tanks. The difference lies in a semi-automatic cut-off valve. The amount of water used per year may be cut down to the minimum necessary to insure sanitary conditions throughout the system; at the same time a large volume of water may be used at each flush, if the gradient is flat and the sewer large. Further particulars will be supplied on request.

—In figuring the cost of elevator equipment it is important that the manager take into consideration whether his electric power is supplied from a service system or by an isolated plant. If the current is generated in the building he must not neglect to figure in certain overhead charges, which should be included. There is much to be said in favor of the outside service system, and there is also much to be said in favor of the isolated plant as a source of power, but in the cause of equality all conditions must be taken into consideration in estimating cost to reach true cost comparisons.

Frank P. Lucke, of 1353 Park Place, Brooklyn, is sending to his tenants a New Year's card, the back of which serves as a rent receipt for payments due January 1.

A letter from Mayor Gaynor, Borough President McAneny and other members of the Board of Estimate was sent yesterday to Gov. Sulzer, asking him to reappoint William R. Willcox as chairman of the Public Service Commission. A merited recognition.

Post office officials in Jersey City are quoted as saying that if the department stores of Manhattan take advantage of the parcels post in delivering wares to their patrons in Jersey City, as indicated by the week's business, and if the manufacturers of that city post packages, as they are expected to do, the new half-million-dollar Federal Building, which will not be completed until next August, will be swamped.

In view of the difficulties which the municipalities in Westchester County are having over their water supply, owing to this city's exclusive rights in the Croton water shed, it is interesting to read in the "Consular and Trade Reports" that the Province of Groningen in the Netherlands contemplates establishing a water supply for the entire province, in collaboration with 37 of the 55 municipalities in the province. The supply will be drawn from deep wells.

The "department theatre" is the latest novelty in show houses. It is to be opened by William Morris, of booking acts fame, in Ziegfeld's Moulin Rouge, on the east side of Broadway, between Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth streets, which Mr. Morris has leased from Klaw & Erlanger and which will be renamed "All Wonderland." There will be plenty of room for a good-sized cross section of Coney Island, as Mr. Morris' lease includes all of the big Broadway block front, erstwhile Oscar Hammerstein's, except the Criterion Theatre at the Forty-fourth street end and some offices in the fifth floor of the building.

An Italian builder who contracted to buy the old East Eleventh street cemetery a couple of years ago backed out of the deal when he learned that some 5,000 bodies had been removed from it so recently as 1909. His countrymen, he said, were afraid of ghosts. For years builders of loft structures intended for light manufacturing refused to go higher than twelve stories, on the ground that no tenant employing foreign operators would think of renting the thirteenth floor. However, the potency of unlucky numbers was dispelled some time ago, when tall loft buildings began to be erected in the midtown section; and the recent sale of the cemetery is evidence that ghosts can be allayed by a determined real estate man.

Next Week's Paper.

The larger of the current economic influences that bear upon New York real estate—together with the market situation and the prospect in the distinctly urban boroughs of Manhattan, Brooklyn and The Bronx, form the theme of this number of the Record and Guide.

Next week's number will be devoted to the suburban boroughs of Queens and Richmond and to the commuting territory in New Jersey, Westchester County, and on Long Island. Conditions in the suburbs, including Newark and Jersey City, have undergone noteworthy changes during the year, changes which promise to react on city property.

We hope also to find space for valuable articles on special phases of the building movement in and about the city.

Governor Sulzer and the Public Service Commission.

Real estate owners of New York will be pleased at the reiteration of Governor Sulzer's promise to introduce rigorous economy into the administration of the State government and to pay particular attention to the needs of New York City in transportation and transit. So far as the transit problem is concerned, he will have an early opportunity of showing his good faith. The term of the chairman of the Public Service Commission, Mr. Willcox, expires on February 1, and Mr. Sulzer will have the naming of his successor. We believe that a large majority of the property owners of New York would be much gratified in case Mr. Willcox were re-appointed. He has played an essential part in the subway negotiations of the past few years, and the official dual system owes almost as much to him as it does to Mr. McAneny. He is, consequently, better equipped than would be any substitute for carrying on the difficult task of guarding the public interests invoked by the construction of the new systems.

Much, however, as the Record and Guide would like to see Governor Sulzer take the Public Service Commission out of politics by naming its chairman for business rather than political grounds, that is not the essential aspect of the matter. The essential thing is that the new chairman should be pledged to the support of the new subway system. The one thing which public opinion in New York would not tolerate is the appointment of a commissioner who would do anything to overturn, obstruct or delay the carrying out of the official plan. It must be remembered in this connection that two of the existing commissioners, Messrs. Cram and Maltbie, have been opposed to the dual system and that the appointment of a third opponent would give to the opposition a majority of the commission. It must be remembered also that two of the gentlemen whose names have been strongly recommended to Mr. Sulzer are known to be hostile to any arrangement with the Interboro Company.

The question is, consequently, a serious one and the friends of the dual subway system should make sure that the Governor does not appoint a maker of trouble without fully realizing what he is doing.

The dual system has already cost so much delay, negotiation, apprehension and controversy, and the solution reached is so generally satisfactory to public opinion that anyone who does anything to imperil the solution would make himself very unpopular. At the present time apparently the only remaining threat to the legal adoption of the official plan covers the attitude of Mr. Willcox's successor.

Radical Measures Needed on Fifth Ave.

The proposals now being made to accelerate the movement of traffic on Fifth avenue by additional regulations will unquestionably be very useful in case they can be carried out, but it must be remembered that they would only postpone the day when the problem must be dealt with in some more thorough-going manner just as the widening of the roadway has merely encouraged its additional use, so that classification of the traffic and the exclusion of some kinds of wheels would merely result in the substitution of others. The Record and Guide does not mean by this comment that it is opposed to the proposed methods of classification. We only mean that such stop-gaps should be supplemented by more radical measures.

The only way of effectively relieving the traffic congestion on Fifth avenue is to divert the traffic by giving it additional outlets, and of all the plans which have been proposed to accomplish this result the Park, Fifth and Seventh avenues would combine greater serviceability with less expense than would any other available plan. It would create in effect a thoroughfare terminal corresponding to Broadway, but removed from the lower West Side to the upper East Side. It would really divert traffic and business from Fifth avenue, besides improving considerably in other respects the means of communication between different parts of Manhattan. Nothing is more certain than that sooner or later some such action must be taken and that the longer it is postponed the more it will cost.

Architecture of the Grand Central.

An eminent French architect, who has recently passed through New York, has gone out of his way to express his admiration of the grandeur and simplicity of the design of the new Grand Central Station, and the Record and Guide believes that his tribute to the work performed by the architects of that station and by the engineers and directors of that railroad company will be cordially echoed by the great majority of New Yorkers. That station is unquestionably one of the greatest monuments of engineering skill which has ever been erected in the world.

The problem of the Pennsylvania Railroad was nothing by comparison, because it did not have to arrange for the transportation of anywhere near such a large volume of traffic and because it did not have to keep the terminal in operation during the process of construction. Considering the difficulties of this second task the public has suffered a surprisingly small amount of inconvenience during the progress of the work, and now that it is approaching completion admiration for the result is constantly on the increase. The conveniences of the general arrangement promises to be all that could be asked; and its appearance is equally satisfactory. The most durable and handsome materials have been used for the interior finish. The effect of the passages, the corridors and the lower concourse is pleasant and even exhilarating, but this effect is not effected by any unusual architectural extravagancies. It is the result of using attractive materials, of convenient arrangement, and of careful attention to the details of lighting and the like.

The interior is characterized by the utmost simplicity, and this statement is as true of the upper waiting room as it is of the less important parts of the station. That waiting room is not as noble and impressive an apartment as is the waiting room of the Pennsylvania Terminal, but it is none the less a room whose simplicity and grandeur of treatment is highly creditable to its designers. And it has one considerable architectural merit as compared to the only other room in New York, with which it can be compared, viz., the waiting room of the Pennsylvania Terminal and the reading room of the Public Library. The architects of these last two buildings have made no attempt to make the unusual dimensions of these apartments count effectively in the internal appearance of the building. They have removed them from the street frontage and tried to conceal rather than to emphasize them. The architects of the Grand Central Terminal, on the other hand, made the street frontage express the dimensions and the importance of the huge waiting room.

The resultant facade does not fulfill the requirements of a traditional standard of architectural effectiveness as well as the Seventh avenue facade of the Pennsylvania Terminal does, but it is none the less a fine example of modern French design without any of the extravagances of that architectural style. It is, moreover, a candid and intelligent treatment of the essential problem raised by a large city station. The two Manhattan railroad terminals will rank not only as the two most effective stations in the world from the architectural point of view, but also as the two stations which afford the sharpest contrast between a method of architectural design which fundamentally is utilitarian and one which is fundamentally aesthetic.

The Subway Negotiations.

Property owners in different parts of the city are showing symptoms of being restless over the delay in signing the contracts for the new subways; and it is natural that they should feel uneasy, because nothing is certain until the contracts are signed, and the future development of the city depends absolutely upon the construction of the new rapid transit system. But they must remember that the city officials are just as anxious as they are to close the matter up, and while the preparing of the contracts has been delayed beyond expectation, there is no cause for alarm. In all probability there never has been a case in the history of public or private business of contracts which had to provide for such a complicated and difficult set of requirements as the two contracts with the Brooklyn Rapid Transit and the Interboro companies. The public should, consequently, be patient. They can be certain that the gentlemen who are attending to this business for the city are reaching a final settlement as fast as the satisfactory adjustment of a vast number of dubious details will permit; and there is every reason to believe that the delays will soon be over.

The dangerous obstacles do not concern the terms of the contract so much as the opposition of certain property owners in William street and in Greenwich village to the carrying out of the plans of the commission. But even these obstacles will not prove to be insurmountable. The courts will hardly sustain the William street property owners in their opposition to plans so essential to the welfare of the community; and the property owners have too much to gain from the construction of the Seventh avenue subway along the extension of that avenue not to accelerate the preparations. It is to be hoped, however, that the Broadway property owners who are trying to have the express subway on the Broadway line moved from 48th to 42d street will succeed in their attempt. The arguments which have been recently brought forward in favor of this change are thoroughly convincing, and there can be little doubt that if the commission insists upon its present plan, it will do so at the expense of the convenience of the traveling public.

THE WEEK IN REAL ESTATE.

Considering that the holiday season was at its height during the last fortnight, the real estate market this week displayed good strength and tone. Transactions were made that indicate an interest in real estate throughout Manhattan generally, and this is a good omen of well diversified dealing. Greenwich Village was well represented, and it is probable that some of the very old holdings that changed hands there will be improved with modern structures. The Christopher street and the Ninth street stations of the Hudson River tunnel connect Greenwich Village with New Jersey, where thousands of business men reside, as well as bringing this old part of New York into direct touch with the lower West Side and the Herald Square sections. It looks as though Greenwich Village would eventually play a greater part in the commercial growth of the city. The subway has tended to enhance values in the section by making it more accessible, whereas in the past it was comparatively remote. To bear out our statement of the growing commercial importance of the lower West Side our building news column contains the news of a large new factory building to be built there by the National Biscuit Company.

The sale of the old Second Street Methodist Episcopal Church, on the East Side, to a Hebrew organization emphasizes the great change that has taken place in the character of population in that part of the city. The membership of the church had become a negative quantity on account of the extensive movement of the Protestant element of the population to newer parts of the city. The old York Street Methodist Church, in Brooklyn, was also sold recently because its membership had dwindled away and the character of the population roundabout lacked recruits for a church of that denomination. Probably nothing else so strongly illustrates the changes in and the expansion of the city of New York as the abandonment of church structures in divers neighborhoods or the sale of them to church corporations typifying the belief of the new class of population that has gained ascendency in the particular vicinity.

Harlem, Washington Heights, and the upper West Side were well represented in the sales of the week just ended. A notable feature of this phase of the dealing was that the major part of it comprised good-sized plots, as our news columns will indicate. The Dykman tract contributed one good sale to the week's total. Gen. Lloyd S. Bryce sold a vacant parcel in the upper Fifth avenue neighborhood.

The Bronx was not sluggish in its real estate movement. Several very good sales of improved property were made, and one large corner plot was another transaction, while a large vacant corner plot changed hands f r improvement. Although the new year opened auspiciously for the northern borough of the city.

The dealing in Brooklyn, this week, was not extensive. A large transaction in the Flatbush section was closed and most of the dealing was in the outlying parts of the borough. The prospects for a good spring season in Brooklyn are bright, however. Probably the most significant sale in Brooklyn was that of several parcels, at Broadway and Ditmars street, to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. This corporation plans to join the tracks of its Broadway line and its Myrtle avenue division, which is close by, and it needs the property it has secured for that purpose. Our news columns will show the exact properties taken. The Broadway properties acquired for the purpose comprise part of a strong business block, and it remains to be seen how much the railroad improvement will impair the rental power of property there. It does not seem to us that the railroad company's plan would help business in the adjacent premises.

How Shall the Seventh Avenue Assessment Be Laid?

Eaitor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

The total cost of the extension of Seventh avenue and the widening of Varick street will be not less than $12,000,000, of which total eighty-five per cent. would fall upon property in the Borough of Manhattan, if the report of the committee of the Board of Estimate should be adopted.

The city of New York does not pay one cent of the cost of this improvement, though it collects a revenue from the subway, no part of which is to be paid back to those property owners who furnish the capital. This is clearly illegal and is a revolutionary innovation in the use of the taxing power.

The assessment is not fair or just. Property on Central Park West, Cortlandt and West streets, and Broadway and Maiden Lane, being far removed from benefit of improvement, pays the same rate as Seventh avenue and 12th, 13th and 14th streets, as well as West Broadway and Worth street, closely contiguous to the line of improvement; this certainly is not scientific or economical.

The opening takes and damages 272 parcels and leaves 117 small gores and 63 small lots averaging 750 square feet, which are utterly useless for building purposes.

This proceeding offers the fattest pickings the assessment lawyers have had for many years, and they are exerting most powerful influences to have the assessment levied, so as to get 25 per cent. from taxpayers for having it set aside, either by the courts or the Legislature. The Board of Estimate, if it accepts the recommendation of the committee, will practically say to each taxpayer, "You will either pay the assessment lawyer $87.50 or $125, or you will pay the city $350 or $500—take your choice." Will you stand for this?

My aim is to prevent the assessment being ordered.

Taxpayers must look to the members of the Board of Estimate from other boroughs for relief, as the two members from Manhattan have signed the report.

That the improvement is for subway purposes is thus evidenced. In the report of the same committee, on June 27, 1910, appear these words, "By the opening of Seventh avenue and the widening of Varick street the directness of the route possible for the Seventh avenue subway will be of material moment, and will render unnecessary for the city to condemn easements for that subway," and on November 23, 1912, the Public Service Commission wrote that unless Seventh avenue were opened at once they would adopt another and longer route, adding 1,400 feet in length to subway, with its cost, and 46,000 train miles, costing $46,000 per year.

So as to save the cost of easements which the city would have to pay for, it opens a street and assesses you therefor. The city does not assess for the loops between the two Brooklyn bridges, nor does it assess for the subway damages in Brooklyn or approaches to all Brooklyn bridges.

If this improvement will enormously enhance the value of property, as the engineer says, why would it not be most advantageous for the city to pay the cost, as the increased valuations would add so largely to its tax income that, after paying interest and amortization, it would have several hundred thousand dollars per year in excess?

Taxpayers in the area of assessment are requested to attend the hearing on the committee's report to be held by the Board of Estimate at the City Hall January 9, at 10:30 a. m., and oppose the acceptance of the committee's report.

R. FLAHERTY.

New York, January 2.

Is This a Hidden Asset?

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

In the Aldermanic investigation of the police, George A. Sipp testified that he sold his hotel for $114,000. Your records show a contract recorded for the sale, in which $85,000 represents the fee value. The balance must have been paid for good will and chattels. The premises are assessed for taxation purposes at $80,000. Now who, or which municipal department collects on this $55,000.

Again, this agreement contains a clause saying that in case of failure to deliver title by reason of a defect in the same, that the intending purchaser can, instead, lease for twenty-one years at ten and twelve thousand dollars per annum. Must there not be some potential element of value which the plain fee value does not provide for?

A READER.

New York, January 1, 1913.

—Bids were opened Tuesday by Borough President Connolly of Queens for contracts for building the dry weather flow, or house sewer, in the Corona section, to act as a part of the big outlet main for the entire section of the town of Newtown, Second Ward of Queens, north of Middle Village and east of Maspeth and Elmhurst systems, and extending northerly to Flushing Bay and Bowery Bay. The successful bidders were Peace Bros.; amount of bid, $225,290.80.

—Brooklyn, a pleasant sounding and uncommon name, is better than "East New York," which has been proposed by some unromantic geographer. Instead of forgetting the old names, they should be perpetuated. Local names like Bloomingdale, Chelsea, Greenwich, Yorkville, Clairmont, Harlem and the rest, all should be retained for daily use, if we want to be represented by anything more than mere figures on a map and have any neighborhood pride left.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

A REVIEW OF THE MARKET SHOWS SIGNS OF PROMISING FUTURE.

Tracing the Struggle from a Weak Demand and Overstocked Factories and Mills, Up Through Gradually Stiffening Conditions and Heavy Call to a Veritable Stampede for Structural Contracts at the Year's End.

WHEN 1912 opened, building material interests throughout the Metropolitan district were shaking and quaking in fear that they were entering upon a panicky year. As it closes, these same interests are hitching and twisting to find a way to guarantee deliveries at any price. As 1913 enters, it finds the driven drivers striving to maintain a safe and sane market against as strenuous an attempt to stampede to prosperity as any new year in recent times has felt.

Commercial jingos sought to usher in the late lamented 1912 with sackcloth and ashes, and tried to set it in the quicksands of calamity, but out from under the shroud of doubt and fear and tremblings for the sins of omission and commission of the year before there came a stability never suspected in a year emburdened with a Presidential vote, a Pujo Committee, a Balkan War, a shortage of labor, hostile legislation against big business, and a tremendous demand for money to move the world's biggest crop. The mouse brought forth by the laboring mountain proved to be a disturbing element at first, but in reality it led the way to the horn of plenty toward which all the hosts of building interests are reaching out in eagerness instead of cringing and crawling toward every business enterprise as they were a year ago this month.

During the last twelve months there has been a complete reversal of conditions in building materials. The year opened with Portland cement selling on a basis of sixty cents, mill, whereas today it is on a ninety-cent basis. Rosendale was quoted at eighty cents, and now it is ninety-five cents, New York. Steel beams opened the year at $27.50, and they are being contracted for at $29.00 today, while tomorrow they may go over $30. Nails are $2 a ton higher than they were a year ago. Sand is fifteen cents a cubic yard higher; crushed stone is ten cents a cubic yard in advance of its price last year; slate runs ten to twenty-five cents a square over 1911 quotations in this market, and yellow pine timber, which was quoted at $26.50 to $28 in December a year ago, is now $28 to $30, and probably will go higher. Common brick is in a relatively stronger market with a demand even at this time of the year, almost sufficient to cause manufacturers to worry about where they will get enough of this commodity to take care of the demand two months hence.

Keeping the Brakes On.

And yet, in spite of this, the United States Steel Corporation closes the year with more than 7,000,000 tons of orders still unfilled, and pig iron is running into third quarter deliveries, and actual stampede conditions prevailed just prior to December thirty-first to get existing contracts specified before the time limit set by the producers expired. Listen to the conditions at the close of the year in the steel and iron trades, the barometer and backbone, respectively, of all other departments of building material:

The trade closes the year with a new record for output of pig iron, crude steel and rolled steel products, though the year's total in rails will fall slightly behind the old record, made in 1906. Estimates of the total output for the country in pig iron place the total at 29,700,000 tons, as against 27,303,00 tons in 1910, the best previous record for a calendar year; for crude steel, about 30,000,000 tons, or 2,000,000 tons more than the best previous year; in rolled iron and steel about 25,600,000 tons, as against the best previous record of 21,620,000 tons in 1910.

Persons close to the sales department of the Steel Corporation assert that the December report of unfilled tonnage, which will be issued January 10, will show a gain of probably 400,000 tons over the November 30 report of 7,850,000 tons, making an aggregate gain of approximately 1,700,000 tons for the months of October, November and December. The Steel Corporation's output for 1912 (in crude and finished steel "for sale," as distinguished from the steel used in its own plants), is expected to total about 13,300,000 tons, which is a gain of a million and a half tons above its previous best record.

The scarcity of unfinished steel overshadows every other feature of the operating situation, this shortage having held down finished product output all month and delayed deliveries, particularly from the smaller independent mills. It is anticipated that the finishing mills will lose much time throughout the first quarter as a result of the crude steel famine. The new capacity in open hearth steel that is being rushed to completion in this district is not due to go into operation before the middle of March at the earliest.

Pig Iron the Backbone.

Prices of pig iron did not fluctuate materially in the final week of the year. There was a slightly easier tone in foundry iron, with tonnages offered for January shipment at $17.50 valley furnace as against the abnormal price of $18 at furnace asked a week earlier for spot or nearby deliveries. Bessemer iron was unchanged at $17.25 valleys and some basic changed hands at the seemingly definitely established price of $16.50 at furnace.

Producers of steel making iron have the situation well in hand and promise that there will be no shortage in that grade. Merchant makers are not keen for a runaway market and are content to take moderate profits rather than face the demoralization that always follows a skyrocket rise in prices.

And so the year that everyone thought would be panicky closes.

Everybody in building material activity knows that prosperity in the steel department is not felt in other basic building material lines until six months or more after its existence is first known. The condition revealed above began to be anticipated way back in June of last year, when the steel interests announced a temporary drop in price to encourage building and other steel-using interests to get into the market early. This brought out a large number of building plans which had been shelved for operation this year, and it started the building ball rolling.

Heavy Drain on Mills.

Then the heavy stocks with which producers came into the year 1912 began to dwindle, and when it came time to take on more help to increase the outputs, it was discovered that there was a serious shortage of labor, and the mills could not produce as much as they wanted to. This condition prevailed even as close to New York as the Hudson river brick industry, and the result was that capacity had to be obtained by working overtime.

With this condition in vogue in many mills, along came the heavy Southern floods which crippled the very mills wherein the heaviest demand was felt, namely hardwood lumber. This put them back a quarter of a year and just about that time the west began to call for money to move what promised to be record-breaking crops. Then money became tight for building construction here, and, to make matters worse, a car shortage developed a little while later and further tied up building operations, because steel and other commodities could not be delivered on contract time.

Where the Demand Came From.

In the meantime, investors began to hear that a movement was under way to boost interest rates, and everybody tried to get under cover. This resulted in another heavy inquiry for materials for new construction, although actual orders have not so far figured prominently in these inquiries, which accounts for the Steel Corporation fixing January first as the time limit for specifying on steel contracts not completed on that date.

When the builder and realty investor looked about him at the close of the first quarter, and discovered that new building operations showed a gain of $13,367,492 over those for a corresponding period last year, and later discovered that the first half showed a gain of $24,335,739 over building operations going ahead in the first half of 1911, he began to sit up and take notice; and finally, when at the end of the third quarter the total gain ran up to $31,584,596, he began to get right busy and was fully prepared to cast aside all doubts regarding the future, even though the Presidential election was still a month away and there was "danger of tariff tinkering," a menace which the same commercial jingos had firmly impressed him with earlier in the year.

Keep Behind the Market.

Taken as a whole, the year just closed has been remarkable for the genuineness of its stability. As the new year opens every indication points in the direction of continued prosperity, but it is no time for booms or inflated demand; neither is it a time for extreme conservatism. In other words, let the building operations of next year be a little behind, rather than a little ahead of the market and prosperity should continue when 1913 has passed into history.

Note: A barge containing 280,000 common brick, consigned to Greater New York Brick Co., by the Ann Lahey Estate, was sunk at its berth on the north side of the West 50th street dock. The cargo, not covered by insurance and valued at $1,890, was lost. The barge was partly covered by insurance. It is presumed that the barge rail became caught under the dock cribbage on a flood tide and thus permitted the boat to fill.

REAL ESTATE NEWS.

THE WEEK'S BROKERAGE SALES, LEASES AND PUBLIC AUCTIONS.

Transactions Were Well Diversified, and Some Good Sales Reported.

There was a buoyancy to the real estate market this week that would seem to presage a good movement of it. Selling, while not frequent, was quite general over a wide area of the city, and some of the properties that changed hands were of more than ordinary size.

The Manhattan sales totaled 24, against 27 last week and 30 a year ago.

The number below 59th street was 6, against 11 last week and 20 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 18, compared with 6 last week and 10 a year ago.

From the Bronx 16 sales at private contract were reported, against 16 last week and 16 a year ago.

The amount involved in the Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $718,177, compared with $823,852 last week. The figure for the corresponding week last year was $102,228.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

Manhattan—South of 59th Street.

CHRISTOPHER ST.—William A. White & Sons sold for James Roddy the 2-sty building at 53 Christopher st, on lot 25x75.

JANE ST.—Charles Cohn sold for George K. and Walter Louden 89 Jane st, a 2-sty building, on lot 28x87.6, to Archibald McInnes, who owns Nos. 91 and 93 adjoining, and now controls a plot with a frontage of 64 ft on Jane st, adjoining the northeast corner of Washington st.

MORTON ST.—Edgar T. Kingsley sold for William H. Pulver and Mrs. H. W. Spencer, trustees of the estate of Peter Pulver, 60 Morton st, near Hudson st, a 3-sty brick dwelling on lot 25x100. James Galbraith is the buyer, who owns the adjoining property at No. 58, and now has a plot 50x100. The late Peter Pulver took title to the property on March 4, 1881, from John McLean.

2D ST.—The old Second Street Methodist Episcopal Church, one of the landmarks of the East Side, has been sold to the Directors of the Austrian Hebrew Free Burial Association and Orphan Asylum of 65 Pitt st for about $66,000. An orphan asylum to accommodate about 500 children will be erected on the site at a cost of $120,000. Simon Leiman is President of the association. The old church occupies a plot 100 feet square, known as 274, 276, 278, and 280 2d st, between Avs C and D. Title to the property was held by the New York City Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Owing to changing conditions in the neighborhood and the fact that the majority of its congregation moved uptown, the structure as a church really outlived its usefulness.

16TH ST.—Henry Brady sold for P. G. Tighe to the Public Service Realty & Mortage Co., Samuel Hellinger, president, the 5-sty tenement and store at 429 West 16th street.

31ST ST.—Samuel Braunstein sold for Martin L. Campbell to Mrs. Ann Eiseman the 3-sty house at 212 East 31st st on lot 20x98.9.

Manhattan—North of 59th Street.

68TH ST.—The 4-sty dwelling owned by the estate of Frederick D. Tappen at 49 East 68th st, on lot 25x100.5, has been sold. The property adjoins the residence of Percy R. Pyne, at the northwest corner of Park av.

81ST ST.—H. H. Hazelton and C. R. Levy sold for the United States Trust Co., as trustee for the Rogers estate, to W. B. Harned 147 West 81st st, a 4-sty dwelling, on lot 19.6x102.2.

87TH ST.—Slawson & Hobbs sold for the Russell Raymond estate 151 West 87th st, a 3-sty dwelling, on lot 16.8x100.8, located between Columbus and Amsterdam avs. The buyer will occupy the house.

87TH ST.—The Brixton Construction Co. sold the 9-sty apartment house known as the Brixton, at 314 to 320 West 87th street, on plot 80x100.8, between West End av and Riverside Drive. It was held at $450,000. The site was purchased by the construction company, of which Edwin S. Brickner is president, in June, 1911, from I. Randolph Jacobs, who accumulated the plot from various owners. The house was completed on October 1 of this year.

89TH ST.—The Herald Square Holding Co. (George Backer and Arnstein & Levy) bought the three 3-sty dwellings at 313, 315 and 317 West 89th st, from Charles T. Henry, J. Cleveland Cady and Alina B. Young respectively. Albert B. Ashforth and George Ranger were the brokers in the deal. The houses occupy a plot 60x100.8, on the north side of the street, located about midway between West End av and Riverside drive, on the block with the Clark-Potter mansion, which was purchased recently by William H. Barnard, and also the Rice mansion, now owned and occupied by Solomon Schinasi.

AUTOMATIC SPRINKLER PROTECTION

ITS use the only solution of the problem of Fire Waste in the United States, equal to $30,000 every hour of each day, and 70 per cent. preventable.

In the first five minutes of any fire one sprinkler can do more good than a fire department arriving twenty minutes later.

Automatic Sprinklers are always ready with water at the start of a fire; they open only where the fire is located; they sound an alarm for help and start putting out the fire right then; they operate by means of the heat from the fire, with no human intelligence required.

Automatic Sprinklers are by average a 20 per cent. investment, in the way of reduced insurance premiums.

We are specialists in the installation of Automatic Sprinkler protection, confining our operations to this work only.

We manufacture exclusively the devices we install, and are backed by twenty-five years' manufacturing, engineering and contracting experience.

CONCERNING OUR LOANS

It is the leading feature of this business to assist worthy people in home buying and building and in paying off mortgages on homes, which, under the provisions of the New Savings and Loan Law, it is authorized and empowered to do to a greater extent than financial institutions of any other class.

When all surrounding conditions are satisfactory, we go as far as 75% of value, if necessary, in placing our monthly installment loans.

Under the operation of the New Law, which became effective on January 1, 1911, the loans we are now making provide for monthly payments at the rate of $10 per month per $1,000 of the amount of the mortgage, which payments include interest, or the mortgage can be paid off entirely at any time, and after one year by the payment only of the balance due on the mortgage, plus one per cent of such balance.

Our loans are made on First Mortgage only and are for the exact amount of the cash advanced.

Our New System is so simple and direct that a borrower can tell at any time from the credits in his pass book just what amount will pay off his mortgage.

While the law permits us to loan within a radius of 50 miles, we particularly invite applications on private residential properties in Brooklyn, Queens, Bronx and Westchester.

Qualities of the Real Estate Salesman.

"The most important duties of the salesman are to instruct and to educate. A salesman must develop the ability to make up people's minds for them. A surprisingly large number of people lack decision, they feel their own ignorance—do not know just what they ought to want. Most of them desire to make a proper choice, if they can be guided successfully and tactfully to it. The best salesman is the one who shows people opportunities they would never apprehend if left to themselves. Many inexperienced people fail utterly to realize how far a little money will go in handling a proposition which can be quickly turned over."

Thus spoke W. W. Hannan of Detroit to the Cleveland Board of Brokers, as reported in the National Real Estate Journal.

"Are you persistent? When you undertake a deal, will you just naturally get a bulldog grip on it that will never relax until it is closed? Stick-to-it-iveness is one of the most valuable qualities a man can cultivate. When I started, it took me three years before I could sell a house—but I never sold it. I have been selling houses ever since. Many a big deal is lost because a man loses his nerve. Never let a man talk you down if you know you are offering him a good marketable piece of property at a fair price. If he can talk you down under these circumstances, it is because you went into his office before you were sufficiently prepared. Never approach a man that you hope to make a customer of without being fully informed as to all the conditions pertaining to what you have to sell. If he is able to give you points favorable to your own proposition, you lose just that much influence with him.

"But suppose he does outtalk you as to facts, don't lose your nerve. Go out and work up your proposition thoroughly, which you should have done before you ever approached him, then go back; you won't allow yourself to get caught that way many times. If you believe in your own proposition, you can make the other man believe in it if you go at it right. That is the whole art of salesmanship—to make another mind meet yours—to bring the minds of two men together on the points at issue in any given transaction. It is the psychology of the deal."

Method of Assessing Building Values.

It is much more difficult to establish standards for assessing buildings than for assessing land. The assessor should have some formula, sufficiently flexible, by which to appraise the building. The cost of construction for a new building, of the type of the building under consideration, can be worked out. This is not a difficult problem; real estate men and builders can readily supply the assessor with this information. From such information he can construct a table, made up of definite types of buildings, of definite size and construction. If this table is sufficiently worked out, it may be made to include all types of buildings coming within his jurisdiction. If such table is not worked out in this detail, it is possible for the assessor to reduce his table so as to show the cubage cost or the cost per square foot of floor space for each type. Then by ascertaining the cubage or the floor space of the given building and multiplying it by his unit cost he will have the approximate cost of construction of such a building.

This, however, does not allow for depreciation. Attempts have been made to work out tables of depreciation based upon age, but we have not been able to learn of any table of this kind that is really satisfactory or accurate.

Another thing that must constantly be borne in mind in assessing buildings is that the building must be suitable to the site. A residence standing in the midst of business buildings, far from the usual residence neighborhood, will have small selling value. It may be in the best of repair and admirably designed for residential purposes, but its value will be practically nil, because it is unsuited to the site. Every city, doubtless, has many instances where the transition from residence to business uses has taken all value from some buildings. To assess such buildings on the basis of construction cost or on their actual conditions as dwellings would be a great injustice to the owners.

An assessor can be sure of his land values. But when he assesses buildings by the use of building factors, the result in each case should be tested by his judgment of the additional selling value which the building gives to the lot on which it stands. If the total of land value and building value as thus assessed exceeds the actual selling value, the assessor should go over his figures and reduce his building factor. Otherwise he will not make proper allowance for deterioration or inadequacy of the improvement to the site.—
—From the report of the Committee on Assessment of Real Estate of the National Tax Association.

Traits of a Famous Architect.

In some reminiscences of John W. Root, the architect who was D. H. Burnham's partner, which Theodore Starrett gives in Architecture and Building for November, it is said that the thing that made Daniel Burnham great, if fate intends that he shall be immortal, was the World's Columbian Exposition, and if Burnham is to be immortal John Root should stand beside him—in a sense he should stand before him, because in the elements that made the Fair great, the architecture, as opposed to the construction, there is little doubt. Mr. Root was in a way a New York City product, in that he was graduated from our New York University, and his first job was in the office of Mr. Renwick here, and his second employment in Mr. Snook's office.

In 1871 occurred the Chicago fire and thither he repaired to become foreman of the office of Messrs. Carter, Drake & Wright, architects. A few days after his entrance upon this engagement Root met Daniel Hudson Burnham, who then joined the force of draftsmen in the employ of the firm. The two young men, Root twenty-one and Burnham twenty-five became fast friends and continued so until death parted them.

Burnham got the jobs, Root did them. The way they worked, one was as necessary as the other. Root was a natural architect in the fullest sense of the word. He understood construction and took as much interest in designing a foundation as he did in designing any other part of a building.

"He understood amazingly the philosophy of construction; he had the construction faculty. His face was turned to the truth; he had no truck with the fanciful decoration of the outside of a building to look like something it was not. He was a utilitarian in the sense that he used the materials at hand—bricks and terra-cotta—and delighted to fashion his ideas with them."

HAS A FINE OUTLOOK.

The New Quarters of the Queens Chamber of Commerce on the Bridge Plaza.

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens appointed a committee last June consisting of Richmond Weed, chairman, Louis Windmuller, J. H. Smedley and President W. H. Williams, to furnish suitable offices for the chamber in its new quarters on the Bridge Plaza, Long Island City. This committee, aided by the secretary, Walter I. Willis, spent considerable time during the past summer in selecting furniture and carpets for the new quarters. That the time and money has been spent well is evident from the result, for a very beautiful clubroom is now completely furnished with a color scheme of dark green, brown and yellow that is both harmonious in coloring and restful to the eye.

This large room, which faces the Queensboro Bridge Plaza, and from which one has an excellent panoramic view of the East River and the skyline of Manhattan and the rapidly growing industrial section of Long Island City and the Sunnyside yards, is 35 ft. wide by 56 ft. long, and is covered with a dark green English Wilton carpet. The windows are tastefully draped with green and gold brocatelle hangings. Attractively arranged about the room is a large center table, in a fumed oak stain having upon it two large bronze reading lamps with yellow silk shades; several large comfortable leather chairs and davenports; and also willow settees and chairs in a baronial brown stain upholstered with tapestry.

MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS.

PUBLIC AND LOCAL WORKS CONTEMPLATED IN THE GREATER CITY.

A Summary of the Proceedings of the Local Boards, the Board of Estimate, the Supreme Court and Various Commissions and Bureaus Relating to Street and Other City and Borough Improvements.

The news collected here under the general head of Municipal Improvements is intended to be of service to property owners as well as contractors and brokers. It covers every measure looking toward a change in the City Map, toward the acquisition of title to real estate by the city or toward construction work, including the grading of streets, the laying of sewers, the building of schools, etc. Each such measure is acted upon by one or more—generally by several—official bodies before it becomes a valid ordinance. In these columns the successive official acts pertaining to it are noted from the time it is introduced in a Local Board or in the Board of Estimate. Wherever public hearings on it are granted, the fact is also announced

Municipal improvements may be divided into two classes—those that are paid for out of the general tax levy and those that are paid for wholly or in part by special assessments on the property owners benefited. The latter, which are the more important to real estate owners, originate in the Local Boards. However, every local improvement, except certain street improvements calling for an expenditure of not more than $2,000, must be submitted to the Board of Estimate for authorization.

The news is classified and is printed in this order: Local Board Calendars, Local Board Resolutions, Proceedings of the Board of Estimate, Public Hearings, Assessments Due and Payable.

LOCAL BOARD CALENDARS.

As regards the majority of city improvements, including all that call for special assessments, the Local Boards are in a sense neighborhood legislatures. They have absolute authority over certain street improvements, costing not more than $2,000. With respect to all other local improvements, they exercise full legislative functions, subject to approval by the Board of Estimate. The Board of Estimate seldom vetoes a measure coming from a Local Board. It is before the latter that the property owner should be most watchful to make himself heard concerning proposed improvements. When a Local Board resolution comes before the Board of Estimate, the presumption of expediency is on the side of the measure, as this has been adopted after open consideration by a body supposed to be familiar with local sentiment.

There are twenty-five Local Improvement Districts in the city, each with its Local Board. This is composed of the Borough President and of the Aldermen who represent the Aldermanic districts within the Local Improvement District. The Borough President's secretary acts as secretary of the several boards. Each board has jurisdiction over matters relating to its district. In the case of matters relating to two or more districts, the boards of the districts affected sit in common. The meetings are subject to call by the Borough President.

PUBLIC HEARINGS.

One or more hearings are granted in connection with all proposed improvements. In the case of local improvements, the first hearing is by the Local Board. Such hearings are noted in this news department of the Record and Guide under the general head of Local Board Calendars. Hearings by all other bodies are noted in the present column.

In acquiring title to land for streets, sewers, parks, approaches to bridges, etc., condemnation proceedings are commonly resorted to. A proceeding having been authorized by the Board of Estimate, the Corporation Counsel makes application to the Supreme Court for the appointment of three commissioners. If the cost of the land is to be paid wholly or in part by property owners benefited, the commissioners are known as commissioners of estimate and assessment. They hold their meetings at the Bureau of Street Openings, a clerical and legal organization under the supervision of the Corporation Counsel charged with the management of all legal proceedings which involve awards for damages or assessments for benefit to land.

If the cost of the land is to be paid by the city as a whole, as in the case of school sites, dock property, etc., the commissioners are known as commissioners of estimate and appraisal, whose place of meeting is at 258 Broadway.

In the case of assessments for local improvements of a physical nature which do not have to be confirmed by a court of record, the assessments come before three permanent commissioners appointed by the Mayor. They constitute the Board of Assessors, which has to do with assessments for such improvement as the regulating and grading of streets, the laying of sewers, etc.

Proposed Assessments.

The following proposed assessments have been completed and are lodged in the office of the Board of Assessors, 320 Broadway, Manhattan, for examination by any one interested; and all persons who are opposed to these assessments must present their objections, in writing, to the Secretary of the Board, at the above address, on or before Jan. 28,, at 11 a. m., when testimony will be taken:

MAYBE you once paid to look down on New York City from the top of the World Building, and a few years later you climbed the tower of the Tribune Building. Then the Park Row Building was erected and perhaps you thought that the extreme limit of height had been reached.

Now the Woolworth Building dominates the whole city, and yet we venture to say that some day you will be able to look down upon the Woolworth Building from a higher building, and that that building will be almost entirely of Architectural Terra Cotta.

Atlantic Terra Cotta made the Woolworth Building possible.

HOUSE WRECKING DOWN TO A SCIENCE

We contract with builders, owners and architects for the wrecking of buildings—small or great—from top to curb.

Large forces of skilled workmen, under competent foremen, together with modern appliances and ample hauling facilities, permit quick work.

System in all branches reduces the bluster of wrecking to a minimum. Our methods provide safety to abutting property and but slight street encroachment.

We have handled as many as a dozen big contracts simultaneously during a single month.

We guarantee satisfaction and satisfy the architect, builder and owners as to terms.

Write us or call us up and we will have a representative with you promptly on appointment.

JOHN T. SIMPSON, one of the organizers, and for the last five years President of the American Concrete Steel Company, of Newark, N. J., has sold his entire interest in that company and opened an office at 1224 Essex Building, Newark, to follow the practice of architecture and engineering.

THE INDICATIONS are that the midwinter convention of the American Institute of Electric Engineers under the auspices of the Standards Committee, will be of great interest. A large number of papers are being prepared under the general direction of Dr. A. E. Kennelly, chairman, and under the particular supervision of Messrs. Lamme and Steinmetz, of the sub-committee on General Revision of Rules, and Messrs. Merrill, Robbins and Powell, of the sub-committee on Rating.

Why the Stairs Fell.

Hearings to investigate the recent collapse of a stairway at the Nostrand avenue station of the Long Island Railroad in Brooklyn are being held by the Public Service Commission. The stairway, which was an apparently substantial structure, of steel frame, gave way while one man was descending it, and had killed him in its collapse. While no report has yet been made, testimony has been given tending to show that the collapse was due to the breaking of the connection between the steel girder, forming the side of the stairway, and a castiron post on the first landing, against which the end of the girder rested. The commission has directed its engineers to make examination of all similar stairs from all elevated railroads, with the view of disclosing any defects which may exist in their condition.

—The State of New York indeed ought to have a building of its own here, in order to house its many local offices, but our landlords would hate to lose them as tenants.

Bureau of Buildings, Borough of Manhattan.

Plumbing Applications.

BULLETIN NO. 56, 1912.—New forms upon which to file applications for plumbing and drainage will be in use in this bureau on January 1, 1913. In these revised forms, all unnecessary questions have been eliminated as far as possible, and the procedure generally has been simplified. All blanks used in connection with these applications must be typewritten and filed in triplicate—that is, one original and two carbon copies.

Plumbing applications will bear an independent serial number, and applicants are requested to refer to this record number in all subsequent correspondence with the bureau. The two blank lines constituting the heading on each page (entitled "P. & D. Application No....." and "Location.....") should not be filled in by the applicant.

When filing a plumbing application in the first instance, only two blanks will be required (in addition to such plans as may be necessary), namely:

Form entitled P. & D. Application (Page 1).—This is the application proper, one copy of which, after approval by the Superintendent, will be issued to the applicant as the permit required by the Building Code.

Form entitled P. & D. Application (Specifications).—This page is intended to give the Bureau all information required which can not well be shown on the plans and which is not already definitely covered in the Building Code or the Plumbing Rules (a copy of which rules may be had on application). One copy, when finally approved, will be returned to the applicant.

If the application is not approved as originally submitted, a list of objections will be sent to the applicant on form entitled P. & D. Application (Objections).

These objections should then be answered by filing the necessary amendment on form entitled P. & D. Application (Amendment). If this amendment is not approved, the amendment sheet will be so marked and returned to the applicant. It will then be necessary for the applicant to file another amendment on a similar form, properly answering the objections. When the amendment is approved, a copy will be issued to the aplicant. Amendments to plumbing applications will be accepted only on the blue forms provided for that purpose.

As soon as the aplication is finally approved and before beginning the work, an affidavit as required by the Plumbing Rules must be filed by a registered plumber on form entitled P. & D. Application (Plumber's Affidavit). This form need only be filed in duplicate and only one copy need be sworn to by the plumber.

RUDOLPH P. MILLER,
Superintendent of Buildings.

Dated December 28, 1912.

METALLIC PAINTS.

Subject of a Report to International Congress on Testing Materials.

The following is part of an official report to the International Congress for Testing Materials, by J. A. Cushman, an American delegate.

The efficiency of a paint for metallic structures depends upon (1) the excellence of the vehicle used, (2) the influence of the pigment on the vehicle with which it is mingled, and (3) the influence of the pigment upon the underlying metal. By far the greater number of authorities who have published upon this subject within the last three years have become convinced that the electrolytic explanation, based upon the modern theory of solutions can be made to account for the mechanism of all rusting and corrosion reactions. The fact that chromic acid and its soluble salts had been discovered by a number of observers to render the surface of iron passive, and thereby to check or inhibit corrosion, seemed to promise a new field for investigation in the production of protective coatings. At the same time, the well-known prohibition of rusting afforded by strong alkaline solutions appeared also to indicate that the well-known protective power of many basic pigments might be explained from the same point of view. Many highly basic pigments have been found excellent for prime coatings as is instanced in the well-known and almost universal use of red lead for this purpose. At the same time a great difference of opinion has existed among engineers in regard to the value of red lead, so that it could not be said at any time that the problem of protecting iron and steel had been solved beyond possibility of great improvement.

A recent inspection of the steel paint test panels at Atlantic City, N. J., showed that the corroded white lead films have chalked to a considerable extent and show heavy rusting. The zinc films have checked and crooked badly. The sublimed white lead and sublimed blue lead films were in good condition and indicated the value of such basic pigments as protectives of steel. The red lead films which have given good protection to the metal to which they were applied, showed slight surface coating of carbonate of lead, due to the action of the carbonic acid of the atmosphere. The iron oxide films were all in very fair condition. The graphite and carbon black paints were shown to be pitted in several places, with excrescence of rust. The inert pigments, such as barytes, whiting, silica and asbestine, gave very fair service for a short time, and then decay progressed, quite rapidly in most cases. The plates painted with the chromate pigments were in most excellent condition in nearly every case. This was especially true of the plates painted with zinc chromate, basic lead chromate (American vermillion) and chrome green, the surfaces of these paints not having visibly chalked, checked or disintegrated, and freedom from corrosion being shown throughout the test.

The recent shortage of the flax crop and the consequent rise in price of linseed oil have resulted in an attempt on the part of the manufacturer to utilize other oils which are of a slow-drying or semi-drying nature. A most elaborate series of paint exposure tests upon various oils is being conducted at the present time on the grounds of The Institute of Industrial Research, at Washington.

A paint suitable for the protection of metal work should be composed of a suitable pigment in intimate association with a liquid vehicle excelling in the following particulars: (1) chemical permanence, (2) chemical inertness toward iron, (3) resistance toward physical damage, (4) imperviousness toward air and moisture, (5) elasticity.

While we may safely admit these conclusions, the researches of the last few years seem to indicate that we should include another heading, perhaps the most important of all, namely, the inhibitive value of the pigment, for if this point is given attention the importance of the other qualifications is to some extent minimized. Slight openings or abrasions of the protective coatings are necessarily of less importance if a rust inhibitive action is provided by the pigmentary portion of the vehicles.

Lighting of the Panama-Pacific.

Describing the illumination of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, W. D. A. Ryan, the illuminating engineer, who planned the lighting of the Niagara Falls and the illuminating of the Hudson-Fulton celebration, says in a letter just received:

"One of the special features will be the introduction of jewels in the place of incandescent lamps so commonly used at previous expositions. The whole effect will be surmounted by a forty-eight electric scintillator—one for each State, which will be mounted off the main axis of the exposition, about five or six hundred yards out in the water. It will be placed on barges anchored in the bay, and will require sixty trained men to operate the lights. These will go through an evolution of color, forming Auroras and various effects in the sky and over the exposition, and will spread like a great lily, and will be seen in all the surrounding Bay cities and on clear nights will be visible in the sky for forty or fifty miles.

"We have a great deal of fog here and this will assist us greatly in producing wonderful lighting effects.

"The lighting of this exposition will, without doubt, surpass anything in lighting in the world's history. One of the strongest features of the lighting will be the fact that effects will be produced here that have never been seen before.

"The entire lighting is new in every respect and it marks an epoch in illumination. The advance since the last big exposition in science and art of electric engineering and development of electric apparatus has been so great that we are now able to produce effects with economy which would have been physically impossible five or six years ago. In other words, the exposition is to be a magnificent picture by night, with the architectural splendor brought out to the best possible advantage in both form and color, maintaining the daylight perspective."

On the Other Side of the World.

Once every month the Record and Guide office receives a visitor from South Africa, the Master Builders' Federation Journal, published at Johannesburg. From reading its pages it is learned that the building industry is making remarkable progress in South Africa. A great change has come over the country in the last twenty years.

This present year the Transvaal is seeing the largest development in building operations ever experienced there. In Johannesburg work is going on to the approximate value of six million dollars, and this is exclusive of the cost of private dwellings, which are being put up in large numbers in all the suburbs.

Mr. H. G. Veale, in an address as president to the Transvaal Institute of Architects, stated that in his opinion South Africa has reached the condition of a solid and steadily progressing country. Money is now being invested in building schemes, he said, at the rate of ten to twelve per cent., whereas formerly architects were expected to design buildings to return twelve to fifteen per cent. The large warehouses being put up by merchants were a pretty good index of the solid character of the progress, while the thousands of dwellings that had been erected by salaried men during the past year was also a mark of confidence and settled feeling.

Flourishing associations of master builders are to be found at Durban, Cape Town, Port Elizabeth, East London, Bloemfontein, Kreugersdorp, Pretoria, Johannesburg, Potchefstroom, Kroonsstad and Boksburg, besides the National Association of Building Trade Employers which was established in 1904, the year after our New York City B. T. E. A. was founded, and which sends delegates to the annual conventions of British builders in the old country. South African builders keep informed on construction affairs in America, especially in New York City, and the current number of the Journal has an interesting commentary on the Equitable fire, giving the names of the successive architects of the building and an explanation of the reason why it fell such an easy prey to the flames.

From a paper read before a society at Jeppstown, and reproduced in the Journal, by Edward H. Waugh, A. R. I. B. A., on "The Modern House and Town," it is noted that "it is useless to lay down rules for the architecture of South Africa, for the people will have what they want and need and the most an architect can do is to mould and form these ideas as well as his ability permits. It's of no use for an architect to tell a Johannesburg shopkeeper that his fine building must not appear to be resting on plateglass instead of solid piers, for he wants the glass and not the piers, and he will have what he wants."

In the columns of the Journal all kinds of building materials are advertised. For the greater part these are imported from Britain. All the building trades and professions are practised and there are technical schools for the training of the youth.

The Beauty of White Paint.

Simultaneously with the growing popularity of extremely plain forms of architecture, the use of white colors for the exteriors of detached dwellings has become notably prevalent. In the suburbs of our Southern cities white colors predominate, not alone in the adornment of Colonial types of houses, but in the decoration of almost every newly built home, whether the structure be one of wood or concrete. In some suburbs there is now a pronounced line of demarkation between the older dwellings and those of recent construction. In the one section we find numerous tints on both walls and roofs together with many and various combinations of colors on a single house. In the newer neighborhood we see only white and black, and the suggestion of freshness and cleanliness is delightfully enticing. But while white colors prevail, there is not a rigorous adherence to the Colonial type of architecture. It is actually the exception to find any houses at all which are not painted white.

For the outside painting of houses, white lead is a particularly desirable pigment, whether the lead be procured and used already mixed in the form of a good mixed white paint, or whether it be bought pure and mixed by the painter.

It is understood, of course, that a house is not necessarily white because it is painted with white lead, as the lead can be mixed with other colors. In general, however, the lighter the color with which a house is painted, the more durable the paint will be, and the more comfortable the house itself will be, both in winter and summer, white paint having a surprising effect in reflecting the sun's rays in hot weather and keeping the house behind it cool, as well as in preventing radiation of the heat in winter.

The old impression about white being a troublesome color to keep clean is open to question. Is white actually any more susceptible to dirt and fading than yellow, for instance?—"Practical Decorator."

A New Method in Stone Construction.

The past year has been one of the biggest from a builder's standpoint in the history of the United States. During that time a greater number of big structures have been completed in record-breaking time than were ever handled before along similar lines. Every city in the country has been able to point with pride to big new buildings which were rushed to completion in a fashion calculated to make the expert constructionist of twenty years ago sit up and take notice.

It is evident that the demand of the times is not only for big buildings but also for quick work upon them. In this connection the new feature of the stone trade has developed, according to the "American Stone Trade." It is becoming the rule with progressive stone workers that their work upon extensive jobs shall be begun as soon as the frame of the structure projects above the ground to a sufficient height to allow the masons to forge ahead without interruption. The old practice of the stonecutter was to commence his portion of the work as soon as the frame and general details of the building were completed, making it necessary for two processes of construction from the ground up to be followed before the physical make-up of the job was completed.

A couple of years ago the trade changed its plans. It was in the East that the difference first became apparent. Only a comparatively short time ago stone-cutting concerns in New York, Philadelphia and other cities decided that they might as well begin upon their respective jobs at the earliest possible opportunity, instead of allowing the concrete and steel construction to have full sway over the situation until along toward the last, when the masons got their innings.

The innovation has gained in practice and has spread from the East through the Middle West, until to-day there are a large number of up-to-date stone companies which specify in their contracts that they be allowed to push ahead with their work as soon as a chance for this is afforded.

Hints to Homebuilders.

The interior trim, the mantels, paneling, wainscoting, and the staircase, are generally included in the builder's contract. For this work the architect's details are followed, and his designs accepted without question. Yet, how often is a carefully paneled room utterly ruined by the wall coverings, curtains, and furniture, because the owner, with the best intention in the world, considers these matters—which make or mar an interior—to be outside of an architect's province, or too personal for him to advise upon. Albro & Lindeberg, in their new book, "Domestic Architecture," give this professional advice to laymen about to build a country house:

The rooms in a house should be homogeneous, not a collection of samples of historical periods. To design a Jacobean dining room and a Louis XV. drawing room, in a Georgian building, immediately makes the house a series of unrelated compartments. On the other hand, when the rooms of a whole floor are treated broadly, we have, as a result, not only a unity of effect, but a fine sense of spaciousness.

The average man contemplates the building of a house with misgivings, not unmixed, at time with fear. He has been told that building is an expensive luxury, and that the cost of a house invariably exceeds the initial estimates.

On this subject we can speak from our own experience. We have designed some houses which have been finished within the expenditure originally proposed, and others in which the initial estimates have been doubled. But we believe we are stating the experience of architects in general, when we say that the additional cost has, in every instance, been incurred at the client's express demands.

In this matter of cost, there are two ways for a client to approach his architect. He may say, "I have $25,000 to spend; show me what I can get for it." Or he may say, "These are my requirements; keep the cost as low as possible." But he cannot say, "I must have this and that, and I will not pay over $25,000 for it."

The details and complications of building even the small house may seem at the outset to be many; but there is one way for the owner to avoid most of his worries, and that way is to place at the start a little real faith in the architect he employs. If you wish a successful house, give the architect free admission into your confidence and faith. He will work many times harder, knowing that you trust his judgment and stand behind his decisions. For the profession of architecture, like that of medicine and law, is one in which the results are judged by the services performed, and the creation of a beautiful and useful building is to the true architect his best reward.

January Motor Truck Show in New York.

Seventy or more different makes of motor trucks and delivery wagons will be exhibited in the commercial vehicle section of the thirteenth National Automobile Show to be held in New York City from January 11 to 25. The second week of the show has been set aside for the exclusive display of motor cars for industrial, commercial, municipal and federal service, and of motor car parts, equipment and supplies. There will be about 200 exhibitors of accessories.

To house this great exhibition it was necessary to secure the use of the new Grand Central Palace in addition to Madison Square Garden. All of the exhibition space on the three levels in both buildings will be completely filled, making this show more than twice as large as any other industrial exhibition held anywhere in America except in the automobile industry.

The tremendous development of the motor truck industry within the last two or three years is revealed by the fact that the truck show will be fully as large this winter as the passenger car show, which will be held in the same buildings the preceding week. The two sections constitute one continuous exhibition, held by the Automobile Board of Trade.

Concrete Work in Low Temperatures.

At this season of the year the greatest care must be exercised in using reinforced concrete. Cool weather, with its attending atmospheric conditions, even though not freezing, has a bad effect on concrete. The following points are recommended by a firm of concrete contractors:

During cool weather, even though not freezing, the setting of cement is delayed. Sometimes two weeks or more after placing, it is possible to drive a nail into the concrete, which indicates how serious is this delay in the setting. The only sure way of knowing when the cement is fully set and the concrete properly hardened, is to actually test it with a hammer for hardness. To do this it is necessary to remove small portions of the form work in each section of the structure to be certain that there are no soft spots. Bear in mind, this delay and indefiniteness in the setting of cement is not due to freezing, but merely to medium cold weather and attending atmospheric conditions.

Be careful to avoid freezing of the concrete. While the days may not be particularly cold, the nights are often below freezing temperature. Therefore protect all freshly laid concrete by covering it with some material that will prevent freezing. Be especially careful to protect this concrete during the nights. It is said, and may be true, that frozen concrete will reset under certain conditions, but it is not advisable to depend upon such an uncertainty. The safest plan is to entirely avoid freezing.

WORLD'S LARGEST HOTEL.

Has the Most Imposing Lobby and Other Halls of Great Beauty.

The McAlpine, whose opening to the public was a notable occurrence of the week, is easily the last word in modern scientific hotel construction. Modernity sets limits which hotels of other days were not required to conform to, and therefore before there can be an intelligent comparison there must be an intelligent classification under which New York city hotels would probably be classified by themselves because of their having to overcome peculiar difficulties of construction and somehow obtain compensation for the limitations of ground area.

In point of size, mechanical equipment, labor and time-saving devices and fire protection, the McAlpine is the best hotel construction New York city has yet produced. Proof of its superiority in one particular is presented in the fact that it has the lowest insurance rate given any hotel structure in New York. Of course doors and trim of steel are plain in appearance compared with the rich carvings of other days, but they are safer. Interior corridors where the sunlight cannot well penetrate are scarcely an improvement in planning over the bright hallways of the hotels in other cities, but we are in New York where sunlight is definitely quoted on the real estate exchange.

The exterior of the McAlpine has been publicly pictured and admired for a year, and it is the interior which interests us now. First, it is important to note one feature which largely influences the plan and arrangement of the first and second stories, an arrangement which marks a distinct departure from the established New York type of hostelry. This consists in utilizing the valuable retail store-renting space facing three streets and the location of the dining-room and restaurant service of the house one story above street level, all of which has been accomplished while still retaining sufficient space on the ground floor to provide the hotel with the largest lobby in the city.

The Lobby.

Entering from 34th street one encounters a broad one-storied corridor, which leads to a spacious one-storied aisle surrounding the central lobby that rises three stories in height above the pavement, perhaps the most imposing apartment of its kind in the city. It is designed in severe and simple Italian Renaissance, executed in marble and caen stone, and consists of a series of arched openings supporting a vaulted ceiling; the arched openings are decorated with broche violet marble columns supporting a cornice and balustrade at the second-story level, where openings give a general view of the lobby below from the Tapestry Gallery. The remaining space within the arched openings form lunettes which are exquisitely decorated by mural paintings by T. Gilbert White.

Three chandeliers suspended from the ceiling of the central lobby are a striking feature of its decorative effect, executed in carved wood, colored deep red and dull gold, while the accessory lighting effect is secured by bronze side brackets affixed to each of the lobby piers and by bronze torchers mounted on marble pedestals in each corner of the apartment.

The ceilings of the surrounding corridors both on the first floor and the Tapestry Gallery on the second form a part of the general picture presented to the observer's eye from the ground floor, these ceilings being decorated in a general ground work of dull gold, relieved by touches of dull blue and red in the background of the ornament, forming a rich contrast to the general light gray effect of the central lobby.

On the second floor one of the principal points of interest is the "Tapestry Gallery," so called because of its wall decoration of Herter tapestry, woven on order for this apartment. This gallery, which is broad and spacious, extends entirely around the central lobby and overlooking it. It is especially created for the use of the guests of the house and separated from the traffic and turmoil of the main floor.

A Louis-Seize Dining-Room.

The Tapestry Gallery leads direct to the main dining-room, along the entire 34th street frontage of the building. This room is decorated in the Louis-Seize period in light natural oak, all ornament gilded, with side walls hung with an old gold silk damask. The windows are draped with the same gold damask with embroidered valances, with filet laces at the windows. The treatment of the columns and pilasters of this room with mirrors produces one of the most unique effects ever accomplished in this country in a room of this kind. The decorations of the ceiling are in monotones of cream and gold, which not only diffuse the light in the room, but lend to it an imposing effect of height, breadth and length, with its crystal chandeliers and bronze and crystal side brackets. The lighting effect of this room reflected in myriads of directions by the mirrors together with the monotones of cream and gold, the hand-tufted rugs on the floor, the specially-designed oak chairs with cushions of velvet produce an effect which no other dining-room in New York can parallel.

Directly to the west of the Tapestry Gallery along the Broadway front is the banquet-room, with groined vaulted ceiling carried out in the French style adapted from the Italian. The walls are in green and gold, divided into panels by pilasters and cornice and the panels draped with green damask reproduced from antique fabric by special order. The lunette panels on the sidewalls produced by the cross vaulting of the ceilings are decorated with beautiful paintings in antique tones harmonizing with the room.

The ladies' parlor is in the most charming color of gray. The woodwork has been glazed to the antique in the monotones of antique grays and the side walls are hung with a broche reproduced from an antique original used in Versailles. Hangings and laces are all made in harmony with the decoration in gunmetal blue blended with chintz colors, which give an effect quite new to the New York public. A savonnerie rug covers the floor and the furnishings harmonize with the rooms.

Beyond the ladies' parlor on 33d street is the general writing room, decorated after the manner of the French Renaissance, with walnut woodwork, above which is the artificial process stone for the walls, and ceiling decorated with paintings by well known artists.

With reference to the bedroom floors, it may be generally stated that the hotel offers a variety both in size, price, decoration and furnishing, with corresponding rates, ranging from $1.50 to $5 per day. The bedroom floors, beginning at the third, are arranged with two open light courts facing Broadway, so that all rooms have access to outside light and air. The twenty-sixth floor contains the large ballroom and convention hall, Turkish bath and roof gardens. Below the curb level are four basements.

East Tremont Taxpayers.

At the regular monthly meeting of the East Tremont Taxpayers Association which was held at Prospect Hall, Tremont and Prospect avenues, on Friday evening, December 27, the principal topic discussed related to the question of the site for the proposed Bronx County Building. In respect thereto the association through its president, endorsed the recommendation of the Taxpayers' Alliance "That the section of Crotona Park, bounded on the north by Tremont avenue, east by Arthur avenue, south by East 175th street, and West by Third avenue, be set aside as a civic centre for the Borough of the Bronx, and that all municipal, county and borough buildings to be erected in the future in this borough, be located within these boundaries when possible."

This selection is because, it was said, this section is desirably situated in the centre of the Bronx, geographically speaking, and because of the many transit advantages with which it is endowed. Many other considerations favorable to the selection of this location for a civic centre were advanced, but the above-mentioned features are regarded as being the most salient to be brought forward for the consideration of the public.

A committee composed of Henry Boschen, J. J. Hess, Chris. McRae, H. Rattner and J. Koehm, appointed at a previous meeting to make arrangements for the annual banquet, reported that the banquet will be held at the Bronx Casino at Boston Road, between 181st and 182d streets, and that the following had been expressly invited: Borough President Miller, Congressman Goulden, Commissioner Eustis, Commissioner Higgins, Commissioner Niles, Senator Griffin, and Assemblyman McMahon.

Borough President Miller's letter in regards to the new Industrial Railroad, as well as to other matters, was read. The association appreciated his remarks and voted that a letter of thanks be sent.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1912.

T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The number in ( ) preceding the serial number to the right of the date line, at head of this page, is the Index number for the Checking Index.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

NEW YORK, JANUARY 11, 1913

THE TRANSIT SITUATION IN GREATER NEW YORK

Local Influences, Not Operative in the Same Degree in Other Cities, Will Induce a Suburban Movement of Exceptional Proportions Here in the Next Ten Years.

By WILLIAM HERBERT.

IN the first article of this series there were pointed out some of the reasons which are making for more rapid suburban development in and around all the large cities of the United States and Great Britain. In the present article the conditions which are making for rapid suburban development in the neighborhood of New York will be discussed in some detail. More than any of the large cities of the world, New Yor' needs to transfer part of its population to the cheaper land by which it is surrounded; and the greatness of the need has given zest to an enormous, sustained and costly effort to break through the physical obstacles which have prevented the expansion hitherto, and consequently to give the population of the city access to the unoccupied areas on its margin.

Flat Life Unnatural.

The people of New York have become so much accustomed to living in tenements and flats that they have almost forgotten that such a method of life is contrary to the ordinary habits and most deeply-rooted instincts of their forebears It seems natural for people of Latin descent, as the French or Italians, to live in multiple dwellings; but English-speaking peoples have always preferred the detached house, and they do so still. All over England and the United States the popular type of residence for the urban inhabitant is the individual house.

Only the poor and a certain class of the well-to-do who want to live in a central location prefer the tenement and apartment house. New York is, of course, so much a cosmopolitan city that many of its residents accept a life in tenements or apartments without any sense of its undesirable aspects; but there can be no doubt that the larger part of the New York families who are paying a rent of $40 a month and over to the owner of a flat would, in case they were able, be living in a suburban or semi-suburban house. It is necessity, or what they conceive to be necessity, rather than choice which determines their manner of life.

Causes of Congestion.

The physical conditions which have caused the congestion of the population of New York are too obvious to require more than a mention. The original city of New York was located on an island, separated on three sides from space to expand by broad bodies of water. These waters were not impassable, and large numbers of New Yorkers have always crossed the East and Hudson Rivers every day. Nevertheless, the easiest outlet was toward the north, and until recently the land to the north claimed the larger proportion of the increase in population. But the inevitable result was that the New Yorker had to travel further on the average in getting to and from his business than the inhabitant of any other big city. Because of the pressure of population on space residential land values waxed very high, so high that in Manhattan the private house became a rare type of improvement. Manhattan became a city of apartment houses and tenements, and even in the outer boroughs a large and increasing proportion of the population were forced to live in multiple dwellings.

MYRTLE BOULEVARD, LARCHMONT GARDENS.

The present series of articles is the first systematic attempt to collect and discuss the trade experience of the several producing and selling branches of the business of suburban developing in and adjacent to Greater New York. Only through a comprehensive study of that experience is it possible to ascertain what are the prevailing tastes and financial requirements of suburban home buyers. Information for use in these articles, which will be generously illustrated with photographs and diagrams, has been obtained from nearly one hundred of the more active suburban companies operating in the local market. The current article is the second in the series, which contains ten more articles by William Herbert, author of "Houses for Town and Country," and two by A. F. Brinckerhoff, landscape architect.

Results of Consolidation.

From the very start unusually costly and energetic attempts were made to meet this strain upon the city's means of transit. The surface cars and the ferries ceased to be anywhere near satisfactory in the seventies, and before 1885 the elevated road and the first Brooklyn Bridge had been built. A few years later the need for a subway with an express service and more bridges had already appeared, and agitation for their construction was begun. For many years, however, this agitation was fruitless. The various plans put forward failed chiefly because the engineering, financial and other obstacles were so considerable that they could not be immediately overcome.

The consolidation of the old City of New York with the counties of Kings, Queens and Richmond was the result chiefly of a widely prevailing opinion that administrative unity was a condition of the ultimate construction of an efficient transit system covering the whole metropolitan area. The first fruits of consolidation was the building of three new bridges, although no arrangements were made to lay out a comprehensive transit system, of which these bridges would be connecting links. The first subway followed soon thereafter, and then the Brooklyn subway. All these new means of transit did not, however, do more than meet an actually existing need. They were outgrown within a year after they were completed. It became evident that the only way in which New York City could burst its bonds and reach the cheaper land on its outskirts was by making a really herculean effort to construct a new and an adequate transit system.

Transit Betterments.

That effort is now being made. New York City is about to spend over $250,000,000 in an attempt to create a series of forced draughts of transit, which will rapidly bear its citizens through the densely populated area into the region of open land. These new transit lines will radiate in every direction, and will afford access to a larger supply of cheaper land than its inhabitants have known for a generation. Moreover, the railroad companies are co-operating with the city in this attempt to improve the means of transit. All except one of the railroads which terminate on the New Jersey side of the Hudson River are having their passengers transported by rail to convenient terminals in Manhattan at a considerable saving of time over the old ferries.

Two of these roads have introduced improvements into their service which have reduced the running time and increased the comfort of their passengers. The Long Island Railroad is being electrified and practically reconstructed, with the result that within a few years a vast quantity of additional territory on that island will come within the zone of colonization. It is extraordinarily fortunate for the people who use the railroad that it is owned by a corporation which could afford to invest so much money in the improvement of its service at a time when the existing lines were not profitable. It is fortunate also that the new municipal subway system will be so intimately connected with the Long Island terminals in Queens, Brooklyn and Manhattan.

Finally, an equally colossal effort has been made by the railroads terminating at the Grand Central Station to make their suburban service as efficient and as convenient as possible. In all these cases, except that of the New Jersey railroads,

ENTRANCE GATES TO LARCHMONT GARDENS.

New York has been benefited because it is served by wealthy corporations, which can afford to make investments with but small regard for immediate returns. Within a few years its transit equipment, instead of being as in the past, inadequate to its current needs, will be more than adequate. It will encourage expansion, instead of holding it back, and this fact will have an important bearing not only upon the future distribution of population, but upon that re-distribution of population which will take place within the next ten years.

Undoubtedly the greater accessibility of comparatively cheap land will revive the interest of the New Yorker in the idea of occupying a house of his own; and the kind of house he will want will not be the old brownstone or brick residence built in blocks, but the detached suburban house. In this respect New York will resemble those parts of the middle Western American cities which have grown up since the use of the electric trolley. In such cities the choice is coming to be one between the detached house and the apartment, and so it will be in New York.

Passing of the Old Brownstone Rows.

The city house, massed in blocks, is likely to become an obsolete type. It will be become comparatively obsolete, not merely because enough land should be made available to give every family that wants it more room, but because a larger number of families will want more room. The families that decide to live in detached houses will do so in many cases because they want playgrounds and breathing space for the children, in which respect the city house is not much better than the apartment. Indeed, in this respect the city house is so good as certain types of semi-suburban apartment houses which have been springing up in the middle West.

The accelerated growth of the New York suburbs does not mean merely that a much larger proportion of the future increase of population will seek suburban homes. It means that an increasing displacement of population now living in apartment houses is bound to take place. Among the apartment house inhabitants there is a considerable proportion who were partly forced into choosing that kind of residence, and who have been kept away from the suburbs only because of certain inconveniences of suburban life. Any change in condition which tends to make the suburbs more accessible or more pleasant as a place of residence forces a certain number of apartment house occupants into a condition of residential instability. They can be persuaded to move, provided they can be made to understand just what are the real advantages of suburban life under the new conditions. The great problem of suburban development companies is to get at these people, to track them down and then to make them understand in what respect conditions have changed. Of course, this knowledge will in any event slowly spread. The conditions which are making in favor of an accelerated suburban movement are fundamental and all-powerful. But under modern methods business men do not wait for conditions to have effect. They seek to anticipate what the new conditions are, and then to take advantage of their appearance.

Individuals and companies interested in suburban property need above all some method of reaching this increasingly important source of business, just as they need about as much the ability to place before possible customers the class of suburban accommodation which will prove to be the most attractive.

QUEENS LEADS IN INCREASES OF VALUES

During the Last Eight Years Its Real Estate Has Increased 258% In Value—As a Place For Investment

By JOHN W. PARIS

THE only excuse one can reasonably offer for assuming to prophesy, is that the laws of nature are immutable, and that the same cause or combination of causes will, under like circumstances, always produce the same effect. Any prediction, therefore, that we make of the future will be made with the past as the basis of judgment.

In the course of this review, where statistics are used, they will, as a rule, appear as percentages. Their meaning will thus be more easily comprehended. It is percentages in which we are all interested. The actual increase in New York City real estate during the last eight years has been 64 per cent., or an average of 8 per cent. per year. This is in addition to the rents collected for the use of the property.

Assuming that the rents would pay all taxes and repairs, and would leave a margin of 3 per cent. on the total value of the real estate, and you have an 11 per cent. investment; that is, Father Knickerbocker, averaging his entire real estate holdings, has an investment which has returned him 11 per cent per annum. While this is the average return, there are sections of the city which fall far below this percentage, and there are other sections of the city that far exceed it. As it is percentages in which we are interested, the shrewd investor will search carefully for those sections of the city wherein the greatest percentage of profit may be assured.

Percentage of Increase in Values.

For the purpose of this article, we will consider only the borough divisions of the city. For a detailed systematic study, this should be carried to a much greater extent, even to a study of the various wards of each borough. The boroughs will have to suffice, however, in this instance.

From 1904 to 1912, or a period of eight years, the per cent. of increase in real estate values in the various boroughs was as follows:

MR. JOHN W. PARIS.

Manhattan	43%	Average	Annual	5.37%
Brooklyn	94%	"	"	11.7 %
Bronx	144%	"	"	18.0 %
Queens	258%	"	"	32.25%
Richmond	82%	"	"	10.16%

During the same period the increase in buildings erected on this real estate was as follows:

Manhattan	26.6%	Average	Annual	4.4 %
Brooklyn	44 %	"	"	7.3 %
Bronx	96.6%	"	"	16.1 %
Queens	116.4%	"	"	19.4 %
Richmond	61.3%	"	"	10.2 %

During the same period, the increase of population in each borough was as follows:

Manhat'n	11.02%	Average	Annual	1.84%
Brooklyn	24.2%	"	"	4.03%
Bronx	74.6%	"	"	12.4 %
Queens	70.2%	"	"	11.7 %
Richmond	23 %	"	"	3.8 %

From the foregoing tables, it is seen that the Borough of Queens leads all the boroughs in increased real estate values by a very large margin.

It would hardly seem possible that real estate in that borough had increased 258 per cent. in eight years, or an average of 32¼ per cent. per year, yet such is the fact.

A Big Building Year.

During the past twelve months, building operations have been quite active in all boroughs of the city, both Manhattan and Bronx exceeding 1911 by a considerable margin. Queens enjoyed an unusual active building movement in 1911. It has not quite reached that same high water mark for 1912. A careful study of the building operations of the borough, however, reveals some interesting features. In the matter of manufacturing plants, we find an increase of 28 per cent. in number for 1912 as compared with 1911, and an increase in cost of 63 per cent. In office buildings, we find that the number of such buildings erected increased by 26 per cent. and the cost by 42 per cent. The industrial life of the borough, therefore, shows a healthy increase over that of 1911. This is highly gratifying, as it is placing our industrial and commercial life in a location where there is ample living room for employer and employee, and those who are sufficiently fortunate to find employment in these new plants require no further thought as to the congestion problem.

Our Investing Status.

America is not recognized as a nation of investors to the extent that some European nations are. In France, Germany, Switzerland and other European countries, practically every individual is a saver and investor. In this country we are becoming known as a nation of savers, but have not yet reached the stage of investors. As a result, our savings banks are numerous and well patronized. People at large, have not fully grasped the importance of making their savings work. They fully realize the importance of working hard for their savings, but they have not yet grasped the importance of making their savings work hard for them. Our lawmakers and legislative bodies have not awakened to the importance of protecting the saving public from the depredations of the stock gambler, the gold mine and the oil well schemers. Through these channels millions of dollars every year are lost by a savings public which is ambitious to make its savings work, but which is not in a position to analyze and judge the merits and demerits of the various propositions which are placed before it. Legislation is bound to come, whereby investments, whether questionable or otherwise, must be scrutinized by some capable bureau or official before the promoter is permitted to offer same to the public. Legislation of this kind is bound to not only save this enormous loss following unwise investment, but will establish a confidence whereby thousands of savers who are at the present time permitting their funds to lie in savings banks at the very low rate of interest paid by these institutions, to invest their surplus in good, safe productive channels.

From the standpoint of safety alone, New York City real estate surpasses all other known security. Railroad stocks and bonds, industrial stocks and bonds, even government bonds depreciate in value in times of panic. During the panic of 1907, when every other security depreciated in value from 10 to 50 per cent., New York City real estate advanced in value over $100,000,000. The inexperienced investor is liable to become confused in determining where he may best place his savings. A few well established rules may aid very much in this determination.

Rules for Investors.

First—It is population and population only which makes real estate values. Most people have the superficial idea that it is improvements, buildings, street pavings and subway lines which make up real estate values. All of this has no value whatever if there is no one to use them or occupy them.

Second—As population makes real estate values, transportation controls the distribution of this population.

Third—New York City must provide housings and commercial buildings for a population of at least 300,000 persons a year. The birth rate exceeds the death rate by 65,000 a year. The normal immigration into this country is about 800,000 a year. One hundred and fifty thousand of this immigration remains in New York City. Immigration from the various sections of our own country will amount to 35,000 a year. We thus have an actual increase in population of 250,000 a year. The dispossessed population of this city, whose homes are torn down in order that way may be made for new commercial blocks, new school houses, parks, railroad yards, etc., will amount to from 50,000 to 75,000 more.

If it can, therefore, be determined with any degree of accuracy the bulk of this population will settle, each year, it can be most certainly determined where the greatest percentage of profits are to be made. As it is transportation which controls the distribution of population, it therefore becomes purely a question of the study of the trend of transportation

Lines of Least Resistance.

Bodies of people are like bodies of water which constantly follow the channels of least resistance. Resistance as to people is made up of three items only; namely, time, trouble and expense. Where population can travel, therefore, with the least expenditure of time, with the least expenditure of trouble, and with the least expenditure of money, is where they have and always will travel. The building of the subways into the northern parts of the city has been followed by an enormous inflow of population, which settled along these lines. The building of the Williamsburg Bridge was responsible for the building up of Brownsville, where a population of not less than two hundred thousand has congregated during the past six or seven years.

For the past two years the public officials of this city have been in constant negotiations with the transportation companies controlling the two transportation corporations in this city, with the end in view of constructing and putting in operation an enormous amount of additional and much needed transportation. New lines have been laid out and approved by the Public Service Commission, the construction and equipment of which will cost fully $325,000,000, and will considerably more than double the rapid transit facilities of the city. Practically every rapid transit line leading to and from the great commercial center of the city is today carrying up to its maximum capacity and far beyond its humane capacity. It is no trifling task at the present time to enter a subway or elevated train during the rush hours and stand the buffeting, pushing and jamming which is ever present on any of these lines during these hours. The very minute that new lines, therefore, are opened into new territories, this uncomfortable travelling condition will turn large numbers of our population into these new channels of transit, and will immediately cause a rapid building up of territories adjacent to such transit lines, and the consequent rise in values.

New Transit Lines.

As to the sections of the city which are to be benefited by this wonderful extension of the rapid transit systems, Manhattan gets the Lexington avenue line extending up the East Side, and the Seventh avenue line extending down the West Side; Bronx gets the Jerome avenue line, the White Plains avenue line and the Southern Boulevard line, all extending to the outermost limits, of that borough; Brooklyn gets its line between 14th street, Manhattan, and Williamsburg and Cypress Hills; also a line linking Coney Island to Greenpoint; and the tunnel from Varick street, Manhattan, to Fulton street, Brooklyn; the Eastern Parkway line, the Fourth avenue line, and the Nostrand avenue line, all extending to the far outlying sections of that borough; Queens gets the Jamaica avenue extension to Jamaica, the Liberty avenue extension to South Jamaica, the Corona and Flushing extension and the Astoria extension. The Corona, Flushing and Astoria extensions are peculiar in that they are the only dual operating lines in the city. That is, over these lines will operate the trains of the Interborough subway system, the Manhattan elevated system, and the Brooklyn rapid transit subway and elevated systems, thus putting this territory in direct connection with every mile of rapid transit lines now existing or to be built.

Where the Most Profit Can Be Made.

This territory likewise lies within from five to fifteen minutes of the city's great commercial heart, while to reach the unoccupied sections of Bronx, and the unoccupied sections of Brooklyn will take from forty to fifty minutes. It should not be difficult, therefore, when these facts are recognized, for the investor to determine where the greatest profits are to be made or for the family to decide as to the most economical and convenient place to live. The records show that Queens has far exceeded any other borough in physical improvements and profits during the last few years, and the transportation developments prove that it will likewise exceed any other borough in the city in profits and population during the next few years. Fortunate, therefore, is he who selects wisely and quickly.

—A syndicate of Flushing citizens are in conference with the object of building a suitable theatre. They have had plans prepared by Edward Richardson and are negotiating for a lot on Broadway near Murray Lane, now owned by John W. Crawford. The lot will cost $4,500 and the building about $7,000.

A GATEWAY TO A QUEENS BOROUGH DEVELOPMENT.

STATEN ISLAND ON THE EDGE OF A BOOM

By CORNELIUS G. KOLFF

Small Houses Going Up Everywhere on Transit Lines, and Acre Plots in Most Demand.

The New Courthouse Will Advance St. George As a Civic Center—Summer Residents Multiplying.

IN reviewing the activities in real estate on Staten Island during the year now closed there are two distinguishing features forced upon the attention of the close observer in the Borough of Richmond.

In the first place, the activity in the section within walking distance of the ferry landing at St. George is apparent; and in the second place, the large number of sales of small acreage plots, in the interior of the island, is a feature deserving attention.

The St. George development is mainly due to the fact that the conditions of a place of residence within twenty-five minutes of the downtown section of New York, and at a five-cent fare by means of one of the best systems of transportation in New York, are gradually being recognized by those who are engaged in professional and business pursuits in the lower part of Manhattan.

Another feature accounting for the activity is the fact of the selection of the new courthouse site adjoining the present Borough Hall. Not only have those who had their places of business and residences on the site selected been compelled to buy elsewhere, but the building of the courthouse at St. George will have a tendency to create more and more of a civic centre in that particular section of the island, and presumably property will advance in value as this improvement becomes more and more pronounced.

Whether the trend of business will go toward the southward in the direction of Tompkinsville or to the northward and westward towards New Brighton is problematical, and only the future will teach us what many would like to know now. In the meantime, the erection of apartment houses in that section is passing the experimental stages, and the erection of the "Castleton Apartments" and the "Beverly Apartments" has been accompanied by such eminently satisfactory financial results that the field would now appear to be open with assured prospects of success to those who are engaged in the erection of apartment houses.

The distance in time from the Battery to St. George over the bay being so short, and the residential features of the surroundings so sure, it is, indeed, a great wonder that the advantages of this section for apartment houses have not long ago been recognized.

A Good Place to Own a Home.

The erection of one-family dwellings, varying in cost from $2,500 to $7,500, is continuing throughout the island. In fact, there is not a section of the island which is reached by the trolley or steam cars that is not improving by the erection of buildings of this kind.

In the industrial sections of the island, such as the North Shore, the section around Linoleumville and Bullshead, the two-family house still continues to be the popular dwelling—the one mostly in demand. Along the South Shore, particularly in the neighborhood of the beaches, there is a tremendous activity in small bungalows. This is the case at South Beach, at Midland Beach, at New Dorp Beach, at Giffords, at Eltingville and at other places. These structures, of course, are largely inexpensive ones with a sprinkling of more pretentious buildings, and they are mostly occupied for the summer only, but nevertheless they have the effect of drawing to Staten Island a great many people who, after a residence of one or two summers on the island, become permanent residents.

Acre Plots.

As regards the acreage propositions, there has been comparatively little activity. Some of the larger operators, who have been buying farmland and subdividing it into small plots, have finally recognized the demand for larger plots and have very wisely placed on the market a number of subdivisions of farms, cutting them up into acre plots, which they have been selling with pronounced success and great rapidity to those who do not want their residence confined to one or two lots, but who would prefer to have a little elbow room.

Along the southern shore of the island, at Grassmere, Dongan Hills, New Dorp, Giffords, Annadale, Huguenot, and Prince's Bay, there has been a great deal of activity in the erection of houses. The conditions in this section are being more and more realized by the commuters. The industrial development is in a highly satisfactory condition. The existing concerns have been largely increasing their employees, and a number of new concerns have come to Staten Island within a year or two, such as, for instance, a large, new linoleum plant, established at Elm Park in the neighborhood of the Standard Varnish Works, and the American Linseed Oil Co., the factory of Charles D. Durkee at Grasmere, the new bread machinery plant at Stapleton, the veneering mill at Arlington and a number of other smaller concerns, all of which, of course, contribute to the prosperity of the sections in which they are built and aid in the increase of property values.

The Transit Facilities.

The ferry service between Staten Island and New York shows a great increase, and the ferry service which was maintained during the summer between Staten Island and Brooklyn has been encouraged to the extent which warrants the running of another ferry during the spring, and this summer business will probably result in a steady all-the-year-round ferry service between Staten Island and Brooklyn.

The statistics of the number of passengers carried on the steam cars and electric cars for the last year are very interesting, the number of passengers carried on the steam cars being approximately six and one-half millions and those carried on the trolley cars about thirteen millions. Both the steam cars and the trolley system are attempting to improve their service; the steam cars by double-tracking the road to Tottenville, and the trolley cars by increasing their equipment and double-tracking some of their branches wherever this can be done.

The Waterfront.

As regards the waterfront development, of course everybody familiar with Staten Island affairs realizes that the waterfrontage forms the most valuable commercial asset of the borough, and consequently the public authorities, as well as those interested in the material development of the island, such as the Staten Island Chamber of Commerce, are giving a great deal of their time and energy to the proper development of the twenty-five miles of waterfront of the borough, but the plans so far studied and discussed have not yet taken any concrete form.

In conclusion, it can be stated that the year just closed has been one of average activity and progress, and it is firmly expected, from the indications at the present time apparent, that the year 1913 will be one of more pronounced progress.

SUBWAY ROUTE APPROVED BY COMMISSIONERS.

The Public Service Commission for the First District has received the report of the commissioners appointed by the Appellate Division approving the Whitehall street-East River-Montague street rapid transit one and the order of the court confirming the report. This is the route selected by the commission for the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company's tunnel to connect the proposed Broadway subway in Manhattan with the Fourth avenue subway in Brooklyn. Commissioners were appointed by the court on the application of the commission because it had been impossible to obtain, as required by law, the consent of property owners to the extent of a majority in value of the property along the route for the construction of a rapid transit railroad thereon.

The estimated population of Richmond in 1912 was 89,573, a growth of 3,604 since the Federal census of 1910.

LONG ISLAND COUNTIES BEYOND CITY LIMITS

Nassau and Suffolk, Which Comprise the Territory, Are Changing Rapidly in Character—Eastern Suffolk County to Be An Area of Landed Estates as Well as Farms.

By D. MAUJER McLAUGHLIN

THE growth of Long Island, east of the city limits of Brooklyn and Queens boroughs, has been so pronounced within the last half decade that the Long Island Railroad Company has found it worth while to greatly enlarge its terminal facilities at Jamaica, which latter point is the clearing house for trains bound to and from all parts of Long Island east of Jamaica. The main purpose of this enlarged terminal is to handle the steadily increasing commutation and general passenger traffic; for Long Island is growing in population and structural improvements daily.

It is this steady influx of people that is causing the remaking of real estate values at every point on Long Island easily accessible to a railroad station, and values are steadily advancing in the extreme interior, where large estates have superseded ancient farms. These estates are from three to four miles from the railroad, but the use of the automobile has made them easily available for country home purposes for the wealthy, while improved highways have made riding attractive.

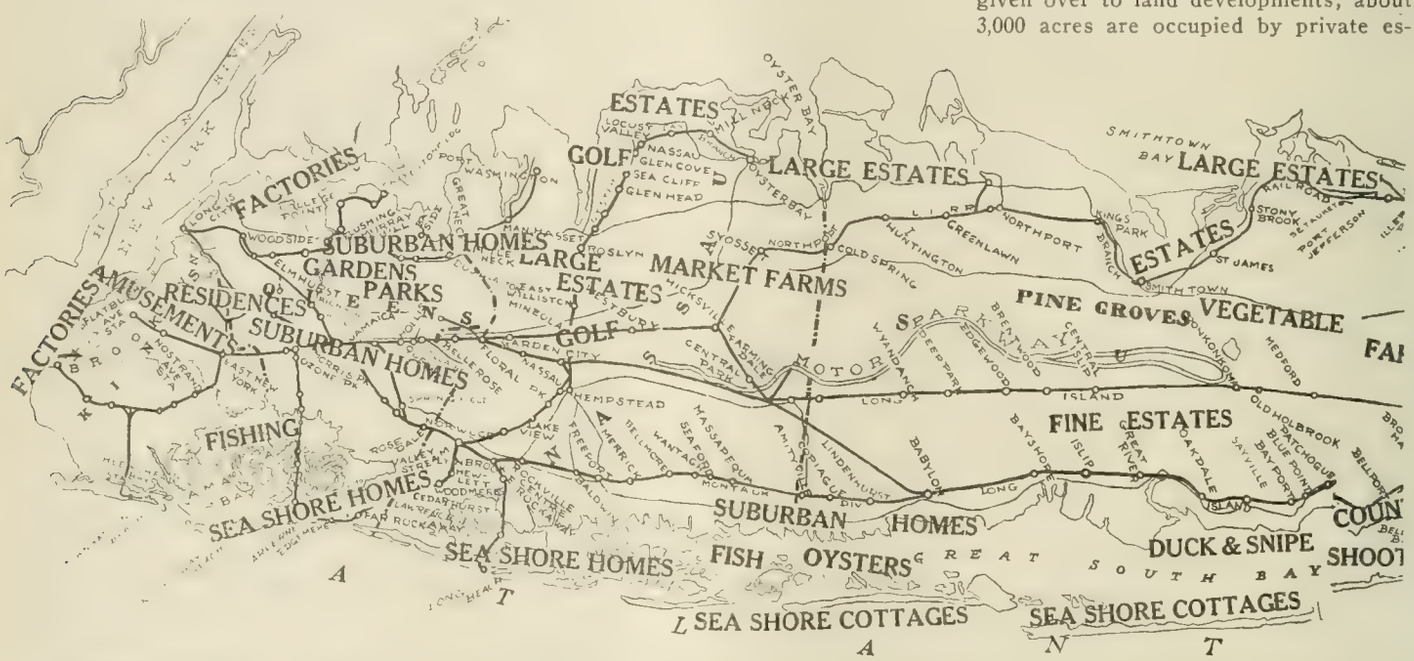
The All-Year Home Area.

During the last two years the all-year home area of Long Island has been greatly improved, especially in Nassau County, which is just east of the city boundary. The North Shore has been completely transformed. At Great Neck several of the prominent land companies have acquired large country estates fronting on Little Neck Bay and have developed them into substantial and attractive all-year home colonies. Other companies have bought acreage remote from the water, but accessible to the station and have transformed their holdings so completely that Great Neck, within a radius of a mile from the station, is now an all-year home town of importance; and it looks now as if it were only a matter of time when other large country estates at Great Neck would yield to the invasion of home colonies and become sub-divided. Many of these estates belong to wealthy families, but the desirability of the properties for estate purposes is becoming abridged by contact with land developments.

Only last month a syndicate of land developers bought the beautiful country estate of the late Miss Mary Rhinelander King, which forms a promontory known as "Hewlett's" or "King's Point," jutting into Long Island Sound, at Great Neck. It will probably be developed along fine lines; but, the significant thing about the property is that it is remote from the railroad and in a section that abounds in fine country estates.

Changes in Landed Estates.

This would seem to exemplify the prophecy that landed estates on Long Island must eventually find their abode in eastern and central Suffolk, which county comprises the eastern half of Long Island. New transportation facilities to the part of the North Shore of Nassau County adjacent to the city line is the primary cause of the change that is herein described. In addition to the double-tracking and electrification of the North Shore division from Woodside to Port Washington, a new trolley road has been built from Flushing to Port Washington with a branch extending into the hill country at Old Westbury and its environs. Long Island is now growing along the lines of least resistance to new population; and it is evident that another five years is going to show prodigious results. There is room for millions of population in Queens and Nassau counties alone, and there are no sections so close to Manhattan as these counties, except Richmond County, where there is so much room for expansion of population and the amelioration of congested conditions in Manhattan.



Solves the Housing Problem.

Long Island is the solution of the housing problem for the 200,000 newcomers to New York annually.

There are 82,560 acres or 129 square miles in Queens Borough. Of this acreage 25,000 acres are utilized for residential purposes; there are 25,000 acres given over to land developments; about 3,000 acres are occupied by private estates; country and golf clubs occupy a total of 2,000 acres; cemeteries and public parks cover 4,000 acres; cultivated farms comprise 10,000 acres; and 13,560 acres comprise uncultivated land.

Nassau County embraces 252 square miles or 161,280 acres. Villages and towns occupy 25,000 acres; 15,000 acres are under development by land companies, which means a similar reduction in the amount of tillable land; private estates occupy about 35,000 acres; country clubs use 8,000 acres; about 1,000 acres are utilized for cemeteries and parks; 20,000 are given over to agriculture and 57,280 acres lie dormant, some of which is woodland.

Suffolk County, covering 918 square miles and comprising a total of 587,520 acres, is witnessing only the inception of a suburban home movement. Its most important land development for all year purposes is Brightwaters, on the south side, near Bayshore; while Belle Terre, a 1,300 acre tract overlooking Port Jefferson Harbor, on the north side, is the most important country home colony in the country.

THE MAP ON THIS AND THE OPPOSITE PAGE SHOWS ALL OF LONG ISLAND AND THE PURPOSES TO WHICH THE VARIOUS PARTS OF IT ARE DEVOTED.

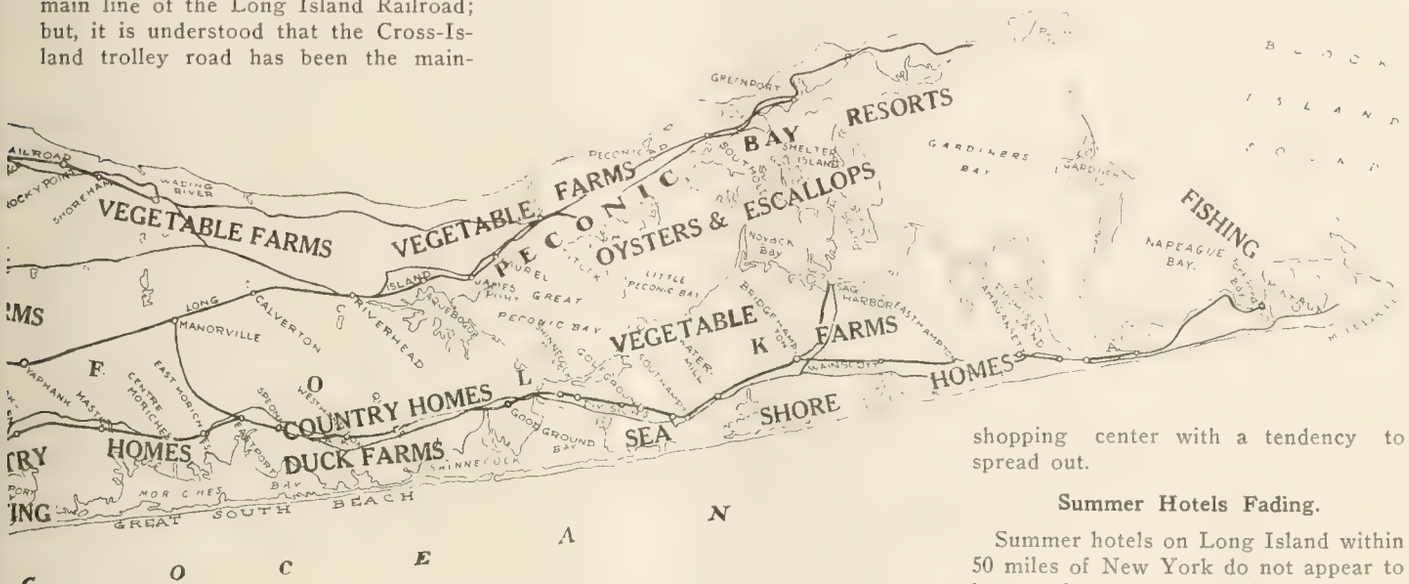
Along the Cross-Island Trolley.

During the last year there has been a remarkable stride of growth at West Hills, and at Fair Ground, south of Huntington and along the line of the Cross-Island trolley road from Huntington to Amityville. More than one hundred houses have been built at Fair Ground, while new houses are very numerous at West Hills, the latter place being a rural community three miles from a railroad station. Many new houses have also been erected in the hill section of Huntington just north of the railroad station. A significant circumstance in connection with the structural improvements at and near Huntington is that the major part of them are along the line of the trolley road, whereas in Amityville, at the south end of the same trolley road and on the most important division of the Long Island Railroad, improvements are few and sporadic.

A Real Estate Prodigy.

Farmingdale, four miles north of Amityville and served by the same trolley road, has grown so rapidly during the last four years that it is recognized as a real estate prodigy. It is on the main line of the Long Island Railroad; but, it is understood that the Cross-Island trolley road has been the main-

There are no important communities on the main line of the railroad east of Farmingdale until Riverhead, which is the county seat, is reached. The railroad between these two points runs through a dense pine belt for many miles. Intervening are Brentwood and Lake Ronkonkoma. The former is a beautiful residential place amid the quietude of the pines with the odor of which the air is laden; while the latter place is chiefly attractive for its picturesque lake. It was recently proposed to have the State of New York buy Lake Ronkonkoma and the contiguous territory and transform it into a state park; and a bill is to be introduced in the Legislature to that effect, some time during the present session.



The Vegetable Gardens.

The agricultural utility of land on eastern Long Island is well known. There are raised the potatoes and cabbages that have made the island famous. In late years the Long Island Railroad Company has been emulating some of the far Western railroads by setting forth the agricultural possibilities of the area it penetrates. The company has established two experimental farms, one at Medford and another at Wading River; and on each the company has shown conclusively that the wealthy men who have created large landed estates in the territories; and many of them are too remote from the railroad to be on the line of resistance. But it is apparent that all of Nassau County that is easily accessible to the railroad will be covered with thousands of all-year homes within the next decade. It is not large landed estates that greatly increase the business of a railroad; and the Long Island Railroad is fast making the bulk of Nassau County one of the most accessible areas adjacent to New York City, an area that, by its position, must necessarily draw population to it as the magnet draws metal objects to itself.

The North Side.

While most of the important residential communities for commuters have been on the South Side of Long Island in the past, the North Side is becoming a keen rival in the race for growth and improvement; and the double tracking and electrification of the railroad will accentuate the rivalry. Garden City, Hempstead, Mineola and Hicksville are communities along the western part of the main line of the railroad that have grown remarkably in the last five years. Garden City is exclusive in tone. Hempstead is becoming a busy residential and spring of growth in Farmingdale. At least 300 detached dwellings have been erected in Farmingdale, primarily in its east and northeast parts, and adjacent to the trolley road. Through the instrumentality of Benjamin F. Yoakum, who has a large country estate in Bethpage Hills—north of Farmingdale—the latter place is witnessing the coming of several important industrial enterprises, among which is a large factory for the manufacture of the Remington automobile; while a factory for the manufacture of paper cups and boxes is already in operation. A large picture frame factory is situated near the railroad in Farmingdale. No community along the main line of the Long Island Railroad has a better future than Farmingdale. Its population in the past was principally agricultural, but henceforth it will be industrial primarily. A number of new industries are projected for this enterprising inland village. As a result, property is in good demand and it is planned to build homes on an extensive scale that will be suitable for men earning good wages and their families.

so-called scrub oak land on the island can be reclaimed and made fertile and tillable. The company has waged a great campaign of education in this regard and it is bearing fruit. Hundreds of small farms have been established in eastern Suffolk County during the last decade.

The South Side.

The greater part of the south side of Long Island east of Patchogue is gradually being acquired for country estate purposes. Each year witnesses new additions to each summer colony, especially those adjacent to the Great South and contiguous bays and the ocean. It is to the north and south shores of eastern Suffolk that the wealthy seekers for landed estates on Long Island must go henceforth for their quarry. Nassau County, for a distance of 25 miles from New York, is fast being occupied by the great middle class seeking all-year homes in the suburbs. The Wheatley Hills section and the North Shore at Locust Valley, Glen Cove, Oyster Bay and vicinity have not yet surrendered to the general occupancy because they have long been owned by shopping center with a tendency to spread out.

Summer Hotels Fading.

Summer hotels on Long Island within 50 miles of New York do not appear to be any longer a profitable investment. The extensive use of the automobile and the easy accessibility it affords to many nearby places has, it is believed, done much to make summer hotel life unattractive. It is a striking fact that hotels in the eastern part of Long Island do a far better summer business than hotels within easy run of the city.

The southern coast of the eastern part of the island must ever be a paradise for the summer sojourner. The views of the sea, the invigorating air and the prevailing south breezes, together with steadily improving train service, are irresistible attractions. The North Shore with its rugged front and undulating topography will more and more appeal to the lover of the hills and the sky. The eastern end of Long Island is being brought nearer to New York by the process of municipal growth on the western end.

—The past year in the County Clerk's office of Queens County was the largest that the office has ever experienced. During that time 35,198 deeds, mortgages, releases, assignments, etc., were recorded.

CENTRALIZING THE SILK MARKET

The Uptown Movement Left Vacancies Yet Unfilled—Need of Modern Business Buildings in the Old Silk District

WITHIN the last twelve months the exodus of silk firms located in the downtown silk district, in and about Broome, Mercer and Greene streets, has been quite general toward the new commercial center in Fourth and Madison avenues. But there are influences at work which, the trade believes, tend to create a demand for new building construction in the older center.

The new silk district is mostly established on Fourth avenue between 17th and 32d streets; during the last year and a half, however, it has run over into new commercial buildings erected on Madison avenue lying between 23d street north to the 34th street retail shops. Into these new business buildings the silk interests are spreading out, frequently into twice the floor space they formerly occupied; but a good portion of the firms remaining downtown have closed leases for quarters in the uptown section, and will occupy them by the end of February. Many of them are moving in January. The amount of vacant floor space in these new buildings is more than sufficient to house the remainder of the silk concerns still in the old district, and including those who are in the cotton goods section at and about Worth street. The latter, the trade understands, have virtually pledged themselves not to join the uptown movement.

It was not until quite a number of the silk firms in the old silk district had signed leases and thereby declared their intention of moving uptown, that there was any disposition shown on the part of the owners of the old buildings downtown to modernize them in order to retain their silk firm tenants. Inasmuch, however, as the march uptown had begun, it would not have been good business policy to have the silk market divided into two such widely separated sections as the old district downtown and the new one at Fourth avenue.

This fact was made clear during the last two seasons, when the firms still downtown found that fewer visiting buyers came into the old district than visited the new, so it was conceded to be better for all concerned to centralize the market uptown, a thing that is rapidly being accomplished. There still remain downtown a number of concerns that have as yet not closed leases for new quarters, but who will undoubtedly sooner or later signify their intention of moving to this locality. As many of the new commercial buildings still afford ample accommodations for such prospective tenants, it would seem as if tenants for any more new buildings to be erected in the new commercial center would have to come from other lines of business, as, for instance, the dressgoods people, laces and embroideries, cotton goods and kindred lines, still remaining downtown.

Vacancies in the Former Silk District.

The fact that there has been little, if any, change made in the old buildings in the silk district downtown, and that many of the buildings stand empty and unaltered, as they were left by the silk concerns vacating them, would seem to indicate no disposition on the part of the owners to erect modern structures there. The views of old tenants are that this old silk district, judging from the nature of the trades occupying spaces formerly held by silk firms, is becoming devoted to small manufacturing concerns, and that therefore the old silk district has degenerated and is no longer anything like its former commercial center. Light manufacturing buildings of modern construction are, therefore, needed downtown.

As the new commercial buildings in Fourth and Madison avenues seem ample in every particular for the needs of the silk trade, and inasmuch as the northern boundary does not extend farther than about 32d street, it does not seem at all likely that this trade will go into the 42d street zone, at least, for some time to come.

The silk trade has expanded considerably during the last twelve months, a condition, however, that is not so much due to the occupation of new and more modern quarters in more elegantly equipped offices and salesrooms, as it is the direct result of fashions strongly favoring silk goods. With the silk trade going into the more expensive quarters they now occupy, there must be commensurate trade expansion in order to offset the higher rentals and more expensive office and salesroom equipment.

WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT THE COMING YEAR

Comments of the Daily Press on the Real Estate Situation—The Prospects Reported as Bright—An End to Pessimism.

THE Record and Guide has brought together on this page a number of brief extracts of the editorial comments and personal views which have appeared in the annual real estate reviews of the daily press. Admitting that the influences affecting the market for real property and shaping the intentions of business men in respect thereto are not in every particular satisfactory, there are yet, it is said, good reasons for expecting a resumption of at least normal activity in the private sales market during the year just begun. The remarkable revival which the past year brought to the construction departments of real estate development, the return of normal conditions in manufacturing and merchandising, and the certainty of great improvements in local rapid transit facilities, are among the reasons given. The city is growing in population, general business is again thriving, why should real estate longer be held back? It seems to be agreed among the eminent authorities quoted that the only remaining serious obstacle to widespread investment in income property is a very general belief that real property is being required to carry more than its fair share of the burden of taxation; but this is an objection which cannot govern in every case. Therefore, a confidence is everywhere expressed that 1913 will be a year of steady improvement for the real estate market.

Not Far From a Business Expansion.

(The Globe.)

The year 1913 promises to be one of considerably greater activity than 1912. In Manhattan, as well as in the outlying boroughs, the plans for new transit are very comprehensive, and must sooner or later create speculative trading in anticipation of actual housing and business needs. The demand for residences and sites and for business properties brought under the new transit influences should be very considerable.

There seems every prospect also that we are not far from a business expansion which will create a demand for real property. There is now a preponderance of opinion that our commerce and trade have reached a point where they must soon break through the narrow limits set by the caution and conservatism of the past couple of years. Capital should be plentiful enough for the legitimate needs of even an active market.

Expansion Looked For.

(From the Evening Post.)

With the splendid strength of the market even during a Presidential year, the fact that the dual subway system after ten years of waiting is actually under construction, and the generally low range of valuations throughout the city, there is reason to concur in the belief that 1913 should prove to be a good year. There are, of course, some things which may prove an upset in these calculations, such as high prices of building materials and inability to procure steel as rapidly as required, but under ordinary circumstances the outlook is decidedly favorable toward a broadening. The generally bright prospect of the business world upon which so much depends for activity in real estate is such at the moment as to make appear certain these expressions.

No Great Optimism.

(The Morning Sun.)

Concerning the coming year there is no great optimism, though some matters already have so shaped themselves as to give promise of at least better business activity during the next twelve months. To overcome conditions which have obtained for a number of years is not the task of a day or month. In every period of the city's growth there were just such obstacles as are encountered today; sometimes they retarded the progress of the city for a short period, but eventually they were forgotten in the remarkable growth and expansion which has been one of the wonders of modern times.

More Consideration for Taxpayers.

(From the American.)

The same optimism that characterized the beginning of 1912 is noted at the opening of 1913. But in contrast with last year, this year already shows prospects for the betterment of conditions that were lacking in the twelve months that have just passed into history.

Those who take a wider view than the boundaries of Manhattan are gratified by the stand that Governor Sulzer appears to have taken. Economy in management of state affairs is as grateful a word to the overburdened owner of New York City real estate as would be the assurance of cheaper administrative methods in the city itself.

Good Times Ahead.

(The Tribune.)

The year 1912 has not been a prosperous one in real estate. Several causes may be assigned for this. The income from rents of all classes of property, with few exceptions, has been less than normal, while expense has been increased in many ways—higher taxes, higher insurance rates, higher mortgage rates, higher cost of repairs, owing to a constant fire of orders from every conceivable governmental department.

But these trials of the real estate owners in course of time will be overcome. The owners of property have had difficulties and burdens in other times, and they have been surmounted and forgotten in the flush of prosperity and rising prices. Many things point to good times ahead.

Better Rented.

(From the Evening Mail.)

Both as to business properties and apartment houses the city is "better rented" than it was a year ago. There have been happenings within the year to cause a decided slow-up in the building of new lofts. Both on the west side and on the heights the builders of apartments have been far from idle, but, with possibly a few exceptions, their new operations have been handled with some regard to existing conditions and the volume of current demand.

Conditions in The Bronx Particularly Good.

(By E. B. Boynton, President American Real Estate Co.)

The year 1913 ought to be a good year for real estate, with a broadening market, and after February first mortgage money is likely to be plentiful again.

Conditions in The Bronx are especially good. The renting season there has been better than last year. There has been a large volume of building construction work and new space has been rapidly occupied.

NEW ERA OF RAPID TRANSIT AT HAND

Hearings Next Week on Terms and Conditions of Proposed Operating Contracts—The New Elevated Extensions.

THE Public Service Commission for the First District has ended the series of conferences with the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company over the terms and conditions of the proposed operating contracts for the Dual System of rapid transit, which is to cost more than $300,000,000. The law requires that public hearings shall be held on such contracts before they are executed. Accordingly the commission has called for public hearings as follows:

On January 14, at 10 a. m., on the proposed contract with the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company for the construction by the city, with a contribution by the company, of the Broadway and Centre Street Loop subways in Manhattan, a tunnel under the East River and the Fourth avenue subway and its extensions, and the Eastern District subway in Brooklyn, and for the operation of such lines in conjunction with the existing elevated railroad system of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company.

Dates for the Hearings.

January 14, at 2 p. m., on the proposed contract with the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for the construction by the city, with a contribution by the company, of the Lexington avenue and Seventh avenue subways in Manhattan, the Steinway Tunnel, a new tunnel under the East River to Brooklyn, and the Eastern Parkway and its extensions in Brooklyn; also for the construction by the city of the Corona and Astoria rapid transit lines in Queens, for operation by both companies.

January 17, at 10 a. m., on the proposed certificates to the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the Manhattan Railway Company for the right to construct and operate certain extensions to and third track upon existing elevated railroads in Manhattan and The Bronx.

January 17, at 2 p. m., on the proposed certificate to the New York Municipal Railway Corporation (Brooklyn Rapid Transit) for the right to construct and operate third tracks upon exsiting elevated railroads in Brooklyn and Queens.

January 18, at 10 a. m., on the proposed certificate to the New York Municipal Railway Corporation (Brooklyn Rapid Transit) for the right to construct and operate certain extensions of existing elevated railroads in Brooklyn and Queens.

After these hearings are held the contracts and certificates will be put in permanent form, adopted by the commission and transmitted for approval to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, after which they will go to the companies concerned for acceptance and execution.

The contemplated improvements to the Manhattan-Bronx elevated lines are noted as follows:

Diverging from the existing structure of the Ninth avenue elevated line of the Manhattan Railroad near West 157th street and Eighth avenue, and thence running northerly over private property and public streets to the Harlem River, thence crossing the Harlem River and the Putnam Bridge and crossing over the property and right of way of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company to Sedgwick avenue at a point north of 161st street, thence under Sedgwick avenue, private property and public streets to a point near the intersection of 162d street and Ogden avenue, thence under 162d street to a point at or near Anderson avenue, thence curving southerly and easterly through private property and public streets to the intersection of 162d street and Jerome avenue; thence easterly over and along 162d street to a point near River avenue; thence curving northeasterly through private property into River avenue to a point where a connection can conveniently be made with a municipal railroad on River avenue.

Webster Avenue Line.

Diverging from the existing structures of the Third avenue line of the Manhattan Railroad, at or near the intersection of Pelham avenue and Third avenue, thence running northwesterly and crossing over the private right of way of the New York & Harlem Railroad to Webster avenue; thence northerly along and over Webster avenue to, at or near Gun Hill road; thence curving northeasterly along and over streets and private property and the private right of way of the New York & Harlem Railroad to Gun Hill road, thence easterly over and along Gun Hill road to a point at or near White Plains road, where a connection can conveniently be made with a municipal railroad on White Plains road.

West Farms Subway Connection.

Diverging from the existing Third Avenue Elevated Railroad at about 143d street; thence extending through private property and Willis and Bergen avenues to a point near 149th street; thence northeasterly crossing 149th street over a public place, Gerard street, the right of way of the existing Manhattan-Bronx Rapid Transit Railroad constructed under the contract of February 21, 1900, and private property to a point near the intersection of Brook and Westchester avenues, where a connection can conveniently be made with the West Farms Division of the said Manhattan-Bronx Rapid Transit Railroad.

Widens Central Park West.

The Board of Estimate has voted to widen the roadway of Central Park West by cutting seven feet from the east sidewalk. The ordering of the removal of the street car tracks to the center of the roadway has been deferred.

BUILDING MANAGEMENT

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for the American Real Estate Company.

The engine or boiler room of any large building should be a subject of earnest consideration on the part of the building manager. It is not necessary to have a technical knowledge of electricity or mechanics, but a good general idea of the underground workings of his buildings will always prove of inestimable benefit if he wishes to conduct the operations under his charge in an efficient and economical manner. Knowledge of this kind will enable a manager to work in harmony with his engineers if they are of the right sort, or will help him to check up against them, if they are inclined to be inefficient or lazy. As a general rule, engineers and firemen are a hardworking, intelligent lot of men, and if properly handled will give more than full value for the salaries they receive. The engine room hours are long, and much of the work is exceedingly laborious, and the manager, wherever possible, should endeavor to lighten his employees' burdens without interfering with the efficiency of the plant.

There are many little wrinkles that may be adopted in an engine room that will make the necessary manual labor easier, and wherever possible these should be adopted. One such simple idea was called to he attention of the writer recently by the engineer of a large building.

One of the hardest duties of a fireman is drawing ashes from the pit after the fires have been cleaned. In most engine rooms a very long bar of solid iron with a heavy hoe-shaped end is used for this work. The short leverage which the fireman has in using this bar makes the work of drawing ashes very heavy. The engineer in question has solved this difficulty by fastening the head of a large steel mortar hoe on a short length of one-inch pipe. The end of the pipe is threaded and other lengths can then be added as desired. The whole makes a drawbar about one-third the weight of the one in common use and will last for four or five months. The total cost is not over a dollar and a half, and the little additional expenditure is fully warranted by the physical wear saved to the fireman. He will undoubtedly show his appreciation by a little extra work in other directions.

Readers of this department are invited to ask questions. If we cannot answer the questions ourselves, we will do our best to get the required information from authoritative sources. In order that the information may be available to the inquirer at the time it is wanted, questions will be answered as promptly as possible by mail. If the inquiry appears to us to be of general interest, it will also be answered at our convenience in this department, so that all our readers may have the benefit of the work expended in looking up answers. However, all communications will be treated as confidential, and no names will be appended to such inquiries as may be published. Requests for information should be addressed to The Record and Guide, 11 East 24th street.

EXECUTIVE FUNCTIONS OF MANAGERS

Some Statistics Relating to Commercial Buildings in the Metropolitan District—Making the Investment Pay.

By ALLEN E. BEALS

OF the 21,031 elevator buildings in the metropolitan district 75 per cent., or 15,773, are devoted to commercial uses, and each of these buildings has a manager of some sort, whether agent, superintendent, engineer or janitor. For the purpose of estimating, let us say that $100,000 is the average cost of commercial buildings in the metropolitan district. The investment in commercial construction, exclusive of real estate, will then reach a minimum of $1,577,300,000. Taking as an average 5,000 square feet of rentable space on each floor and counting eight stories as the average height of commercial buildings, with $2 as the average square foot rental, these building managers collect for owners $1,261,840,000 a year, of which they spend $481,841,241 for supplies.

The building manager has charge of an army of "help"—a corps of firemen, stationary engineers, painters, plasterers, masons, carpenters, machinists, riggers, cleaners, window washers, clerks and stenographers—big enough to populate the city of Yonkers with its 75,000 souls. He must be sufficiently familiar with the technique of all the trades represented by his "help" to know whether he is receiving full value for every dollar of the building owners' money he expends, and to know at once which is the quickest and cheapest way to accomplish certain results, whether it be the installation of a new cylinder head on a giant pump and still keep his tenants supplied with all the water they need, whether it be the installation of new elevator ropes and at the same time keep his tenants ignorant of any discrepancy in the service, or whether it be the removal of a busy tenant from a small to a larger office without interrupting the regular daily routine of the tenants' business.

Flirting in the Elevator.

So much for generalship. But there is another side to the profession, and that is the consideration of the whims and criticisms of tenants. The building manager's business is to keep tenants satisfied and buildings filled. Upon the excellence of the service supplied to tenants depends the degree of profit or loss at which a building is carried.

When the elevator boy holds imprisoned in his car a tenant who is rushing for a train to Chicago while the bebuttoned rope yanker stops and goes back three stories to pick up a pretty stenographer who wants to travel one story, and then lingers at the gate while he makes a date for that night, the building manager is liable to hear about it in the form of a pretty curt note or phone call.

Now, it happens that no matter how rigorous the rules against loss of time on the elevator cars may be, flirting cannot be legislated out of existence; but the irate tenant cannot understand it. He wants quick service or he'll move as soon as his lease expires. So the building manager promises to discipline the boy. Then the human side of the irate tenant asserts itself. He considers that perhaps the elevator boy has some other relative dependent upon him, and he hates to be responsible for making that boy one discredit mark nearer discharge, so he pleads that he doesn't want to make trouble for the boy, but adds that the service is rotten. Then he makes the manager promise to give Buttons another chance and the incident is closed. The manager's personal call and evident interest in his case saves a tenant.

"Those Window Cleaners."

When the building manager returns to his desk, the 'phone bell may ring to call him up to 409. Up there he is greeted by a man with a raucous voice who complains that he caught cold while "those ——— window cleaners" let loose a bunch of cold draughts a day or two ago. The manager may wonder whether the tenant expects him to cage all the draughts in the four winds of heaven; but he must nevertheless do something, so he leaves his regrets and a promise to have the windows in his office cleaned after business hours.

The thermostat has been the greatest time saver in the office of the building manager that has been introduced in recent years. This is the thermometer-like instrument that is stuck on the plastered wall and automatically shuts off the heat or lets more steam through the radiator, according to how hot or cold the tenant wishes his office.

Trouble From Below, Too.

Then there are the cavernous depths of the building. The engineer, who may or may not be the recipient of a retainer from an interested outsider, declares by all the powers that the coal is getting worse and worse, and urgently recommends a larger size, or a different kind so as to get better results. The refrigerating plant gets out of kelter, or the tenants complain that they are not getting enough steam, or the freight elevator service is monopolized by other tenants (if they are manufacturers), or the roof leaks or the electric pump needs new packing or the boiler has scaled and needs more compound and a thousand and one other things that effectually removes from the role of mere chair warmer.

A good building manager is born; not made. No college can turn out a finished building manager any more than it can turn out a good business man, although probably most building managers having control of skyscraper investments are college graduates, plus a season of experience in a high-class real estate office.

How the Successful Ones Manage.

The good building manager has no set formulas for meeting contingencies. He measures the degree of his concession or compliance by the value he sets upon that particular tenant. He judges the tenant by the nature of his business, and whether it will grow so as to need larger space. He considers the manner in which the complaint is made, whether it is made in a moment of impetuous anger or is the result of long suffering in silence and hope of improvement. He considers the number of complaints that he has received from other tenants from the same cause and, if necessary, he removes that cause. But first, last and always the building manager is diplomacy itself, because every amicable settlement with a profitable tenant helps him to a share of the $1,261,840,000 annual space tribute collected by the commercial building barons of the metropolitan district.

Helpful Hints on Water Service.

Payments of current water bills are to be made at the Bureau of Water Register in each borough. The cashier is the duly authorized agent of the Water Registrar and the only person empowered to receive payments.

Frontage. Rate bills are due and payable annually in advance on the first day of May in each year and are rendered either personally or by letter by the bureau of Water Register.

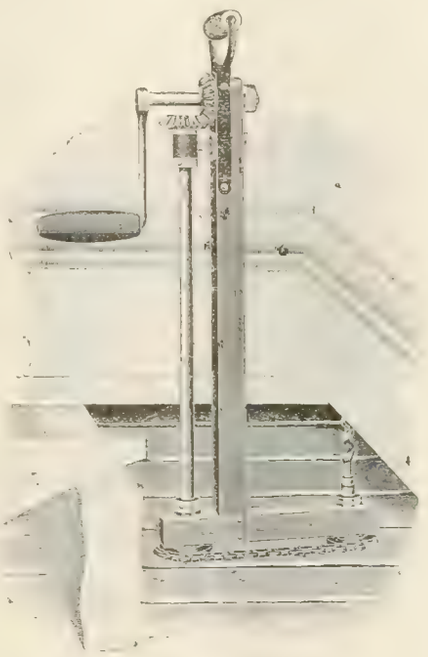
Bills for water measured by meter are due and payable when rendered. Water may be shut off if meter bills remain unpaid thirty days after the time they are rendered.

Postage is required for the return of receipted bills, otherwise they will be held subject to order. Addressed and stamped envelopes should accompany checks.

Money will be received by the cashier of the Bureau of Water Register from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. daily; Saturday, 9 a. m. to 12 m. Payments tendered in person other than at the hours specified will not be accepted.

The official designation of property is by section or ward, block and lot number (district and plot, Borough of Richmond). Consumers should examine their bills carefully to see that they are paying on the right property by comparing section, block and lot on the water bill with the tax maps.

Section 476 of the New York Charter states: "The annual rates which are not paid to the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, before the first day of August in each year shall be subject to an additional charge of five per centum and those rates not paid before the first day of November in each year shall be subject to a further additional charge of ten (10) per centum." Payments must be received during the hours for collection on or before the last business day of July and October, or interest will be charged as provided in the charter.



Use of hose is prohibited except when the supply of water is fully metered and permits have been issued by the department.

NEW THINGS

Bores Holes Around Corners.

Every building manager is up against the proposition of boring holes through beams and girders in making alterations to offices and suites. Of course, there is always a way to run wires, pipes, etc., through floorbeams by ripping up the ceiling or the floor below, but the Ford Auger Bit Co., of Holyoke, Mass., has a device which actually bores holes around corners. The apparatus is a very simple one, as well as inexpensive, and consists of a series of cogs on a long pole or on an angular bit which permits of back-handed boring without damaging either floors or ceilings. The accompanying illustration shows one application of the device in boring through a floorbeam upward. This device can be used in almost any combination of angles.

Outlet Box for Concrete Buildings.

In wiring concrete buildings special problems are frequently met. To obviate most of them the Appleton Electric Company, of 22 North Jefferson street, Chicago, is putting on the market a new outlet box. This box is of octagonal form 4x4 inches across and 3.5 inches deep, which eliminates the need for an extension ring. By the old method the cement runs between the box and the ring and thereby causes the box to fill up with cement. The tank outlets are from 2¼ to 2½ inches from the edge of the box, which gives ample room for reinforcement and eliminates the necessity for bending the conduit. By using this box the contractor saves considerable time and money.

Quick Hose Repairs.

Building managers are frequently up against the problem of hose repairs, due to careless handling on the part of cleaners about the building and in the engine room. It is very desirable under those circumstances to make prompt and inexpensive repairs, and for that reason a new device which is simplicity itself seems to have unusual merit. The repairing is done with a hammer and a new form of metal joiner. The hose is cut where the break occurs and the two ends are slipped over the hose mender and a hammer forces metal figures down over the two ends, thus holding them securely even under heavy pressure. Further information regarding this device may be obtained by addressing J. M. Sherwood, 168 Church street, New York.

Standardized Pipe.

Spellerizing is a new method of treating metal which has just been applied to the manufacture of pipe. It consists of subjecting the heated bloom to the action of rolls having regularly shaped projections on their working surface, then subjecting the bloom while still hot to the action of smooth faced rolls and repeating the operation, whereby the surface of the metal is worked so as to produce a uniformly dense texture better adapted to resist corrosion, especially in the form of pitting.

Inasmuch as this process is entirely mechanical and does not in any way depend upon skilled labor beyond keeping up the machinery involved, uniform treatment is assured.

The Spellerizing process is applicable to the smaller sizes of pipe, viz., 4 inches and under, although it is possible in special cases to Spellerize pipe a few sizes larger than 4 inches. This process is, of course, most desirable in the smaller sizes on account of the thinner walls. The larger sizes, owing to their thicker walls, do not require so much extra work of this character; but by other means in blooming and rolling this company aims to produce these thicker plates of such uniform quality that the pipe made from them will show decided superiority over pipe made from ordinary steel skelp.

This process has been adopted by the National Tube Co. in all its products and for the protection of architects and owners it is now rolling at regular intervals on every length of welded tubular product it manufactures, the name "National" (except on the smaller butt-weld sizes where this is not mechanically feasible).

—The main factor tending to render the air of confined places harmful aside from the special problems presented by dust and fumes, is overheating. Here is where the efficient building manager can co-operate with his tenant in giving him satisfaction. Printers and other trades where rapid finger work is necessary to require a uniform temperature around between sixty and seventy degrees. In rooms where much physical exercise is required, as in looms and mirror polishing, etc., the temperature should be nearer sixty degrees. In offices, the temperature should be maintained close up to 70 degrees. When the room becomes too hot, inertia and "three o'clock fag" makes the workers inefficient. When it is too cold both tenant and his employes are apt to berate the manager of the building. Temperatures running over seventy degrees make for tuberculosis and other serious diseases, according to Professor C. E. A. Winslow of the College of the City of New York.

—According to the statistics compiled by the United States Fidelity and Guarranty Co., there are 17,850 elevators in use in New York City. As the average height of elevator buildings in this city is 8 stories and thirteen feet represents the height of the average story, all these shafts placed in one shaft would reach 332 miles into the air. Travelling at the rate of forty-eight feet a minute, it would take 26 hours for the elevator to make the trip.

In authorizing on Thursday of this week the extension of Seventh avenue from Greenwich avenue to Carmine street and the widening of Varick street from Carmine to Franklin and its extension to West Broadway, the Board of Estimate adhered to its arrangement for the area of assessment. The improvement will cost $7,000,000, divided so that the Borough of Manhattan will pay 40 per cent., Brooklyn 11 per cent., The Bronx 4 per cent., the property on the immediate frontage of Varick street 12 per cent., and the secondary area directly benefited 30 per cent.

Register Grifenhagen, in his annual report, announces that he is about to submit to the Legislature a bill authorizing him to photograph documents on the pages of the present libers. This method of recording would not only do away with possible errors of transcription, but would insure a saving that ought to go far toward making the Register's office self-supporting. It would also expedite the return of original documents, besides affording valuable evidence in case of disputes over the genuineness of such originals if lost.

Free transfers are now given between the subway and the elevated road, both belonging to the Interborough, at Third avenue and 149th street. Not long ago the Real Estate Board of Brokers passed a resolution urging that similar transfers at Broadway, Columbus avenue and Sixty-sixth street, at Brooklyn Bridge, at South Ferry, and at other points where subways and elevated roads converge should be made a condition of the rapid transit contracts about to be closed with the Interborough and the B. R. T. As noted elsewhere, final hearings will be held on the contracts this week before the Public Service Commission. If real estate men want such transfers, they will have to speak for them at these hearings.

Not long ago an afternoon paper quoted the president of a lending institution as saying that office buildings were poor investments and that his company was not taking mortgages on such buildings. Well, the best of experts have their pet crotchets, and the Record and Guide knows some pretty big men who refuse to believe there is anything in apartment houses, and others who will not have anything to do with mercantile buildings. As their whims have not stood in the way of successful careers, we long ago came to the conclusion that there are a number of specialties in real estate, of which few men really become familiar with more than one. We know of no person better qualified to tell the facts concerning the investment quality of office buildings as a class than William H. Chesebrough, whose discriminating article in last week's Record and Guide was a contribution of genuine value to the discussion of that live topic of the day in downtown real estate.

Where the Next Outbreak of Speculation Will Occur.

Those readers of the Record and Guide who failed to scan with some care the interview with Mr. Henry Morgenthau, which appeared in our issue of last week, would do well immediately to repair the omission. In that interview Mr. Morgenthau ventures upon a definite prediction as to the locality in which the next outbreak of speculative activity, accompanied by a substantial rise in prices, will take place, and a definite prediction, coming from such a source, is bound to have a great deal of weight. Mr. Morgenthau has proved himself to be one of the shrewdest judges of real estate values in New York City. In making this prediction he has no axe to grind, and he testifies it by reasons which will, we believe, on reflection commend themselves to everybody who is capable of making a close comparative estimate of the several economic forces, which may make in favor of an increase in real estate values.

Mr. Morgenthau's prediction is that the next substantial speculative movement will take place in the middle district of Manhattan—that part of the borough in which is being concentrated the retail, the hotel, amusement, restaurant and a large part of the wholesale business. This prediction may seem to be dangerous in view of the fact that during the past five years this very district has been obtaining the benefit of a large part of whatever activity and increase of value that has actually taken place; but we believe, nevertheless, that Mr. Morgenthau is justified in picking it out as the section which is next likely to be favored by those conditions which still make for an increase in real estate values in New York City.

It is hard to see, for instance, that any considerable amount of money is to be made by the purchase of residential property or unimproved residential land in any part of New York. In this particular class of real estate everything will depend upon the effect of the new subway systems. The new subways will undoubtedly increase the values of vast tracts of unimproved real estate in the outlying parts of the outer boroughs; but they will make accessible such an enormous additional acreage, all at once, that the increase in value will be spread very thin. Furthermore, those owners, who seek to obtain the benefit of a speculative increase without improving their property, will fare ill, because the benefit will soon be absorbed by the higher rate of taxation. On the other hand, the increase in value of those districts which will be made accessible by the new subways will come partly out of the pockets of those owners of residential real estate who benefit from the existing lack of sufficient means of communication. The older residential districts of Manhattan and The Bronx, for instance, may hold their own, but it is difficult to understand how they can be expected to improve.

Neither can any substantial increase in values be expected in the financial district. This part of the city was on the whole the greatest beneficiary of the last period of successful real estate speculation. From 1900 to 1907 the demand for rentable space south of the City Hall increased enormously, owing to the concentration of the financial interest of the country in lower Manhattan, and to the gigantic series of stock speculations which were being engineered. But these causes have ceased to be effective. The process of financial concentration has been checked. For many reasons speculative operations in stock have ceased to be as interesting and possibly remunerative as they used to be. New York has been losing rather than gaining ground as the financial centre of the United States. At the same time the continuation of high assessed valuations with high taxes has continued to stimulate improvements. At present a much larger amount of new construction is being undertaken south of the City Hall than is warranted by the increased demand for rentable space; and under the circumstances no shrewd broker would be justified in advising a speculative purchase based on any betterment of conditions, which is likely to take place during the next five years.

Leaving aside the old wholesale district, which may for various reasons be dismissed from consideration, there remains only the section whose extreme limits are 23d street on the south, 59th street on the north, Lexington avenue on the east and Eighth avenue on the west. That is the only section in which local conditions may still favor a resumption of speculative activity and an advance in values. In this section are concentrated the peculiarly metropolitan commercial activities of New York—the best retail stores, the largest hotels, the most popular restaurants and theatres, and those manufacturing wholesale houses which cater to the fashionable trade. Are there any reasons to believe that this neighborhood, in spite of the large amount of building of the past few years, still possesses certain substantial undeveloped possibilities of business employment?

Mr. Morgenthau urges, we believe, some extremely good reasons for believing that the business of this particular district will be even more brilliant than its past. He urges with great force that all those conditions which operate in favor of higher standards of taste in dress and in all objects of consumption serve to emphasize the position of New York as the commercial metropolis of the country. It is in New York that fashions for the most part are determined, that skilled laborers congregate, and that much of the work which is determined by standards of taste must be performed. That is the reason why New York is becoming more than ever the centre of the vast clothing and drygoods trade of the country. Its proportion of the wholesale and light manufacturing business seems to be increasing rather than standing still—which explains the ability of the city to find tenants for the enormous increase in the number of mercantile buildings which has taken place of recent years. Thus it is that what the city loses in one respect it gains in another. If the process of financial concentration which was making it the national financial metropolis has been checked, the process of commercial concentration has continued at an increasing speed. Of all the forces which make for concentration there is none which operates so powerfully as improved standards of taste and increasing skill in the practical arts. It is the national standards of taste, quite as much as the fact that it is the seat of the national government, which gives Paris its dominant place in the business as well as the social life of France.

Mr. Morgenthau might have added that the new subway system, ven though it tends to equalize rather than increase the level of residential land values, will keep to concentrated business in the middle section of Manhattan. It will enable the population of the huge metropolitan district to increase the amount of money which they spend in the theatres, shops and restaurants of Manhattan. It will enable the workshops and offices of Manhattan to draw their supply of labor from a constantly increasing area. It will enable the people working in those shops and offices to live under pleasanter and more wholesome conditions and at a smaller average expense for rent. It will, in short, increase the efficiency of New York as a piece of business mechanism; and such an increase of efficiency is favorable to intensive rather than extensive development, at the very time when New York is becoming more than ever the commercial metropolis of the country; it will be equalizing itself for the job by a substantial improvement in its own internal organization and equipment.

There is nothing in the local conditions prevailing in this district which should prevent the predicted increase in value from taking place. There has been a little over-building, but it is of small importance. When the activity in this section took a sudden jump, five years ago, there were large areas of unimproved real estate within its limits; and the consequence was that excluding certain small neighborhoods, a considerable amount of building did not bring with it any correspondingly considerable increase in prices. But during the intervening years a large proportion of the most desirable lots have been sold, improved and advantageously rented. That which remains will soon take on something more like a scarcity value. Before long the New York real estate fraternity will wake up some morning and discover that a general increase and partial readjustment of value has suddenly taken place throughout the whole district. In no other part of Manhattan will there be such a pressure of business on a comparatively small area; and it will be learned that this business can afford to pay higher rents than any which have yet been exacted. The advantages of a good location in this favored district are bound to increase and to possess a larger cash value.

New Jersey and Westchester.

The present number of the Record and Guide is devoted largely to a review of the real estate situation in Richmond, Queens and Long Island. It was the intention originally to cover in this number the entire suburban field, but the articles dealing with New Jersey and Westchester county proved to be too numerous for insertion along with the present contents of the current number. In order to preserve the unity of interest in the territory which they deal with, they will be published together as the "feature" of the Record and Guide for January 25.

THE WEEK IN REAL ESTATE.

The brokerage branch of the real estate market this week responded promptly to the influence of easier money, and if measured by the records of corresponding weeks for some years back made a fairly good showing. The improvement in the monetary situation, it is true, has hardly yet had time to react on new business, but it was responsible for the closing of not a few deals held open from last year and, what was of more importance, brought about a decided change of sentiment. The feeling gathered strength that investment buying is now in the way to be furthered, partly by the month's unusually heavy dividend and interest disbursement, partly by the exceptionally inviting rapid transit prospect.

The sales were widely distributed, but the demand was principally for business holdings and the better sorts of residence property. A good share of the dealing consisted of exchanges of equities by which new mercantile buildings or apartment houses passed into the hands of investors. The amount of cash thus transferred was perhaps not very large, but it was enough to show that existing investment owners are not averse to increasing their holdings and to enable builders to release their capital or credit for new enterprises.

The tendency toward expansion of investment buying noted in the brokerage branch of the market was apparent also in the auction branch. The attendance at the sale of the holdings of the Daniel Cunningham estate from the stand of Joseph P. Day in the Vesey street auction room was large, and the bidding as a rule spirited. The offering consisted of seventeen parcels, mostly small downtown business buildings and tenements on the East Side, from Cherry street to 124th street, together with two parcels on the middle West Side. The bulk of the properties are in neighborhoods which have not been recently active, yet all of them were disposed of, although in some cases the assessed valuations exceed the prices obtained. The total amount realized by the sale was $632,850.

The confirmation by the Board of Estimate of the area of assessment for the Seventh avenue extension cleared the way for real estate activity on the lower West Side. Any one who buys there now will know for certain whether his purchase falls within the area of special assessment and, if so, just how much it will be taxed for the $7,000,000 improvement. It will consequently be possible to figure with the necessary degree of accuracy on the indirect, as well as on the direct, cost of an operation. There cannot be much doubt that a good deal of buying and building will develop along the subway on the lower West Side, as property there is relatively cheaper than in most other parts of town, while local waterfront improvements are of a nature to stimulate the growth of trade and industry.

Frontage Statistics Represented.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

In printing a summary of the number of new buildings erected in 1912 it seems to me that it would be very desirable if the Building Department would mention the amount of frontage used for building purposes obtained by the demolition of old buildings in one table, and in another table the amount of frontage built upon where the ground was previously vacant.

Then the above tables could be sub-divided according to the character of buildings, namely: Dwellings, Apartments, Theatres, Lofts, etc., it would give an excellent idea how fast the ground is gradually being taken up for building purposes, and also would show relative demand of frontage for the different classes of buildings erected.

I am aware that the Record and Guide has been in the habit of printing a summary as to projected buildings filed, and as to the estimated cost thereof, but if I am not mistaken no table has been heretofore furnished in the direction which I have tried to indicate above.

Assessment Methods at Montreal.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

In your issue of December 28, 1912, your reply to a communication of the Carrick Limited of this city is evidently made on a statement which is misleading, although, I am satisfied, not intentionally so. They say, "If we were to purchase property today for $14,000 it is probable the assessment commissioners would immediately change the assessment to, say $13,000."

As the assessment roll of this city is homologated on the 20th day of September in each year, it is scarcely necessary to say that no change is or can be made in the assessed valuation of a property after the roll is closed, and such valuations as are found at that date must remain in force until the new roll is homologated, on the 20th of September of the year following.

The system in use by the Assessment Department of the City of Montreal, so far as real estate is concerned, is practically the same as that of New York, and the unit of value of land, which in our case is the square foot, and not the foot front, determined before the assessors go out on the field work, in the month of April each year.

Owners' Names on Tenements?

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

I have been greatly interested in the question which has been agitated in the columns of your paper by various civic organizations to secure the passage of an ordinance requiring all property owners to post their names and addresses in some conspicuous spot on the outside of the buildings they own. The idea is that landlords who have leased their holdings for immoral or illegal purposes would be more careful in the selection of their tenants, once they were subjected to the glare of publicity, and that on account of the fear of such publicity there would be a reduction in the number of resorts through inability to obtain leases. Representatives of the civic bodies endorsing this idea vie with each other in expounding its merits. May I by virtue of having had some years of experience as a real estate investigator in this city argue the other side?

The main reason why so many real estate owners place their properties in the hands of agents is to avoid the burdens and responsibilities that attend personal management. They desire to receive their incomes unhampered by petty annoyances that arise in the collection of rents, repairing, etc. The placing of their names and addresses on buildings would result in their mail box being flooded with business solicitations of a kind that they do not wish to entertain.

The majority of property owners comprise the best classes of the population of New York, the most respected and respectable, and the great mass are not leasing out properties for illegal purposes. It is not fair that such a number of decent people should be put to a lot of unwarranted and unnecessary inconvenience. The tiny fraction of unscrupulous landlords have reached such a state of mind that the placing of a tin plate on their doors will not lessen their activities or expose their already tarnished reputations to shame. For the latter kind there are many ways of "getting around" the ordinance.

The passing of this one will work as much real benefit as the law which went into effect October 1, 1910, requiring the grantee in a deed of New York City real estate to record his address on the day of the passing of title. This law was aimed at the great evil existing today in the real estate world, namely "the dummy." Has that law accomplished its purpose? Dummies flourish today as they have flourished before. The situation remains unchanged. I have in the course of my work encountered countless instances where the address given in the deed was the residence for one day of the person who took title, and very often they cannot be located at the given addresses. There is nothing to prevent the name of a dummy with an address in Honolulu from being posted over the entrance to a disreputable house.

Since the name on the tin plate will have to be the name of the owner of record, take the case of a property which has been in the same family for generations and is owned by twenty-seven heirs? Shall twenty-seven names grace the tin plate?

All kinds of difficulties will arise when enforcement of this ordinance is attempted. The only way to tell whether or not the information on the tin plate is correct is by a special investigation. There are at a rough estimate 60,000 real estate owners in New York City and about 200,000 pieces of property. Hundreds of owners will neglect to post the tin plate, just as hundreds dodge taxes. The latter can be reached by a tax sale, but how can the former be reached. It will necessitate the establishment of a bureau for the investigation of tin plates, at considerable expense to the city.

My purpose in writing this letter will be accomplished if it will cause comment and discussion among the readers of your excellent paper, who have been reading about the other viewpoint. It is a big question and worthy of consideration.

BROOKLYN BROKERS.

Real Estate Board Approves of a Boardwalk for Coney Island.

At a meeting of the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers on Tuesday, Walter E. Warner gave a brief resume of the conditions at Coney Island and the necessity of a boardwalk. William C. Canning, president of the West End Improvement League of Coney Island, also pointed out the advantages of a boardwalk. The members of the board plied the speakers with numerous questions concerning the boardwalk, after which the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, Coney Island should be developed along lines that will forever preserve the beach of the ocean for the use of the people of the city, state and nation; therefore, be it Resolved, That the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers heartily indorse the project of Coney Island as proposed by the West End Improvement League of Coney Island."

Annual Banquet.

From the number of applications received by the Dinner Committee of the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers, it is plain that the seventh annual banquet of the organization to be held at the Brooklyn Club, will be the largest ever given under the auspices of the board. The dinner is limited to two hundred, and will be held on Saturday evening, January 25, at seven o'clock. Mr. F. B. Snow is chairman of the dinner committee.

—The use of red gumwood for interior trim in the United States has increased wonderfully during the past few years. The manner of cutting and seasoning is thoroughly understood now by the leading red gum lumbermen and the matter of warping is therefore done entirely away with by these manufacturers.

—The northeast corner of Fourth avenue and 29th street will be improved with a sixteen-story building, when present leases expire, next May. The corners on Fourth avenue remaining unimproved with modern business buildings are becoming few in number.

REAL ESTATE STATISTICS.

The following table is a resume of the recorded Conveyance, Mortgages, Mortgage Extensions and Building Permits for the boroughs of Manhattan, the Bronx, and Brooklyn and the Building Permits for the boroughs of Queens and Richmond for the current week. The right hand column enables the reader to make a comparison with the corresponding week of 1911. Following the weekly tables is a resume from January 1, 1912, to date.

Short Form Renewal.

Below we publish the renewal clause used by one of the large property owners of this city and in use for over 30 years. As a short form of renewal that fills its purpose exactly, the Bulletin has no knowledge of a better one:

"We, the parties aforesaid, mutually agree that for the rent reserved and upon the terms and provisions in the within instrument mentioned, the said term thereby demised, is hereby extended to 19—. Dated, New York, —. Witness, ———."

As this renewal clause can be placed upon a lease with a rubber stamp, it reduces the routine work of renewal to a minimum.—R. E. Board of Brokers' Bulletin.

—An incorporated realty company may be wholesome but usually it is a dummy corporation founded to carry on business and give bonds, without personal liability. If a straight mortgage loan could be made, directly on the property, without the futility of loaning on a bond, secured by a mortgage, possibly a quarter of the realty companies would dissolve, as having no reason for existence.—R. E. Board of Brokers' Bulletin.

BUILDING MATERIALS

STATISTICAL REVIEW OF THE LOCAL MARKET OF 1912.

New Records in Many Departments—Prices Generally Higher Toward Year-End—Little Gain in Portland Cement Output—Linseed Oil Prices Sharply Fall—Sand and Crushed Stone Higher—Higher Cost of Raw Paint Materials a Feature—General Summary.

NEW records for building material consumption and generally higher prices characterize the year just closed. It was conspicuous for the bona fide nature of specifications, the speculative element having been almost entirely submerged in a market so tight with legitimate orders since last July that in some instances, notably in steel, restrictive measures were adopted so as to give the legitimate consumer an open and free market.

The Eastern building market also broke all records with an increase of building construction in the Metropolitan district of approximately $50,000,000, although the peculiar fact has developed that there has been a general decrease in the number of new building and alteration plans filed. In Manhattan there was a decrease of 83 in the number of new buildings, while the gain in new construction was $17,787,860. In the Borough of The Bronx there was an increase in cost of $11,807,340 with a decrease in the number of new buildings of 47. Queens showed a decrease in value of new building projects of only $2,570,033 for so great a decrease in the number of new building plans filed of 553. Richmond, on the other hand, showed a gain in value of $897,185 and of 97 in the number of new buildings. Brooklyn's gain in value of projected new buildings was $3,874,137, but shows a decrease in number of new buildings of 183.

The gain in new building construction in the five counties in East Jersey was $2,689,000, with a decrease of 149 new building plans filed, while the building permits issued for New England up to December 24 totaled $198,027,000, representing a 24 per cent. gain over last year's total. Boston alone reported new building permits amounting to $5,500,000. Westchester County's gain is included in the New England total.

This is the clearest proof possible that the cost of building construction sharply advanced during 1912. That the stiffening in prices was not arbitrary, is shown by higher cost and scarcity of labor at producing centers, making the cost of raw materials higher, general advances in freight rates, and the impending increase in rates of interest for mortgage money, not to mention the general desire to complete projected buildings before the passage of a new and more exacting building code, all combining to create an abnormal demand for high-grade building materials at a time when the mills were caught short both as to reserve stocks and available labor.

That this prosperity is not local, but general, and, furthermore, is likely to remain with us for some time, is shown in the computation indicating that the world's international commerce established a new record with an aggregate of $35,000,000,000, as against $31,000,000,000 in 1911. In 1890 the total was $17,500,000,000, having just doubled in twenty years. These figures were obtained from the Statistical Division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce at Washington, and they are based upon official figures of trade of the various countries covering the first six months of 1912.

When world commerce is in a state of healthy prosperity the international security market is generally firm and above manipulation. And when money feels secure home business expands and a demand for new commercial housing in New York and vicinity always results. This accounts for the large quantity of building material orders carrying delivery specifications well into the beginning of 1914, which alone guarantees protracted prosperity for all building material interests.

Common Brick.

NORTH River common brick entering the New York market in January, 1912, gives a total production in this district of 989,000,000 common brick. The production in New Jersey brick-making districts for 1912 will approximate about 111,000,000 brick, making the total production of common brick available for the metropolitan district market 1,100,000,000. This, however, does not take into consideration the volume of Connecticut brick entering this market, which would bring up the total to 50,000,000 more.

In October the total quantity of common brick available in the North River district for winter and early spring consumption was 340,000,000. Since that time an active market has prevailed as a result of lower prices, and this reserve supply has been considerably lessened, owing to remarkably open building weather during the last few months, and it is a matter of considerable interest among consumers and distributors as to whether the available supply up-river is now sufficient to take care of the extraordinary demand which is expected to come about in the latter part of February, March and April, or until the plants can resume manufacturing. Comparisons of production in recent years in the districts supplying this market follow:

1907	1,064,000,000
1908	875,000,000
1909	1,218,780,000
1910	1,102,265,000
1911	1,000,000,000

*Estimated.

Note.—Total estimated production in Hudson River district, 989,000,000, Hackensack and Raritan River districts, estimated 111,000,000 brick.

Lime.

FOR the first time in building material history in the Metropolitan district an authoritative lime market review is possible by reason of the fact that the Lime Manufacturers' Association of New York was organized. President O. F. Perry in reviewing the situation writes as follows:

"This Association has had nothing to do whatever in making prices, terms, discounts, credits or regulating the output of supply in any way. It is the purpose of our Association to forward the interest for the uses of lime and to see and demand that lime shall not be discriminated against, and we think this can be accomplished much better through our Association than by individual manufacturers. It is also the purpose of the Association to keep the standard of different materials of the best.

"We find the year 1912 was a record breaker for the building department. I am taking the liberty of using some figures from the Record and Guide, which is issued weekly and gives the records of the Building Departments of Greater New York very accurately. Following are some of the figures from December 21, 1911, to December 27, 1912.

"The building permits in Greater New York totaled $203,198,730 and the alterations for the same time were $17,678,794 and the total number of buildings 12,711, amounting to $220,877,524.

"The building permits for New England, as I understand it, beat all records. The total amount to December 24, 1912, were $198,027,000, or 24 per cent. gain over the year 1911. The permits for Boston alone in November last were $5,500,000. In 1911, according to Government reports, there were 3,392,915 tons used for farming purposes, which you will note is an enormous amount of lime.

"Owing to the increased demand for lime some of our members have constructed new kilns, and one member has constructed new kilns that would increase his output of more than 50 per cent., amounting to over a hundred tons of lime daily. The members of our Association represent about 500 kilns with a capacity of nearly 10,000,000 barrels of 300 pounds each annually, representing an investment of over $15,000,000.

"After reviewing the above statistics there is no question in my mind but what there was more building lime used in the Eastern States in the year 1912 than ever before. The outlook for 1913 is very promising as there is an immense amount of excavating and many buildings partly enclosed."

Officers elected for 1913 are H. A. Brocas, president; H. W. Huke, vice-president; C. J. Curtin, secretary; and F. H. Boyd, treasurer. Directors for 1913 are H. A. Brocas, H. W. Huke, C. J. Curtin, F. H. Boyd, Hugh McDonald, Lowell M. Palmer, Jr., S. R. Wright and Walton N. Cable.

The output of kilns supplying the New York market during 1912 represented 10,000,000 barrels, or 1,500,000 tons. The output in tons for each year from 1906 are as follows:

1909	950,000

The evidence of the gain in use of lime in this market during the last year is shown in the fact that in 1911 about one-eighth of the total capacity of Eastern lime, or 1,125,000 barrels, were consumed in the New York market. In 1912 with an extra million barrels listed in the output one-seventh, or 1,448,571 barrels, were consumed in the Metropolitan district. In 1910 the total consumption was 1,002,000 (New York City only); 1909—987,000 barrels (New York only); 1908—796,000 barrels (New York only); 1907—784,000 (New York only); 1906—721,000 (New York only).

Hydrated lime shipped into the market during 1911 totaled 4,700 tons, or 31,333 barrels, allowing 300 pounds per barrel, although standard size barrels were not then in vogue. In 1912, with 300 pounds as a barrel standard, the tonnage in this lime was 5,200 tons, or 34,666 barrels.

Sand.

HEAVY concrete construction work required an extra large quantity of sand during the last year. The total consumption in this market ran to about 3,400,000 cubic yards. The year was featured by the stiffening in the price of high grade sand, principally because of heavy building requirements.

Stone.

THE crushed stone market during the last year has been conspicuous for its strength. Prices have advanced from 90 cents per cubic yard for the 1½-inch size to $1 per cubic yard, and from $1.10 to $1.25 per cubic yard on the ¾-inch size. The commodity is stiff at the present levels and the prospects of a further advance during 1913 are very remote. The quantities delivered into this city by scow and rail during 1911 and ruling prices are approximately 2,225,000 cubic yards. The following gradations from 1880 to 1912 covering price per cubic yard and quantities follow:

Year.	Price per cu. yd.			Quantities into New York
1880...	$1.50	to	...	80,000 cu. yds.
1885...	1.40	to	$1.50	120,000 cu. yds.
1890...	1.30	to	...	340,000 cu. yds.
1895...	1.20	to	1.35	500,000 cu. yds.
1900...	1.00	to	1.10	600,000 cu. yds.
1905...	.90	to	1.00	900,000 cu. yds.
1910...	.80	to	.90	1,500,000 cu. yds.
1911...	.75	to	.85	2,010,000 cu. yds.
1912...	1.00	to	...	2,225,000 cu. yds.

48TH ST.—Helen C. Brown sold 233 East 48th st, a 3-sty dwelling, on lot 20x100.5, between 2d and 3d avs, to Daniel Casey, Jr. It was formerly the residence of Judge Addison Brown and had not changed hands in over a half century.

49TH ST.—The Beach estate sold to George E. Stuckey 159 East 49th st, a 4-sty single flat, on lot 20x100.5, located 120 ft. west of 3d av.

55TH ST.—The Herald Square Holding Co., composed of George Backer, Arnstein & Levy, bought from Benjamin Stern of Stern Brothers the stable plot at 124 West 55th st. It adjoins No. 126, bought a short time ago, giving the buyers a combined frontage of 50 ft. The parcel will be at once improved with a 9-sty apartment, divided into suites of three to four rooms with kitchenettes. This type of house has been popular in that locality. In connection with this deal the Herald Square Holding Co. gives to Mr. Stern the stable and studio building at 136 West 55th st, in the same block, a plot 25x100. The deal, including the value of the exchanged parcels and the cost of the proposed apartment, represents about $350,000.

Only a few days ago the Herald Square Holding Co. sold the new 9-sty apartment recently completed by them at 140 and 142 West 55th st to David Banks, and about a year ago that bought 147 and 149 West 55th st from the Barney estate and improved it with the Laurelton Hotel. This property was recently sold to the Swetland Realty Co. The three deals mentioned aggregate well over $1,000,000. William J. Roome & Co. were the brokers in the transaction.

2D AV.—Adam A. Schopp sold 186 2d av for the Kaughran Estate, a 5-sty single flat, on lot 23x100.

4TH AV.—Albert Feldheim sold to the C. N. The property carries a mortgage of $290,000 and is held at $400,000. The corner will be improved with a 16-sty building with stores lofts and offices, on the expiration of leases, May 1, 1913, and negotiations are now under way to lease entire building to a downtown wholesale millinery concern. Plans are now being drawn by a leading firm of architects. This is one of the few notable corners still unimproved.

6TH AV.—The Van Schaick Realty Co. sold 485 and 487 6th av and 103 and 105 West 29th st, being the northwest corner of those thoroughfares, four 4-sty buildings on plot 49.4x100x irreg, to Oestreicher Bros., the tenants of the corner building, who will continue to occupy the same space and hold the remainder of the property as an investment.

One of the features of this house is a large laundry on the roof. The property was held at $150,000, and is opposite the property recently sold by Ernesto Fabbri to M. Orme Wilson, Jr., who intends to erect a fine house in the near future.

76TH ST.—Henry Goldman sold 26 West 76th st, a 4-sty dwelling on lot 25x102.2, between Central Park West and Columbus av. The buyer is Mrs. F. Arthur Ball; H. C. Senior & Co. were the brokers.

79TH ST.—Douglas L. Elliman & Co. sold for the Charles Buek Construction Co. to Dudley Olcott, second vice-pres. of the Central Trust Co., 20 East 79th st, a magnificent new 5-sty English basement house, 42 ft wide. This mansion is one of a group of three just completed by the selling company, at the southwest corner of 79th st and Madison av, and is the finest private house erected by a builder for purely speculative purposes in many years. It has an imposing front of white stone, and is like the other two, of fireproof construction throughout. The house was held at $250,000 and the purchase price was close to this figure. The property forms part of the famous Cook block, which is unrivaled in the city for the uniformity of its improvements and with only the highest class of residences. Mr. Buek bought the three corner lots about 3 years ago from the Lawyers Title Insurance & Trust Co., who had secured them through the foreclosure of a mortgage.

said to be a dentist. The adjoining house at 117 was reported sold by the Rogers estate to W. B. Harned.

91ST ST.—L. J. Greenberger resold for Annie Sugarman to Minnie Kahn, 334 East 91st st, a 5-sty tenement on lot 25x100. M. & L. Rosenthal represented the buyer. The seller acquired the property last week from Frederick E. Bauer.

93D ST.—Alfred Seton and Charles de Rham, as trustees of the estate of Oscar Egerton-Schmidt, sold 19 West 93d st, a 4-sty dwelling, on lot 19.7x100.8, between Central Park West and Columbus av. The premises adjoin Columbia grammar school on the west.

95TH ST.—The Brown-Weiss Realties sold the 6-sty tenement on plot 35x100.8, at 333 East 95th st, about 140 ft. west of 1st av. The buyer gave in part payment a farm on Long Island located about a mile from Lynbrook.

95TH ST.—Pease & Elliman sold for General Lloyd Bryce, a plot 50x100, on the north side of 95th st, beginning 100 ft east of 5th av and adjoining on the west the property recently sold by Pease & Elliman to Ernesto Fabbri. The buyer of this property is Mrs. Amory S. Carhart, of Tuxedo, N. Y. An interesting feature of this sale is the fact that Mrs. Carhart has agreed to build a 50-ft dwelling for her own occupancy immediately. The negotiations were carried on with General Bryce by cable and the contracts were exchanged Thursday afternoon. Mr. Fabbri has arranged with Grosvenor Atterbury to build a 50-ft house for his use; Judge Gerard is about to build a 40-ft house between 94th and 95th sts on 5th av; Miss Helen Bryce is planning to build a 30-ft house between 95th and 96th sts on 5th av, and Ogden Codman has already practically completed a 40-ft house on the north side of 96th st.

100TH ST.—Ennis & Sinnott bought through M. M. Hayward & Co., 233 West 100th st, a 3-sty building occupied by the Nameoke Club, on lot 25x101.10, adjoining the corner of Broadway.

111TH ST.—E. Sharum sold and resold 304 and 306 West 111th st, a 6-sty apartment house, on plot 37.6x106.2.

115TH ST.—The Brown-Weiss Realties bought from I. Firschbaum 76 East 115th st, a 5-sty flat, on lot 25x100.11.

131ST ST.—The 3-sty dwelling at 108 West 191st st, which was sold early in December by Dr. A. Fitch, is understood to have changed ownership again. The property is 17.6x99.11 and is located 140 ft. west of Lenox av. This house and the two adojining to the west, Nos. 110 and 112, have figured in more deals than any other houses in that part of Harlem. About the time Dr. Fitch was selling 108, 112 was passing into new hands; 110 and 112 have changed ownership half a dozen times in the last 2 years.

139TH ST.—John S. Howell sold 124, 126 and 128 West 139th st, three 5-sty flats, each on lot 26x99.11, between Leonx and 7th avs. Max Marx is said to be the buyer. The Howell family last year disposed of several adjoining flat houses.

146TH ST.—Daniel Coffey sold 527 and 529 West 146th st, old frame buildings, on plot 50x99.11, located 325 ft. east of Broadway.

163D ST.—The Comfort Realty Co., B. House, president, sold 543 to 549 West 163d st, a 6-sty apartment house, on plot 110x99.11, located 100 ft. east of Broadway, to the New York Real Estate Security Co., which gave in part payment a plot with a frontage of 150 ft on the east side of Broadway, located 64.5 ft, north of 185th st, and extending through to Wadsworth av, where the frontage is 154.5 ft. The new owner will erect a 1-sty taxpayer on the Broadway front and three 5-sty flats on Wadsworth av. The McVickar-Gaillard Realty Co. negotiated the deal.

169TH ST.—The Herman Arns Co. sold for Aaron Goodman the 6-sty apartment house at 517 and 519 West 169th st on plot 50x81.7, adjoining the northeast corner of Audubon av. The buyer is Edward B. Corey, who gives in exchange a plot 100x81.7 on the north side of 169th st, 100 ft. west of Amsterdam av. ANNUAL REPORT OF THE

Lawyers Mortgage Company

JANUARY 1, 1913

RICHARD M. HURD, President

To the Board of Directors:

Gentlemen: The year 1912 has been one of great prosperity to the Lawyers Mortgage Company, the Gross Earnings and Net Profits being larger than ever before. The Gross Sales of Guaranteed Mortgages exceed those of any previous year, and the Net Increase of Guaranteed Mortgages has only once before been substantially surpassed. It is gratifying to note the steady and increasing demand for our conservative mortgage investments in view of the uncertainties during the past year in the market for other securities.

The total sales of Guaranteed Mortgages amount to $39,742,271—the net increase in Outstanding Guaranteed Mortgages amounts to $13,137,110, and the total Outstanding Guaranteed Mortgages now amount to $131,168,613.

Average Capital, $5,500,000. April 1, 1912, Capital increased from $4,000,000 to $6,000,000.

The large increase in Outstanding Guaranteed Mortgages during the past year is but little reflected in the earnings for that period, but will show in future earnings.

UNEARNED PREMIUMS.

In addition to the cash earnings are the Unearned Premiums, which consist of the Company's contract profit of one-half per cent. per annum on outstanding mortgages from the date of this statement to the maturity of the mortgages. These future profits—which are not carried as assets—amount to $1,400,176.

The Assets and Liabilities of the Company on December 31, 1912, were as follows:

ASSETS.

New York City Mortgages	$7,306,294.98

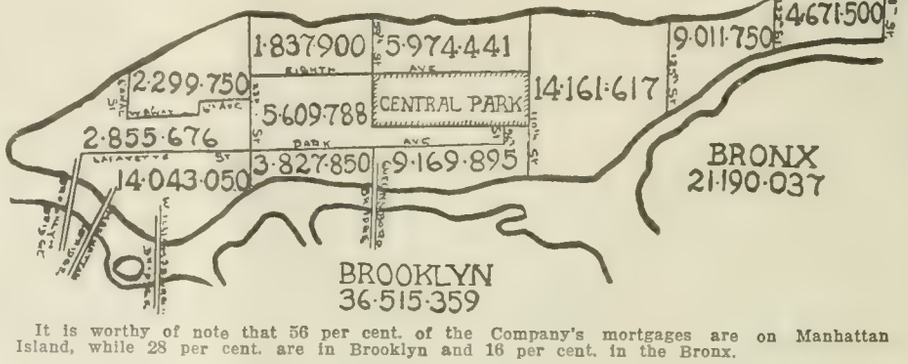
In addition to these earnings, the net increase in Unearned Premiums from January 1st, 1903, to December 31st, 1912, amounts to $1,296,621.



The Assets and Liabilities of the Company have been verified and the Company's accounts certified as of December 31st, 1912, by THE AUDIT COMPANY OF NEW YORK.

There are 9,940 mortgages outstanding, the average loan being $33,000 in Manhattan, $5,600 in Brooklyn and $19,000 in the Bronx.

An analysis of the Outstanding Guaranteed Mortgages of the Company shows that these are divided among the three thousand eight hundred customers of the Company as follows:

Savings Banks	$15,514,540
Trustees	35,060,926
Individuals	47,073,322
Charitable Institutions	11,203,275
Insurance Companies	16,621,600
Trust Companies	5,694,950
	$131,168,613

The following map shows the distribution of the total Outstanding Guaranteed Mortgages of the Company on January 1st, 1913, in Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn.

It is worthy of note that 56 per cent. of the Company's mortgages are on Manhattan Island, while 28 per cent. are in Brooklyn and 16 per cent. in the Bronx.

VALUATIONS OF LAND AND BUILDINGS AND FIRE INSURANCE.

	Value of Land.	Value of Buildings.	Total.	Mortgage Loans.	Fire Insurance.

The average amount loaned by the Company is 64 per cent. of the Company's own appraisal.

For the absolute protection of the holders of Guaranteed Mortgages, the Board of Directors has adopted the following By-Laws:

"The Amount of outstanding Guaranteed Mortgages shall not exceed twenty times the Capital and Surplus of the Company. This Article shall not be amended or repealed except with the written consent, duly acknowledged, of the holders of all the policies of mortgage insurance then outstanding issued by the Company.

"Mortgages shall be guaranteed by the Company only when secured by real estate improved for business or residence purposes, and situated within the present limits of the City of New York, or such enlargements thereof as may hereafter be fixed by law.

"Such mortgages shall not exceed two-thirds of the valuation of the real estate security as ascertained by the Company's appraisers or such larger percentage of said valuation as may be fixed by the laws of the State of New York for the investment of funds held by Trustees, Trust Companies or Life Insurance Companies.

"The charge of the Company for guaranteeing the payment of mortgages shall not exceed one-half of one per cent. per annum of the principal amount guaranteed.

"This Article shall not be amended or repealed except by the written consent of three-fourths of the Directors then in office, and by vote of a majority of all the outstanding stock of the Company at a special Stockholders' meeting called for that purpose."

These limitations have been for many years in use by the Company and their effectiveness in safeguarding the Company's mortgage investments is clearly evidenced by its unusually clean record in the matter of delinquent interest and foreclosures. The Company has now under foreclosure 58 mortgages, many of which will probably be paid off or settled prior to foreclosure sale. The Company has sold $409,388 of foreclosed real estate during the past year and now owns $212,499, practically all of which has been recently purchased. The amount of interest delinquent for more than one month is $1,294.

Since December 12, 1894, when the Company began business, 14,956 mortgage loans have been made aggregating about $280,000,000. The total losses of the Company in eighteen years amount to $13,057.

A noteworthy event during the year has been the purchase by the Stockholders of $2,000,000 of new stock, the Capital thus being increased from $4,000,000 to $6,000,000, and the Capital and Surplus to $8,500,000. This action is highly important for the protection of all holders of our Guaranteed Mortgages and follows out the Company's established rule of increasing its capital stock in proportion to its increase in Outstanding Guaranteed Mortgages.

The steady growth of the Company's business in the past eighteen years, bringing the Outstanding Guaranteed Mortgages up to over ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY MILLION DOLLARS, evidences the public confidence in the stability of the Company's mortgage investments.

The real test of an investment comes in time of panic or depression and the securities which show no losses to investors—as do Guaranteed Mortgages—may fairly claim first place for safety.

The Company will continue to adhere to its present sound and cautious methods and believes that it will add to the service now furnished to its clients, an even more valuable service when periods of depression arrive.

THE REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE OF LONG ISLAND at the annual meeting of the members elected the following officers: President, James Frank; Vice Persident for Kings, Lewis H. Pounds; Vice President for Queens, H. Stewart McKnight; Vice President for Nassau, Alfred H. Wagg; Vice President for Suffolk, Samuel Eichen; Treasurer, D. Maujer, McLaughlin; Secretary, Burton Thompson; Secretary in Charge, James E. Wilkinson.

THE CHARLES F. NOYES CO. has secured the managing agency of the 20-sty "Madison Square Building" at 15 to 19 East 26th st, running through to 27th st. This is the building recently sold by the Noyes Co. to Jacob Ruppert for over $2,000,000. The Chas. F. Noyes Co. has also been appointed renting agents for the 10-sty building at 36 to 44 West 24th st. These buildings, together with the 19-sty "Masonic Building" at 6th av and 23d st, through to 24th st, place under control of the Noyes Co. several of the largest buildings in the middle Manhattan section. The brokers announce that the Masonic Building is over 90 per cent rented above the ground floor.

Restoring Old Lanes.

Real estate developers read with keen interest the statement made by Paul D. Cravath, the well-known lawyer, a few days ago, that the owners of large landed estates in the vicinity of Glen Cove and Locust Valley and in the Wheatley Hills section of Long Island have a movement on foot to encourage the restoration of old lanes through the various farms that comprise these beautiful country seats, on the ground that they provide picturesque rambles on foot and horseback. All of the territory in question is in the northern and central parts of Nassau county, and the announcement of Mr. Cravath is considered as an ultimatum that the wealthy men who have estates in the territory contemplate remaining there and that they do not fear possible invasion of land developing companies in the premises

Mr. Cravath himself owns a fine estate near Locust Valley, while the Piping Rock Club, one of Long Island's famous country clubs, is in the vicinity. It looks as though this part of Long Island will remain a stronghold of country seats in the face of the tendency for wealthy men to establish their country estates farther east in Suffolk county. Locust Valley, Glen Cove, Glen Head and Mill Neck are on the Oyster Bay Branch of the Long Island Railroad and are only on the opposite side of Hempstead Harbor from Port Washington, Great Neck and Manhasset, the latter of which are fast growing into all-year home communities.

In the light of the movement announced by Mr. Cravath, real estate developers are inclined to believe that the suburban home movement on the North Shore will not extend further east than Port Washington, which is at the end of the North Shore Division of the railroad.

Sinclair Estate to Dispose of Important Holdings.

With the offering of an important East River Block Front and the growing scarcity of water frontage in Manhattan, the attention of real estate operators has been focused on the coming sale of the Sinclair property, to be held by Joseph P. Day in the Exchange Salesroom, 14 Vesey street, Tuesday, January 14. Located on the East River, between 29th and 30th streets and adjacent to Bellevue Hospital, this parcel consists of a large upland plot with buildings thereon, together with an extensive stretch of land under water. This point in the East River is an unusual depth permitting vessels of large draft approaching very close to the bulkhead. Another important offering in connection with the above-mentioned estate is a row of three private houses located in the millionaire residential district and adjoining the corner of 5th avenue and 63rd street, known as 2, 4, and 6 East 63rd street. Size of plot, 50x100.5. Also 128 East 10th street and 120 East 10th street, two 5-story and basement brick and stone private dwellings.

Ernestus Gulick.

The death of Ernestus Gulick, at his home, at 1 West 30th st, Manhattan, on Monday, removed one of the most prominent men engaged in Brooklyn and Long Island real estate. He was the president of the Ernestus Gulick Company, the vice president of the Garden City Estates, the president of the Long Island Estates, and the president of the Hempstead South Company.

In the Garden City Estates project alone, which had for its object the transformation of a large tract of land near Garden City, L. I., into a high-class suburban property, about 10,000 lots, valued at more than $6,000,000, are involved. Timothy L. Woodruff, William H. English, Gage E. Tarbell and William G. Gilmore were associated with him in the Garden City project.

A large number of all the leases in the past few years in Fulton street, between the Borough Hall and Flatbush avenue, were made in Mr. Gulick's Brooklyn office, in the Brooklyn City Bank Building.

Mr. Gulick was born in Pekin, Ill., on March 24, 1865, the son of U. de Hart and Virginia Schenck Gulick. He was christened Ernestus Schenck Gulick, but was always known without the middle name. When he came to Brooklyn, in 1883, his first office was at the corner of Fourth avenue and Seventeenth street. His business was successful from the start and required his moving from time to time to larger quarters.

Some of his early suburban deals involved the sale of the old Vanderveer farm, which was developed by Senator William H. Reynolds under the name of Vanderveer Crossings, and the old Mill Island property, which was purchased by the Realty Buyers, the deal involving $500,000. Later developments caused the organization of the "Long Island Estates," the "Estate Agents" and "Flatbush East." With the formation of these large subsidiary companies, Mr Gulick caused the removal of his main office to the Cambridge Building, at 334 Fifth avenue, Manhattan. He was unmarried.

An Appointment Commended.

The United Real Estate Owners' Association at a Special Meeting held January 7 at the Grand Union Hotel, having learned with deep pleasure that Governor Sulzer has appointed to the Tax Commission of the State Mr. Joseph S. Schwab, one of the members of this organization, adopted a resolution commending the action, in the hope that this appointment is a precursor of the day when questions of importance to real estate in the City of New York will be left for determination to those whose training and past associations will command the confidence of real estate interests.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

Steel.

IT is estimated that total contracts were placed for 26,500,000 tons of finished steel contracts during the year, about 8,500,000 tons being derived from railroad and railroad equipment manufacturers, thus leaving about 17,500,000 tons for building construction. The total orders booked for finished steel contracts by all the steel companies exceeded the production of such products by 4,000,000 tons, and it is estimated that new orders exceeded shipments by 5,000,000 tons, while there is a back log of 14,000,000 tons more awaiting rolling and shipment in 1913 and 1914.

In the structural trade, which includes bridges in the steel company's classification, the railroads did not maintain the 1911 proportion of total contracts in a record-breaking business done by fabricating shops. The total tonnage booked was 1,510,000 tons of fabricated material, to which railroads contracted only 25½ per cent., or 384,333 tons for bridges and terminals. Contracts in 1912 exceeded the 1911 orders by 15 per cent. and were also slightly in excess of the 1906 bookings, thus establishing a new record. The American Bridge Company took about 46 per cent. of the total tonnage.

The blast furnace capacity of this country is approximately 42,000,000 tons, furnaces with an annual capacity of 35,500,000 tons were active in the latter part of the year, producing iron at the rate of 32,600,000 tons annually. Stacks with 2,000,000 tons capacity will probably blow in in the next few months, leaving the reserve capacity of approximately 4,000,000 tons per year. The steel companies produced a little under 22,500,000 tons and the Merchant furnaces about 7,230,000,000 tons in 1912. Merchant blast furnace interests sold about 7,435,000 tons during the year, or a little in excess of the output.

In reference to the Eastern division of the steel consuming market with the branch of the American Bridge Company, which took orders for 235,000 tons or approximately 40 per cent. of the 700,000 tons, the total steel tonnage fabricated in December was 114,000 tons, making the fourth quarter tonnage 378,000 tons.

As a result of the enormous volume of business, prices of all finished steel products were advanced from $4 to $10 a ton during the year. The greatest advance was on galvanized sheets which has suffered most in the decline of 1911; but from $2 to $3 per ton of the latter rise was due to the rapid advance in the price of spelter. The following table of extreme price changes during the year, furnished this department by the Journal of Commerce does not take into account the premiums that were paid at various times on referred shipments. These quotations cover fabricated steel orders of all kinds and also include railroad bridges, divided into quarters:

The Value of Fresh Air.

Under the title of "When Fresh Air Buys More Work," Sidney G. Koon contributes to the January "System," (20 cents, 46 East 23d street, N. Y.), an article of particular interest to building, office and factory managers. After describing the increased amount of work that operatives in various industries and offices were able to turn out after ventilating appliances had been installed, Mr. Koon says, in speaking of proper ways and means:

"In heating and ventilating a room by means of air currents, it has been found best to admit the air at a distance from the outside walls and direct it outward toward those walls. In a building subdivided into rooms this is easy. When there are no such partitions, however, it is sometimes necessary to admit the air from flues in or closely adjacent to the walls of the building. With the point of discharge about eight feet above the floor, the ventilating registers, if located in the same wall, should be close to the floor. This arrangement throws the incoming air across the room; as it cools, it settles and falls into the return current along the floor, and thus into the ventilating flue. This complete circuit makes it possible to keep the room under fairly equable conditions of both temperature and air purity.

"The choice of a plant for heating and ventilation involves many considerations. A combined plant must be adequate to perform all the work which may be required of it. Having determined upon the type which will suit the conditions, efficiency and economy in operation become primarily one of first cost and running expense.

"When the owner of a projected building gives the builder a blanket contract, however, the latter is likely to put in the ventilating and heating apparatus costing him the least money. Here ultimate cost is sacrificed to immediate returns upon the building operation, and the owner does not get what he has bargained for. For this reason, owners should always specify, not only the system which is to be used, but also the size, location and make of apparatus to be used as well as other mechanical systems bearing on the daily efficiency of the buildings."

Paints and Oils.

The year 1912 was conspicuous in the paint department for higher prices of such basic elements as of carbonate of lead, basic sulphate of lead, zinc oxide, petroleum products, tin cans, packing boxes, etc. In varnish manufacturing the price of all high grade gums advanced sharply. China wood oil, on the other hand, retracted following the sharp stiffening which characterized the market while the Chinese revolution was in progress. Early in the year linseed oil was stiff in price and slack in quantity. After the receipt of favorable crop reports from Duluth prices began to drop from 60 cents and higher levels to 47 cents, which is the price now prevailing in this market. Prices of linseed oil in 5 barrel lots for the last 12 years follow:

Lumber.

H. C. HOWE, editor of the American Lumberman, supplies the Record and Guide with the following summary of the lumber situation, as viewed by mill men:

"In all the mill sections of the country the problem has been to meet the demand for lumber. When business began to show greater strength in the country a few months ago, stocks of retailers generally were greatly depleted, and the stocks of the manufacturers, due partly to inactivity at many mills, had been allowed to go down. Better business conditions set all mills in operation and permitted the manufacturers to obtain much better prices for their product.

The car shortage situation, which was felt in all industries, hit the lumber field severely, and this shortage combined with that of labor, which existed at many mill points, was the chief retardent feature of the industry. The lumber manufacturer did not have to worry about obtaining orders, but the filling of them was the cause of sleepless nights. Now that the car shortage is tending toward improvement, with a promise that within a few weeks it will pass the serious stage, the lumber producer, jobber and retailer are in a more optimistic mood. The open winter has interfered somewhat with logging operations in the northern and northwestern states where logging operations depend upon the fall of snow, but the weather prevailing of late has been of the finest for such operations in the south and southeast.

Low grade as well as high grade lumber has been enjoying a demand larger than the supply, and prices are much improved. Prosperity has made itself felt in northern hardwoods, southern pine, Pacific Coast products and all other woods in such manner that it cannot be accused of playing favorites. Only occasionally is there found a logger, manufacturer, jobber or retailer in a complaining mood or showing pessimism as to the future. The political issues in recent months played little or no part in the lumber industry; every person connected with the industry was too busy to bother about candidates or policies. Some anxiety may be felt now over expected tariff revision, but the anxiety in no instance has reached such a stage that it resembles a nightmare. It is quite generally realized that downward revision of the tariff is inevitable and the results of any revision have already been largely discounted.

Reviewing the lumber industry as a whole, it is now in better shape than it has been for several years and it is confidently expected that 1913 will be a banner business year."

The Lumber Cut.

A preliminary statement of the output of lumber, lath and shingles in the United States during the calendar years 1911, 1910, 1909 and 1908 has just been issued by Census Director E. Dana Durand. The reported production of lumber in the United States during the calendar year 1911, by 28,107 mills, was 37,003,207 M. feet board measure, as against 40,018,282 M. feet board measure reported by 31,934 mills in 1910; 44,509,761 M. feet reported by 48,112 mills in 1909, and 33,224,369 M. feet reported by 31,231 mills in 1908.

While the industry of lumber manufacture is widely distributed throughout the United States, a production during the calendar year 1911, having been reported from every state but one, namely: North Dakota—it is interesting to note that nearly 36 per cent. of the total cut was reported from the five states of Washington, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oregon and North Carolina, ranking in the order named.

Portland Cement.

PORTLAND cement in the Eastern market offers the best illustration of the rise of the early 1912 building material market from a condition of extreme retraction to a position of independence and strength at its close. When the year opened, "60-cent, mill," conditions prevailed; to-day 90-cent, mill, is well maintained in the Lehigh Valley district, and even Rosendale cement is 15 cents a barrel higher in this market than it was a year ago.

Total production for 1910-11 in Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey was 25,924,516 barrels, representing an average factory price of $0.763. New York produced 3,314,217 barrels in that time, representing an average factory price of $0.841. The total production for the country was 77,877,236 barrels, a gain of 1.7 per cent over 1910, with the average mill price running $0.867, as against an average mill price for the entire country in 1910 of $0.891. The average price per barrel in 1910 for products from Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey was $0.729, and for New York $0.808.

The total production of Portland cement for the New Jersey and Pennsylvania districts and New York for the last year will show only a slight gain, if any. The average price at mill will run a fraction over the average price of previous years. According to estimates based upon railroad freight handlings of this commodity into this market, there were about 4,700,000 barrels during the last year, representing metropolitan district consumption only an approximate total for 1912 of about 79,000,000 barrels.

As for the outlook in 1913, Portland cement enters the year with far better prospects than in many years. The mills are operating nearer to capacity in anticipation of an extremely heavy spring demand, while for a large part of the time last year from 50 to 65 per cent was the rule in the Lehigh and Hudson districts, rather than the exception.

Portland cement, unlike common brick, and other commodities, can be purchased on call, and stacking in this city to any great extent, is not customary. There are some dealers who are well supplied on 60-cent cement under old contracts, but so firm was the market at the close of 1912 that companies holding unspecified contracts on the 31st of December terminated them, so that now the 90-cent mill rate is operative, and probably will continue to be so.

Long Island Realty Men Elect Officers for the Current Year.

The annual meeting of the Real Estate Exchange of Long Island was held Wednesday, January 8, at an informal luncheon at Shanley's Restaurant, 42nd street, New York City. The following gentlemen were elected to the respective offices:

President, James Frank; Vice-President for Kings, Lewis H. Pounds; Vice-President for Queens, H. Stewart McKnight; Vice-President for Nassau, Alfred H. Wagg; Vice-President for Suffolk, Samuel Eichen; Treasurer, D. Maujer McLaughlin; Secretary, Burton Thompson; Secretary in Charge, James E. Wilkinson.

The members extended a vote of thanks to the retiring president, John W. Paris, for his efficient and conscientious services in the interest of the exchange for the past two years.

The Secretary reported that over 150 reservations have already been made for the annual banquet of the exchange which is to be held on Wednesday, January 15, 1913, at the Hotel McAlpin. He further reported that among the speakers who had accepted the invitation of the exchange were Comptroller Wm. H. Prendergast, Public Service Commissioner Geo. V. S. Williams, Borough President Maurice E. Connolly, Col. Black of the U. S. Engineering Corps.

Among the resolutions adopted at this meeting was one to the effect that suitable expression of approval for the magnificent manner in which the highways of the Borough of Queens have been improved during the administration of President Connolly be conveyed to the Borough President with the assurance that he would, at all times, have the heartiest co-operation and support of the Exchange and its members.

On motion of Mr. H. S. McKnight, a special committee was appointed for the purpose of reporting to the exchange at its next meeting, as to the advisability of having an Appraisal Committee appointed to exercise the same functions in relation to Long Island property as exercised today by the Appraisal Committee of the Real Estate Board of Brokers in relation to Manhattan property.

Retiring President Paris submitted his annual report to the exchange in which the work of the exchange for the past year was gone over in substance. Among the achievements of the exchange for 1912 he directed the attention of the members to the fact that the exchange was the first to enter into the fight for improved highway conditions in the Borough of Queens and that in his report to the Board of Estimate recommending that an appropriation be granted for this purpose, Comptroller Prendergast stated that the attention of the Board had been directed to the evil conditions of highways in Queens by the Real Estate Exchange of Long Island.

MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS.

PUBLIC AND LOCAL WORKS CONTEMPLATED IN THE GREATER CITY.

A Summary of the Proceedings of the Local Boards, the Board of Estimate, the Supreme Court and Various Commissions and Bureaus Relating to Street and Other City and Borough Improvements.

The news collected here under the general head of Municipal Improvements is intended to be of service to property owners as well as contractors and brokers. It covers every measure looking toward a change in the City Map, toward the acquisition of title to real estate by the city or toward construction work, including the grading of streets, the laying of sewers, the building of schools, etc. Each such measure is acted upon by one or more—generally by several—official bodies before it becomes a valid ordinance. In these columns the successive official acts pertaining to it are noted from the time it is introduced in a Local Board or in the Board of Estimate. Wherever public hearings on it are granted, the fact is also announced

Municipal improvements may be divided into two classes—those that are paid for out of the general tax levy and those that are paid for wholly or in part by special assessments on the property owners benefited. The latter, which are the more important to real estate owners, originate in the Local Boards. However, every local improvement, except certain street improvements calling for an expenditure of not more than $2,000, must be submitted to the Board of Estimate for authorization.

The news is classified and is printed in this order: Local Board Calendars, Local Board Resolutions, Proceedings of the Board of Estimate, Public Hearings, Assessments Due and Payable.

LOCAL BOARD CALENDARS.

As regards the majority of city improvements, including all that call for special assessments, the Local Boards are in a sense neighborhood legislatures. They have absolute authority over certain street improvements, costing not more than $2,000. With respect to all other local improvements, they exercise full legislative functions, subject to approval by the Board of Estimate. The Board of Estimate seldom vetoes a measure coming from a Local Board. It is before the latter that the property owner should be most watchful to make himself heard concerning proposed improvements. When a Local Board resolution comes before the Board of Estimate, the presumption of expediency is on the side of the measure, as this has been adopted after open consideration by a body supposed to be familiar with local sentiment.

There are twenty-five Local Improvement Districts in the city, each with its Local Board. This is composed of the Borough President and of the Aldermen who represent the Aldermanic districts within the Local Improvement District. The Borough President's secretary acts as secretary of the several boards. Each board has jurisdiction over matters relating to its district. In the case of matters relating to two or more districts, the boards of the districts affected sit in common. The meetings are subject to call by the Borough President.

PUBLIC HEARINGS.

One or more hearings are granted in connection with all proposed improvements. In the case of local improvements, the first hearing is by the Local Board. Such hearings are noted in this news department of the Record and Guide under the general head of Local Board Calendars. Hearings by all other bodies are noted in the present column.

In acquiring title to land for streets, sewers, parks, approaches to bridges, etc., condemnation proceedings are commonly resorted to. A proceeding having been authorized by the Board of Estimate, the Corporation Counsel makes application to the Supreme Court for the appointment of three commissioners. If the cost of the land is to be paid wholly or in part by property owners benefited, the commissioners are known as commissioners of estimate and assessment. They hold their meetings at the Bureau of Street Openings, a clerical and legal organization under the supervision of the Corporation Counsel charged with the management of all legal proceedings which involve awards for damages or assessments for benefit to land.

If the cost of the land is to be paid by the city as a whole, as in the case of school sites, dock property, etc., the commissioners are known as commissioners of estimate and appraisal, whose place of meeting is at 258 Broadway.

In the case of assessments for local improvements of a physical nature which do not have to be confirmed by a court of record, the assessments come before three permanent commissioners appointed by the Mayor. They constitute the Board of Assessors, which has to do with assessments for such improvement as the regulating and grading of streets, the laying of sewers, etc.

Proposed Assessments.

The following proposed assessments have been completed and are lodged in the office of the Board of Assessors, 320 Broadway, Manhattan, for examination by any one interested; and all persons who are opposed to these assessments must present their objections, in writing, to the Secretary of the Board, at the above address, on or before Feb. 4, at 11 a. m., when testimony will be taken:

Edison Service
vs.
Private Plants

A man might argue for private plants forever, but he could never win his case. The evidence in favor of Edison Service is overwhelming. Every fact and figure conclusively proves that Central Station furnishes the most efficient power at least expense.

Let Your Own Good Judgment Decide This Important Matter

A private plant means an annual loss of at least 15% for depreciation and interest; valuable floor space is wasted; and the service is never reliable. Get in touch with us today by phone or letter and we will clearly demonstrate the superiority of Edison Service.

HOUSE WRECKING DOWN TO A SCIENCE

We contract with builders, owners and architects for the wrecking of buildings—small or great—from top to curb.

Large forces of skilled workmen, under competent foremen, together with modern appliances and ample hauling facilities, permit quick work.

System in all branches reduces the bluster of wrecking to a minimum. Our methods provide safety to abutting property and but slight street encroachment.

We have handled as many as a dozen big contracts simultaneously during a single month.

We guarantee satisfaction and satisfy the architect, builder and owners as to terms.

Write us or call us up and we will have a representative with you promptly on appointment.

TRADE LITERATURE

Catalogue of Metal Windows.

Henry Hope & Sons, of 103 Park avenue, are issuing a new casement catalog, which is as complete in the information it contains as any this department has reviewed. It was apparently designed to enable architects and specifiers of metal windows of all kinds to use it as a ready reference not only for actual specification, but to facilitate installation work. This catalog, which is 15 inches long by 10 inches wide, about ¾ of an inch thick, and bound in steel and cloth, and printed on heavy coated paper, thus permitting fine detail in explanatory sketches with duo color type, is being sent gratis to reputable architects and specifiers upon request.

The architect usually finds his best opportunity in the treatment of windows in the use of leaded glass. In the current catalog about a dozen pages are devoted to showing different art designs of leaded glass windows, and other departments contain valuable information relating to sash control. Another added feature of this catalog is the full and half page prints of different buildings of famous architecture both at home and abroad, which are in themselves valuable to the architect seeking suggestions. So distinct are some of these drawings that the detail of brick and stone facades is clear enough for critical study. In the last four pages of the catalog are shown some of the special windows that Henry Hope & Sons have executed, revealing the adaptability of their product to any architectural effect desired. Another feature of the book which will appeal to the busy architect is the fact that the descriptive matter has been greatly condensed to simplify reference as much as possible.

Report of Metal Lath Tests.

Sometime ago a test of metal was made under the supervision of V. D. Allen, City Building Inspector of Cleveland, by the committee which he had appointed to conduct fire tests on partitions. The findings on this test have been completed and compiled and are ready for distribution. Copies may be obtained by addressing H. B. McMaster, Commissioner, 812 Wicks Building, Youngstown, Ohio.

BUREAU OF BUILDINGS, BOROUGH OF MANHATTAN
(No. 220 Fourth Avenue)
BULLETIN NO. 56—1912
PLUMBING APPLICATIONS.

New forms upon which to file applications for plumbing and drainage will be in use in this Bureau on January 1, 1913. In these revised forms, all unnecessary questions have been eliminated as far as possible, and the procedure generally has been simplified. All blanks used in connection with these applications must be typewritten and filed in triplicate—that is, one original and two carbon copies.

Plumbing applications will bear an independent serial number, and applicants are requested to refer to this record number in all subsequent correspondence with the Bureau. The two blank lines constituting the heading on each page (entitled "P. & D. Application No....." and "Location.....") should not be filled in by the applicant.

When filing a plumbing application in the first instance, only two blanks will be required (in addition to such plans as may be necessary), namely:

Form entitled P. & D. Application (Page 1).—This is the application proper, one copy of which, after approval by the Superintendent, will be issued to the applicant as the permit required by the Building Code.

Form entitled P. & D. Application (Specifications).—This page is intended to give the Bureau all information required which can not well be shown on the plans and which is not already definitely covered in the Building Code or the Plumbing Rules—(a copy of which rules may be had on application). One copy, when finally approved, will be returned to the applicant.

If the application is not approved as originally submitted, a list of objections will be sent to the applicant on form entitled P. & D. Application (Objections). These objections should then be answered by filing the necessary amendment on form entitled P. & D. Application (Amendment). If this amendment is not approved, the amendment sheet will be so marked and returned to the applicant. It will then be necessary for the applicant to file another amendment on a similar form, properly answering the objections. When the amendment is approved, a copy will be issued to the applicant. Amendments to plumbing applications will be accepted only on the blue forms provided for that purpose.

As soon as the application is finally approved and before beginning the work, an affidavit as required by the Plumbing Rules must be filed by a registered plumber on form entitled P. & D. Application (Plumber's Affidavit). This form need only be filed in duplicate and only one copy need be sworn to by the plumber.

RUDOLPH P. MILLER,
Superintendent of Buildings.

MODIFICATION, SECTION 21, ELEVATOR REGULATIONS.

Bulletin No. 60—1912. In re Elevator Application No. 80 No Construction 1912, premises—624 East Thirteenth Street.

In a hand-power elevator, traction type, for a seven-story factory, it is proposed to substitute substantial helical buffer springs instead of substantial oil buffers required by section 21 of the Elevator Regulations.

A modification of section 21 of the Elevator Regulations is requested and hereby granted, to substitute substantial helical buffer springs for the required oil buffers in this case, inasmuch as this form of buffer is good and sufficient to bring the car and its load to rest under normal conditions without undue shock.

Dated: December 10, 1912.

Chief Inspector of Buildings and Acting Superintendent of Buildings.

BUILDERS AND PLASTERERS

Can now work continuously during cold weather in new buildings heated by

METHOD

Fresh, cold, therefore dry air, enters from the outside through the Air Supply Pipe, into a receiving chamber, from there into the tubes surrounding the fire, ascends in a dry, heated state into the room, passes along the ceilings and walls, absorbs dampness from them, sinks down moisture laden, enters the apparatus, ascends after mixing with the coke gases into the outlet pipe for the smoke, and finally goes through the chimney or windows into the open air.

We have solved the problem of Drying-Out Buildings under Construction, in a Quick, Effective, Hygienic and Economical Manner.

Assessment Area for Seventh Avenue Extension.

The Board of Estimate this week adopted the area of assessment for the extension of Seventh avenue that had been recommended by its special committee. The improvement includes the extension of Seventh avenue south from Greenwich avenue to Carmine street; the widening of Varick street, from Carmine street to Franklin street, and the extension of Varick street, from Franklin street to West Broadway.

The assessment for the work, which may cost as much as $12,000,000, will be laid as follows: Twelve per cent. on the immediate frontage of the new street, 33 per cent. on the secondary area extending 200 feet on either side of the thoroughfare, 40 per cent. on the Borough of Manhattan, 11 per cent. on the Borough of Brooklyn and 4 per cent. on the Borough of The Bronx.

Lumber Interests Enjoined.

Judges Lacombe, Coxe, Ward and Noyes in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals handed down a decision granting the petition of the Government for a permanent injunction in accordance with the Sherman anti-trust law against the Eastern States Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, the New York Lumber Trade Association, the Building Material Men's Association, the New Jersey Lumbermen's Protective Association, the Retail Lumbermen's Association, the Lumber Dealers' Association of Connecticut, the Massachusetts Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, the Lumber Dealers' Association of Rhode Island, the Retail Lumbermen's Association of Baltimore, the Lumber Exchange of the district of Columbia, and their officers, directors, members and delegates.

The suit was instituted by the Government in May, 1911. The petition, filed in this district by United States Attorney Henry A. Wise, alleged a conspiracy to control the lumber trade and maintain arbitrary prices.

Fitness for Habitation.

In a recent decision of the Supreme Court, Appellate Term, First Department, it was held that in case of a lease of a furnished home, especially for a short time, indicating the purpose of immediate occupancy, there is an implied warranty of availability of the furniture, so that the presence of bugs in great quantity immediately on the tenant's entry warrants his abandonment of the premises.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1912.

T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The number in ( ) preceding the serial number to the right of the date line, at head of this page, is the Index number for the Checking Index.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

THE OLD NEW YORK SUBURB AND THE NEW

Small Operators Have Given Way to Large-Scale Enterprises, the Purpose of Which Is to Develop Entire Communities—Selling Methods Changed, Too

By WILLIAM HERBERT

IT is an interesting fact that at the very time when the movement of population from the centre of the city to the outlying districts is likely to be larger, both absolutely and proportionally, than it ever has been in the history of New York, the suburban development companies are doing more than ever before to attract residents to the open country. They are adopting a much better conceived group of methods to sell their property than was formerly the case, and they are making it both easier and pleasanter for the city resident to move out to the suburbs. These methods have been gradually worked out as the result of a long and trying process of development. They are the consequence of many failures and successes, of much ingenuity and experimentation, and of the necessary employment of constantly larger supplies of capital.

The Pioneers.

The original exploiter of suburban property was usually a man of small capital, who merely tried to make a quick turn on a rising market. He would purchase an available tract of land, lay out the lines of a few streets, without spending much of anything on the improvement of the property, and then offer the lots for sale. Usually the sale was made at auction, and was widely advertised in the newsapers. An attempt to attract a crowd to the premises was made by hiring a brass band, furnishing food and drink, and sometimes by the offer of transportation. These sales might be attended with a considerable measure of success during a time of rising prices and antecedent public interest, but they obviously constituted a very poor method of developing suburban property and attracting permanent and desirable residents to a particular vicinity. Many of the purchasers were petty speculators, who had no intention of improving, so that this method of development was adapted only to comparatively cheap property and to distinctly second-rate neighborhoods.

More Responsible Methods.

There succeeded a period in which more responsible methods were used and the appeal was made to a better class of buyers. During this period the average development company was obliged to invest a much larger amount of capital in its business than was formerly necessary. An attempt was made to secure a comparatively attractive piece of property; and this tract was laid out with more or less care, so as to bring out its natural advantages, and offer desirable residential sites. It was fully "improved"; that is, it was provided with all the necessities and conveniences, such as sewers, water, electric light, etc., which modern American house builders cannot do without. In the better class of enterprises restrictions began to be imposed upon the purchasers. They were sometimes required to build within a certain period or to put up a house of not less than a definite cost. Nuisances of all kinds were prohibited. It was gradually learned that a suburban settlement was by way of being a community, and that, if certain common standards were imposed on all purchasers, the result was likely to be a much more substantial success. But such a success implied the investment of a great deal of capital and somewhat slow returns. These methods worked in favor of the large, experienced company, which was developing a number of different tracts at the same time, which knew precisely what conditions to impose, and how much of an investment it could afford to make, and which could afford to maintain a large and efficient selling agency.

Increasing Supply.

This phase of suburban development operations was characteristic of the early years of the 20th century. During 1905 and 1906 the companies using these methods in an intelligent and honest manner were extremely prosperous. A period of expanding business coincided with a period of real estate excitement all over the country. In the vicinity of New York real estate on the margin of the city which was suitable for suburban development, or soon would be, advanced rapidly and considerably in price. An unusually large number of small investors were in the market, and an unusually large number of Manhattan residents were being driven from the city by the increase in rents. At the same time, the large demand for suburban lots naturally had the effect of increasing the supply. Many new tracts were opened up. A large number of new companies went into the business. Competition became severe. During a period of large sales, but also of large offerings, competition naturally took the form of a very complete organization of the sales department. In the case of the large companies these departments became very efficient, but they also became very large and very expensive. Lots were sold largely by personal solicitation. The whole effort of the management was directed temporarily, not toward any actual improvement in the character of the lots which they offered for sale, but rather toward the quick disposal of certain goods, which conformed to an established standard.

When the Panic Came.

Such was the condition when the panic of 1907 overtook the business of the country and temporarily cut down the sales of the development companies to almost nothing at all. This calamity compelled a radical readjustment of the prevailing methods. The elaborate sales organizations which had been built up to meet the previously prevailing demand were to a considerable extent allowed to fade away. They became a burden rather than an economy. The weaker companies could not stand the strain and were forced to the wall. The stronger companies, which were carrying a large amount of property in the face of a stagnant demand, began inevitably to search for means to stimulate purchases. They sought for means to make their property more attractive than ever to buyers, so that they could create a new market.

Speculative Builders.

The most recent phase of the policy of the suburban development companies has been the result of the foregoing general situation. A large amount of suburban property had been developed, but remained unsold. A still larger amount was available for improvement and would soon come upon the market. The demand for lots picked up after the crisis of the panic passed away, but it was never large enough to make the business of selling easy. A market had to be partly created, and the more enterprising and resourceful of the companies went ahead to accomplish this creative work. They changed their methods in certain essential respects.

Speculative Builders.

For one thing, they began to offer houses for sale as well as lots. Hitherto they had not come into competition with the speculative builder. The latter had frequently operated on semi-suburban property, but in that case he always built dwellings of substantially the same design in rows and separated only by narrow alleys. The suburban development company had frequently been in this sense a speculative builder, but since 1908 they have become speculative builders in another sense. They have erected houses of individual design on larger pieces of property, which made their appeal to a much more fastidious clientele. They have been obliged, consequently, to exercise their ingenuity more than ever in order to make these houses attractive to buyers. They have been obliged to study the tastes and needs of their clients much more carefully than the ordinary speculative builder was obliged to do. Their purchasers were not forced to accept what the suburban development company offered, as was the purchaser who dealt with the ordinary speculative builder. He had a genuine choice. He had to be more than ever attracted and pleased, and this necessity has resulted in a still further development of the methods of the companies to which we shall turn in the next article of this series.

Broadway—Flushing.

It is interesting to note also that speculative building in the suburbs, intended to appeal to comparatively well-to-do and fastidious people, has come in just as the speculative building of residences in the heart of the city, intended to appeal the same class of people, has almost entirely ceased. The days when a thousand comparatively expensive private houses were built and sold every year in Manhattan are over. At present there are none built and sold in Manhattan, and very few in the other boroughs. The suburban development companies had the field to themselves. Their only competitors are expensive apartment houses, and in the long run they should be able to get the better of that kind of competition. The pleasing and convenient suburban house, situated in an attractive country and not too remote from Wall street and Broadway, has so many intrinsic advantages over the apartment house in a congested city that the development companies should be able little by little to make serious inroads on its patronage.

What Rapid Transit Will Do for Queens

"We know as a fact that many large concerns are simply waiting for a closer connection with Manhattan Borough to be established to locate their factories and other business interests in Queens," says Borough President Connolly. "These concerns have made inquiries from our Building Bureau and a number of them already have their plans for building prepared and options obtained on the property on which they are locating. They must have the transit, however, as the labor market is in Manhattan and the workingmen will not come to this borough now when they have to pay from sixteen to twenty cents car fare a day."

—About $37,500,000 was invested in mortgages in the Borough of Queens last year, the larger part in factories and apartment houses.

THE METROPOLITAN OFFICE BUILDING

A New Building Type Evolved In Consequence of the Demand For Offices Uptown — The Latest Fireproof Construction

LAST year plans were filed for forty-eight office buildings to be erected in Manhattan Borough, which was three less in number than were planned during the previous year f 1911. But the forty-eight buildings of 1912 will cost nearly eleven million dollars more than the fifty-one that were planned in 1911, showing a remarkable increase in average cost.

The average office building planned last year will cost ere it is completed $635,000 for construction alone, while those which were planned in 1911 will cost on the average but $384,000. The total estimated cost of the office buildings for which plans were filed during the year 1912 in Manhattan is $30,501,000, which is to be compared with $19,591,000, the estimated total cost of the buildings planned in 1911.

The very much larger appropriations of last year furnishes a key to the character of the work now in the hands of contracting builders. It is the heaviest work on the whole that the business community has ever undertaken, and indicates, better than any other one thing that could be pointed to, the higher requirements of the age.

Office buildings hold the premiership over all other classes of buildings erected through private enterprises, being the largest and costliest. They must be erected nearly always where the cost of land is greatest, where the most people want to congregate and where the fever of money-getting is highest. They must be erected according to the soundest rules of construction; they must be divided by partitions mostly permanent into a great number of office units, and these units must be individually lighted, heated and made easy of access.

Distinguishing Marks.

An office building being distinct from a store, loft or factory building or workshop of any kind, is taken to mean one that is divided into rooms above the first story, is intended to be used for business purposes and is in no part for living purposes, except by the janitor and his family.

A commercial building of the loft type may under the law occupy the entire lot or lots upon which it stands, but the office building may cover but ninety per cent. of its site, if occupying an inside frontage. Loft buildings must have stouter floors, stairways suited in number and kind to the nature of the occupancy of the building, and recently many laws have been enacted which tend to broaden the difference between the two types of business buildings.

A Composite Type.

A type of business building has come into prominence recently which is intended in part for offices and in part for salesrooms. Owners will subdivide a building of this sort in a manner to suit tenants, but manufacturing will in no event be permitted. There will be floors devoted exclusively to suites of offices, and floors containing both salesrooms and offices for firms whose factories are elsewhere in the city or in distant towns. The new Fourth avenue contains a number of examples of this composite type, buildings which are largely, though not entirely, used for office purposes and which are considered socially superior to the regulation loft building. On Madison avenue, at the southeast corner of 25th street, facing Madison Square, is an excellent instance of this special class of construction, suited for both offices and salesrooms of the most representative firms the country can produce.

THE WOOLWORTH BUILDING.

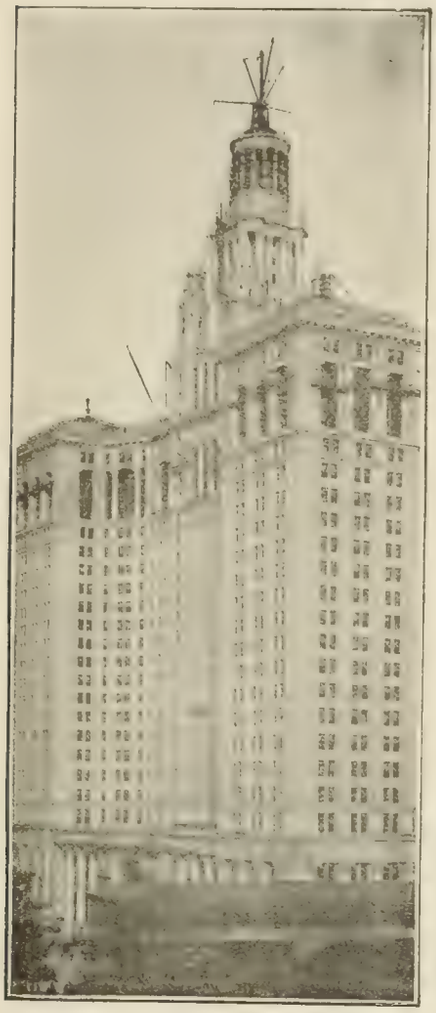
Economic Duration.

It is a noteworthy fact that several of the earliest examples of office buildings classified as fireproof, having outlived their economic usefulness, are about to be succeeded by modernly contrived skyscrapers. One is the Drexel at the corner of Wall and Broad streets, and another is the Western Union, at Broadway and Dey. These two with the Equitable, which was ruined by fire a year ago, were the first important office buildings of the so-called fireproof class to be erected in New York, Even before the Equitable was burned, the directors had under consideration its replacement with a new building.

The Drexel Building dates from the year 1872, the Western Union from 1873. Forty years of progress has made them obsolete. The Equitable was built in sections, the first in 1870, and George B. Post was architect of the later work, as he was also of the Western Union Building as a whole. In the first section the floors were constructed of common brick arches between iron beams, and furred underneath with metal lath. The minor partitions were of angle iron studs covered with metal lath and plastered.

Fireproof construction has had different meanings in different eras, but always it has meant the least burnable and the best construction of which the times were capable. The Drexel was built as an elevator building, seven stories high, of white marble, the last of the French type of business edifices of note. The Western Union was the first of the really large office buildings ten and a half stories high, equipped with two elevators, one of these a water balance (the first in the city), the other a steam elevator. Then came the plans for the Tribune Building (since enlarged and carried higher), the Boreel, which has been replaced by the U. S. Realty Building, the Morse and the original Temple Court, all planned before 1880. Beginning with that year there came in order during the next five years a notable list of office buildings of the new elevator type, but built with solid masonry walls; the United Bank, the Mills and Potter Buildings, the Produce Exchange, the Welles, the Standard Oil and the Washington.

It was the elevator that first taught men to build higher and higher, and the invention of steel skeleton construction which taught them how. After the adoption of the skeleton construction for high buildings, the Columbia Building, at 29 Broadway, was in the opinion of the late William J. Fryer, the most prominent and successful of the skeleton structures erected in New York up to that date. Other cities had been building skyscrapers, too. Other skeleton buildings of greater area and greater height followed in rapid succession, including the Manhattan Life, the American Surety, the Park Row Syndicate Building and the Empire.



Economic Depreciation.

These brief recollections of the earlier office buildings make plain that they, like every other class of buildings, have been subject to the law of economic depreciation. Built virtually to the limit, as we build now, and no matter how substantially, they yet in instances already numerous enough to prove the rule have become obsolete within about the same length of time as buildings of less substantial construction. In other words, the best buildings of the last generation endured no longer than their predecessors, not so much because of physical deterioration as on account f the irresistible economic forces which New York City has generated as no other metropolis ever has. Time only can tell whether the office buildings of our generation will successfully defy those forces.

A very obvious lesson from the foregoing is that in the financial accounts of every owner and building manager there should be an annual amortization charge for depreciation. Mr. Chesebrough, who has built nine office buildings in very recent years, buildings which exemplified the last word in fireproof construction at the date of their planning, has stated that he has adopted the plan of charging off a certain percentage each year for depreciation.

It is not to be assumed by the reader that there is not compensation for the loss of the building in the increased value of the land in the case of office buildings which have been replaced with newer ones; but inasmuch as depreciation is now a recognized force and constitutes a financial outgo, real estate experts have adopted the view that it should be estimated and taken into account as well as any other item of profit or loss.

Safety for the Investment.

An owner of an office building is safe if he has wisely selected his location where men will always want to congregate most. But imagine what would happen in the financial district if, for instance, the Stock Exchange should move uptown. Imagine the chaos in real estate if the New York Central had abandoned the Grand Central Depot at the crisis when it was ordered by the city and state to change its motive power, and do other things which have required the pouring out of money by the millions. Things happen which divert wealth and population from old channels. Just as the Erie Canal and the Panama Canal change commercial currents, so things have happened here in New York which have left sections of the city financially high and dry, and such possibilities should be provided against.

Elements of Stability.

When office buildings are considered as investments, there are at least two important elements of permanency working in their favor. First, it is certain that there will always be an imperative demand for them. Second, the present type will be practically unchanged in its broad outlines. Apart from bulk and external design, there has been no improvement in planning, constructing and equipping skyscrapers which gives the latest buildings such an advantage over the early examples of the steel skeleton type as to injure their financial chances by lessening their desirability. And looking forward, it is improbable that there will be any great change in the type in the future.

If a man has placed his building where business wants to be, if he has guarded against any diminution of his light and has heartily complied with the modern laws of fireproof construction and fire prevention, it is unlikely that his investment will be impaired either by loss of tenants or by exactions imposed by municipal boards. The most recent improvement in planning business buildings have been inspired or insisted upon by legislation under the head of fire prevention.

Protect Your Light.

The conviction seems to have become general that the failure in past times to impose more restrictions by law against building on the full area of the lot without regard to the height of structures is one of the important causes of the failure of many downtown office buildings to show a proper return upon the capital invested. The multiplication of tall buildings on comparatively narrow streets has shut out direct sunlight from many floors above the street level, making it impossible to rent these floors except at heavy concessions. In other words, the reductions in rent required in order to fill a large proportion of the floors of a tall building are frequently so great as to bring down the net income of the building to an unprofitable figure.

An illustration of the importance of good natural light was pointed out by an officer of one of the big lending institutions, who said that he knew of a building in the financial district which, originally a profitable investment, has now ceased to earn more than two and a half per cent. on its cost, including, of course, the site. Its decreased revenue is accounted for partly by heavier taxation, but more especially by lower rentals for the floors from the third to the tenth story. In the case of these floors the light has deteriorated under the gradual substitution of tall buildings for the original low structures on adjacent sites. Because of the concessions on these floors the building rents at an average of only $1.75 a square foot per annum, although the average in adjacent better lighted buildings is $2.50. In the case of this building, the question has arisen whether it would not pay to shave off ten per cent. of the rear in order to let in more light, and the question has been answered in the affirmative by experts called in for consultation.

If this is true of one building in the financial district, it is undoubtedly true of others. In any event, the time has come, in the opinion of those best informed on renting conditions, for some sort of restriction having for its purpose the protection of light and ventilation in the case of office buildings. Just what the restriction should be is a matter of doubt, but the opinion prevails that the matter should be settled by a committee of disinterested experts.

The Height of Buildings.

The office building represents the class most concerned by the long continued agitation for some limitation upon either the height or bulk of buildings, but the movement holds nothing ominous for skyscrapers already in being. Whatever consequences there may be in the successful consummation of the movement for restriction will rather fall upon land hereafter to be improved. In any event the well-planned office building will be secure as an investment.

An office building of marked distinction, because of its modernity, uptown situation and special purpose, is the one completed last year by the United States Rubber Company for its own use. At first the building was intended for loft occupancy in part, which may account for one feature seldom if ever before put on a regulation office building. This refers to the exterior fire tower. With amended plans the building was completed for office and mercantile purposes exclusively. The United States Tire Company has the ground floor for its salesrooms and the basement and sub-basement for storing and handling automobile tires. The United States Rubber Company, with the United States Tire Company and other subsidary corporations have their offices in the stories above the twelfth. It is a building with a special purpose, obviously intended as a headquarters for the rubber industry in this city, and though far uptown, at the corner of Broadway and 58th street, is yet right in the center of the automobile industry, one of the largest consumers of rubber.

A Modern Work.

A complete description of the huge white marble edifice, twenty stories high, would very nearly detail what is known to-day as the best forms of fireproof construction. Insurance men are authority for the statement that a fire in the United States Rubber building would not travel beyond the room in which it originated. There will not be one unbroken floor area in the entire building when it is fully tenanted. It may be assumed by the reader that all the usual fireproof forms are here present. The partitions between offices are generally either hollow tile blocks wedged between floors or else they are hollow metal. Fireproof wood is used in the partitions of special rooms in two of the upper stories.

The greater portion of the interior trim is of hollow metal. Wireglass is used in glazing windows and doors in interior partitions. All the windows in the south and east walls, including the light court, are made of solid wireglass in hollow metal frames. The windows on the Broadway and 58th street sides have plate glass in kalamein frames. The service stairs are enclosed at each story with hollow tile partitions, in which there is a fire door of hollow metal and wire glass.

There is a private fire-alarm box on every floor connecting with the nearest call box in the street. In the fire tower and in the elevator hall there are hose connections for each floor, half the capacity of a 15,000-gallon tank is reserved for fire purposes, and the building is furnished throughout with automatic sprinklers.

The year just ended was an extraordinary one for the erection of large buildings other than apartments. Of the grand total of $116,325,000 appropriated for buildings planned during the year 1912, in Manhattan Borough alone, more than fifty per cent., or $59,700,000, was for office buildings, stores and lofts, without considering factories and workshops.

Notable buildings under construction at the present time or contemplated are those which are to replace the Equitable, the Western Union, and the Drexel, as heretofore referred to; the first named to rise thirty-seven stories and to cost no less than $8,000,000, and the second to have twenty-eight stories and to cost $4,000,000. The foundations of a building for the Adams Express Company to be thirty-two stories high and cost $2,000,000 are being laid at Broadway and Exchange Place. The beautiful Woolworth, the highest building in the world, is in the finishing stages, and the same is true of the giant Municipal Building. The Bankers' Trust, the Guarantee Trust, and also the graceful Liberty tower, are noteworthy office buildings of recent date in the financial section.

Uptown, among the notable buildings classified as office buildings, is the one which the Aeolian Company completed during the past year in 42d street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, running through to 43d street; another is under construction for the William Astor estate at the northeast corner of 42d street and Broadway, in the heart of a district which is becoming a highly important busines center as well as the theatre section.

The Emmet Building on lower Madison avenue, sixteen stories high, and costing $500,000, is used in part as a residence for its owner, T. Addis Emmet, as well as for offices and salesrooms. One of the most costly office buildings of the year uptown is the Madison Avenue Building, at the corner of 25th street, twenty stories high, owned by A. Filmore Hyde, and estimated to cost for construction alone $1,300,000.

Notable buildings in the Times Square section officially classified as loft buildings but which will be used in part for offices and, having architectural qualities above the average, are the Candler Building in 42d street west of Seventh avenue and the twenty-eight-story tower building of E. W. Browning on the south side of West 40th street, east of Broadway and opposite the tall Lewinsohn Building, also about ready for occupancy.

LOFT BUILDINGS AS INVESTMENTS

Sharp Advance in Rental Rates—Improved Building Methods—Woodwork Now Being Excluded—Builders Advised to Slow Up

By FREDERICK C. ZOBEL, Architect

THE year 1912 showed increased activity in the field of loft building construction. Buildings completed quickly found tenants from among firms which had become dissatisfied with their quarters in antiquated, non-fireproof structures in the older business sections. The quick absorption of loft space in modern fireproof buildings and, more particularly, the low prices prevailing during the beginning of the year naturally tempted builders to continue the construction of this type of building, and also attracted many new investors and operators into the field.

The number of loft buildings in construction increased suddenly to such an extent that this very activity quickly caused rentals to rise and about May 1 prices were 15 to 20 per cent. higher than at the beginning of the year.

Fourth Avenue, at Thirtieth Street.
THE PASSAVANT BUILDING.

Tall Buildings the Usual Thing.

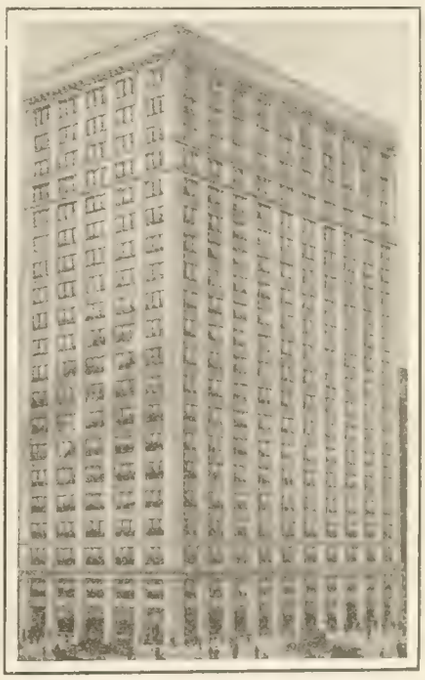
Only a few years ago seven-story non-fireproof loft buildings were common, and a twelve-story building was quite an affair; the former is now extinct as a new building type and the latter has become the usual thing. Even fifteen or twenty-story buildings no longer cause comment.

The type of buildings constructed during 1912 is very similar to that constructed during the previous year; nevertheless, most of the buildings show a marked improvement over those of 1911 by including in their design light courts, complete automatic sprinkler equipment, smokeproof or enclosed stairways, and the liberal use of fireproof windows, doors, and finished floors, to the exclusion of woodwork.

So general was the use of fireproof windows and doors that the industries engaged in their production were utterly unprepared to answer the enormous demands made upon them, and the completion of many buildings was seriously delayed on account of the inability of the fireproof window and door manufacturers to supply these materials.

Attempts to erect buildings for a particular line of business or industry have not been successful, as it limits the owner to a small class from which to draw tenants. In some cases where buildings were erected or leased by leading merchants, lines affiliated but not in direct competition with them were attracted to these buildings. Even the mere restricting of buildings against manufacturers handicaps the renting.

Manufacturers as Tenants.



In the Fourth avenue district the policy of excluding manufacturers has been strictly adhered to so far. It is doubtful, however, whether there is sufficient demand for salesrooms to fill all the new buildings now being completed in this district, and many of the buildings built in 1910 and 1911 have been converted wholly or in part into office buildings in order to secure tenants.

By barring manufacturers, the Fourth avenue owners have lost the largest class of space seekers, although perhaps not the most desirable class, and therefore renting will be slow in this section.

In the Fifth avenue district manufacturers are considered acceptable tenants, and renting will be brisk, especially as the Lord & Taylor store will draw many manufacturers to its vicinity.

A Recession Expected.

Loft building construction during 1913 will show a decided slump. The present supply of loft space warrants a conservative production until the supply has been absorbed by tenants, which will not be until next October. Builders should refrain from augmenting this supply and making competition against themselves. If this course is followed, 1914 will be a good year for loft building activity.

APARTMENT BUILDING THE LIFE OF TRADE

An Architect Predicts Activity For the Coming Year, But Warns Against Pioneering—How to Make a House Panic-Proof

By MAXIMILIAN ZIPKES

WHAT is the most important fact in the upbuilding of a section? For multi-family houses, known to the law as "tenements," high, medium or low class, there is but one answer, transit facilities. The subway has been a great factor in the development of The Bronx and upper Manhattan. Already great activity is manifested along the new Lexington avenue subway.

Taking The Bronx by sections, we look first to the Hunt's Point section. Here we find what may be called "a city within a city." A year ago the Hunt's Point, erected by the Henry Morgenthau Co.; the Tiffany Arms, erected by the Zipkes Construction Co.; the Seville, erected by former Building Superintendent P. Revell, and the Vodasea, erected by the Advance Realty Co., were the only notable apartment houses in this immediate section.

These buildings created the life and trade of 163d street, east of Westchester avenue. During 1912 a large number of new buildings have been built up around this neighborhood, and 163d street has become the business center of the section. The Simbar Realty Co., a building company that has added greatly to the Hunt's Point section, is now constructing a whole block front between Kelly street and Intervale avenue, facing 163d street, from plans of the present writer. It would be interesting to see a picture of the section at the time the Intervale avenue station was opened and compare it with a picture taken at the present time.

The Tremont Section.

Following the northward movement, we reach the great crosstown street Tremont avenue. The section bordering this thoroughfare has a brilliant future. It appears to me that a safe prediction would be that in less than twenty-five years Tremont avenue will be the 125th street of The Bronx. Following this street from east to west, we find at its extreme east end much activity in five and six-story apartments in all adjoining streets, rapidly replacing and displacing one and two-family houses.

Tremont avenue at this point has many new three and two-story buildings known as "taxpayers," showing the necessity of stores and business structures, because of the great activity in the form of tenement construction. These "taxpayers" are also being put up because of the faith in the future of Tremont avenue as a business center. In the middle of the Tremont avenue section in the neighborhood of Boston Road and McKinley Square, one will find amusement halls, restaurants, theatres and stores indicative of the population surrounding this avenue. All of the activity surrounding this avenue is due to transit facilities. Tremont avenue has a crosstown car service which connects with every north and south surface line in The Bronx, with the Amsterdam and Broadway surface cars and with the west side branch of the subway.

Around McKinley Square.

In the vicinity of McKinley Square, Louis E. Kloban, an active builder, is erecting three buildings on the west side of Franklin avenue north of 169th street which promises to be a novel proposition in this section of The Bronx. The lots upon which the buildings are erected are 200 feet in depth, leaving a yard space in back of the houses of 90x150 feet, which will be improved as an artificial park with walks, tennis courts, playground and swimming pool for the exclusive use of the tenants. The apartments are of medium grade, bringing only about $7 per room.

At Tremont and Jerome avenue is the next center where great activity will be seen. It is being rumored that the Sixth and Ninth avenue elevated is to be continued via Jerome avenue, as well as the Lexington avenue subway. Already many land owners are refusing substantial profits with a view to holding for improvement with stores and other large buildings this end of Tremont avenue.

The Van Cortland section is the latest seat of activity since the continuation of the West Side subway. Charles Hensle has been one of its pioneer builders. He is referred to as the creator of the 207th street section, which has a fine future, provided the land owners will give builders the proper support.

Coming down the upper West Side, on Washington Heights, we find that the activity in this section has not been quite so pronounced as in other sections, due to the fact that the section is already well built up. It contains a class of apartments known as "medium price," which does not seem to be the kind most needed in this city to-day. We are now confronted with a demand for "reasonable apartments," the kind that rent from $5.50 to $7 a room and which dominate The Bronx and also will the Van Cortland section.

We have, however, a demand for the very high-class apartments, which can be found below 125th street in the section of Riverside Drive, West End avenue, the side streets, Park avenue and the adjoining streets in Yorkville.

The laws should never have placed twelve-story buildings under the classification of tenements. Apartment houses should be under separate regulations. The stairway facilities are to my mind entirely inadequate in case of panic, fortunately they have never been put to a panic test. I never have had much fear as to fire under the present improved manner of construction, but I dread the day when our great twelve-story apartment houses containing 75 or 100 families are put to a panic test. I would strongly recommend fire-escapes in yards and courts with long balconies and connecting corridors to the main hall, as in hotels.

Rules for Panic Prevention.

I would strongly recommend a smokeproof tower and a separate elevator entirely away from the general elevator and stair accommodations. I would also urge a sprinkler system in all elevator shafts and stair halls, controlled by valves. I do think, however, that concessions should be made in the laws to overcome the provisions suggested for panic prevention. The additional elevator or the smokeproof tower should be permitted to encroach upon the yards or courts. Non-fireproof partitions within an apartment should be permitted so long as the partitions enclosing an apartment are entirely fireproof.

The prospect for apartment construction during the coming year is greater than ever. New York is increasing in its business enterprises every day. Office building after office building and loft building after loft building is being built rapidly to accommodate the increase of business. Representatives from all over the world are ever increasing in numbers in the city and it is necessary for the apartment house builder to keep abreast of the conditions and provide homes.

A Risk in Pioneering.

A speculative pioneer builder in a new section will invariably find the landowner painting beautiful pictures as to the future of the section, exploiting the great improvements which are contemplated and the exhaustive advertising campaign which is planned for the section. He will even get an attractive building loan, but when the operation is finished the pictures have faded, the improvements have not been confirmed, and the advertising has been done by himself. When it comes to getting a permanent mortgage, his answer everywhere will be, "We don't lend in that section, it is not quite ripe; come down into civilization." Meanwhile the interest and taxes accumulate in the empty houses, and the builder faces loss. The mechanics also face loss, while the land owner has had a part of his holdings improved at the pioneer builder's expense, and the builder, like the child, is left in the road to shift for himself. Let the man who sells you the land get your permanent mortgage; if he can't get it for you, you have your answer before you start.

Money and building operations have a great future and prospects for 1913, but be conservative. The most healthy state of building, to my mind, would be when contractors will refuse to build for any operator who has not a combination building and permanent loan, unless he is a cash builder, of whom there are few.

SHALL WE TAX THE UNEARNED INCREMENT?

Representative Men in the Realty and Mortgage Fields Are Against This Method of Securing Revenue.

THE RECORD AND GUIDE presents the views of representative men in the real estate and mortgage fields on the plan to tax the unearned increment on land, as recommended in the report of the Mayor's Commission on New Sources of City Revenue. This proposed measure for adding to city revenue by increasing the tax on real estate is, of course, of profound interest, and promises to create more discussion than any measure, either suggested or applied with the possible exception of the single tax plan advocated by the late Henry George.

The report was officially presented to the Board of Estimate on Thursday of this week.

The Real Estate Board of Brokers, through its Taxation Committee, will oppose the measure at such public hearings as may be held before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. David A. Clarkson is chairman of this committee. The Allied Real Estate Interests has also appointed a special committee to make a detailed report on this recommendation for new taxation. This committee consists of Joseph L. Buttenwieser, Alfred E. Marling and E. A. Tredwell.

The specific recommendation for the taxation of the unearned increment of land made by the Mayor's Commission is as follows:

The Recommendation.

We recommend an increment tax of 1 per cent. per annum to be perpetual upon all increments of land values as shown by comparison with the assessed valuations of the year 1912, and to be in addition to the general tax levied upon all real estate. If, for instance, the assessed value of a piece of land rises from $100,000 in 1912 to $110,000 in 1913, the owner would be called on to pay the general tax, say at the rate of 1.83, which would amount to $2,013, and in addition the increment tax of 1 per cent. of $10,000, or $100.

The proposed tax should not be levied upon any increment which results from the labor or expenditures of the owner. If land appreciates because of improvements paid for by the owner, such as grading and clearing, or connections for water, light and sewerage, or street openings, paving, etc., such an increment, to the extent that it represents capital invested by the owner, would not be subject to the tax. We propose, in short, that the tax shall be levied only upon the "unearned increment," which results from the growth of the city and from improvements made by the city or by others than the owner himself.

If, therefore, the value of a piece of land should rise from $100,000 in 1912 to $110,000 in 1913, and the owner can show that he has expended $4,000 in permanent improvements, either upon his own initiative or in payment of special assessments levied by the municipality, he would be subject to an increment tax on only $6,000; and therefore the base valuation of the land, from which future increments would be calculated, would be $104,000 instead of $110,000.

Assuming that land values now represent a capitalization of income on a basis of 5 per cent., the present tax rate of 1.85 is equal to 27 per cent. of the income from land, and is responsible for a corresponding permanent depreciation in the market value of the land. An increment tax of 1 per cent. would be equivalent to the annual appropriation of only about 12.5 per cent. of the increased yield or rent underlying the increment of capital value.

The average increase in the land values of New York City during the past decade was about $150,000,000 a year. On that basis an increment tax of 1 per cent. would yield in the first year a revenue of $1,500,000; in the second year, $3,000,000; in the third year, $4,500,000; in the fourth year, $6,000,000; and so on until the tenth year its yield would approximate $15,000,000.

The opinions which follow are almost unanimously against the tax:

Means Lowering of Values.

Louis V. Bright, president Lawyers' Title Insurance and Trust Co.: "We, who are largely interested in real estate in this city, had hoped that the commission for suggesting new sources of revenue for the city would not recommend any additional taxes upon real estate; not entirely for selfish reasons, but because of the very heavy burdens now resting upon that form of property, not only in the way of taxation, but also in the way of tenement house, fire prevention and other departmental orders. Assuming these latter to be necessary, the expense of compliance, though it does now flow into the city treasury, is, so far as the owners are concerned, the equivalent of taxes.

High Rates on Interest.

"For a long while comparatively high rates of interest have prevailed upon mortgage loans in this city. This has been brought about by the bid of other borrowers for investment capital, and as the investor can invest in stocks and other securities which are tax exempt, like mortgages, the borrower on real estate has had to meet the competition of this class of securities.

"The causes which have forced up the rate of yield on stocks and bonds have forced up the rate on mortgage loans, and this increase in rate, while it does not flow into the city treasury, is really a tax so far as the owner of real estate is concerned. The city's need of capital, in the same way has resulted in a steady increase in the rate of interest paid upon its issues of bonds, which in turn has increased the running expenses of the city and has directly increased the tax on land.

"It goes without saying that unless the investor in a piece of land, properly utilized, can pay all the burdens and get a fair return on his investment it will no longer attract as an investment, or to put it differently, to tempt the investor the price must be brought to a point where the investor finds the yield on the investment attractive. Therefore these burdens, if further continued, as in the purpose to tax the increase in land values, must tend to lowering the value or price of the commodity. This can mean only lower values for real estate and will make it less available as collateral for a loan. As nearly all of the real estate in the Greater City is mortgaged, this feature of the situation is very serious.

"It seems to me, therefore, that all persons interested in real estate in the city should now realize what this step in the direction of a surtax on real estate means, and if they intend to conserve their interest they must absolutely oppose any further extension of the tax plans so far as real estate is concerned.

"In all this discussion it seems to be assumed that the city needs additional sources of revenue. I am not an expert on taxation, and therefore canot say that this is not so, but it does seem to me that something must be done to check expenditures. The city must forego something in this way of spending if it is to do any saving. If every citizen of New York could really be made to understand that he, directly or indirectly, pays the cost of all waste in city management, we might get a more intelligent handling of these questions so far as the voter is concerned.

"No one seems to have taken into account the man who has invested in real estate and found after a long period of ownership that the value has, for no fault of his own, depreciated. The plan is to tax only increases in value. It would seem to be equitable to relieve the investor in some way where his investment depreciates. Most of these suggestions have been made over and over again, but they are as true as ever and their truth must be the excuse for their reiteration."

What if Land Decreases?

Richard M. Hurd, president Lawyers' Mortgage Co.: "Replying to your inquiry, I would say that in the statements relative to the proposed tax on the unearned increment in New York City land values, I have seen no mention of a provision for the removal of this tax when land values decrease. All who are familiar with real estate in New York know that values decrease in many sections while they are increasing in other sections.

"I would add that the burdens of taxation have been very heavily increased of late upon the owners of New York City real estate."

Leaves Much to Assessors.

Elmer Dean Coulter, of the Astor estate: "I thought this committee was to report on additional sources of taxation, not additional ways of taxing real estate. The proposed increment tax should be opposed for several reasons:

"First, because real estate overburdened with taxation and taxes depreciates.

"Second—The 'unearned increment' is to be determined arbitrarily—it is to be the amount the Tax Department considers property increases in value over the assessment of 1912.

"While I have the greatest regard for the ability of the Tax Assessors in valuing real estate, I have known them to be over optimistic. To have the unearned increment, in addition to the full market value of the property, determined in this way would work great hardship, particularly to the smaller owner, where the amount involved would not justify the expense of litigation.

"Further, assessed valuations have been increased at least once, under instructions to do so with a view to increasing the city's borrowing capacity.

"Third—New York realty values do not always go up. They have been known to depreciate. Suppose one has paid an 'unearned increment' and the property depreciates, or he might be paying this tax while the value of the property was really going down. Does the owner get a rebate or a refund?

"Fourth—Because the whole idea of raising money by additional taxes on real estate is wrong. Let your annual tax continue to go up, with a resultant depreciation in land values. Ultimately this will restrict the city's borrowing capacity. What is needed is not additional sources of taxation, but economy in administration and elimination of waste and extravagance."

Can More Be Justly Taken?

David A. Clarkson: "Private ownership of land has been authorized by the State in this and other civilized countries as being advantageous, and apparently with good reason if we contrast the results with those in countries where land has been held in common.

"Although this has resulted sometimes in the creation of great wealth by those buying and holding unimproved land, yet it is a question if the same amount of capital saved, with interest compounded, would not have resulted in greater wealth. Certainly this generation has seen the rapid creation of even larger fortunes in personalty in one lifetime.

"Does the recommendation of the Commission of New Sources for City Revenue, that an increment tax of 1 per cent. per annum be levied, seem just on its own statements? It means the taking annually of one-fifth of the amount of rent, 5 per cent., which the Commission states is the income which is yearly derived from land. This is in addition to the annual tax rate of 1.85 now levied, also stated by the Commission to be equivalent to 27 per cent. of the income from land.

"This tax rate has risen from 1.41 in 1903 by gradual increases. While this tax, which it is admitted now takes 27 per cent. of the annual value, and which is no way limited but is continually rising, is in force, would it be just to assess this additional charge on the owners of real estate? A tax on land once placed is never remitted and becomes a perpetual charge, with consequent taking of value from the landowner. As private ownership of land is established should owners thus be deprived of value?"

Based on False Premises.

E. A. Tredwell, president Real Estate Board of Brokers: "The unearned increment tax with us is in effect double taxation, as we tax the selling or speculative value of the land and the tax assessor follows up the rise in value quite closely. So much so that many parts of the city of New York are over-valued to-day because the proper margin of economic safety has not been left between the boom prices of 1907 and the depression of the succeeding years.

"In foreign countries where the taxation of land is on the renting value, in effect a wrong principle, some form of additional taxation is needed to reach the selling or speculative value, such as an unearned increment tax, but this is a bad cure for a basic mistake. With us, as we fully tax the unearned increment now, to add to it again is practically double taxation and it is not a common sense method of laying on the burden of necessary governmental expense.

"The views expressed are personal, as the Real Estate Board of Brokers has not had time or opportunity to take up this important matter. It is to be regretted that proposed improper taxation methods should be luridly headlined in the newspapers, as their effect in deterring investment is out of proportion to either their worth or their ultimate result.

"It might be pointed out that the annual rise in land value in the city of New York is almost in direct proportion to the growth of population, viz., 4 per cent. per annum, and that it costs approximately 7 per cent. per annum to carry vacant land. An operator holding vacant land over five years under our present taxation system cannot hope for any considerable profit, but must be content under the most favorable circumstances with only the same interest rate that he could get out of a mortgage investment.

"With the factory legislation now before the State Factory Commission in the form of thirty-three bills tentatively suggested, and the unearned increment tax based on false premises under our tax system, real estate is being treated with some violence, a matter of profound importance considering almost the entire revenue of the city government is obtained from real estate. But the American people are naturally a common sense folk, and there is little doubt the ultimate end of this matter, after much noise and bother, will be satisfactory to all concerned. You cannot permanently scare an optimist to death, and the American people are the one great nation of optimists the world at large possesses, and we have good reason to be."

Burdens Are Already Tremendous.

Alfred E. Marling, of Horace S. Ely & Co.: "I am against it absolutely. The burden of taxation on real estate is already tremendous. To add this other tax is practically to make the burden unbearable."

In Line With Modern Thought.

A. C. Pleydell, secretary New York Tax Reform Association: "In general the recommendations of the Mayor's Commission are in line with modern thought and progress, the tendency of which is everywhere to place more of the tax burden upon values resulting from community effort and expenditures and upon special privileges conferred by the State, and to relieve the producer and consumer from their present undue proportion.

"Personally I prefer a lower assessment or rate on buildings to the proposed 'unearned increment' tax, but the latter is based on the same general idea of relieving the improver. The privilege taxes proposed for subsurface spaces and for signs are correct in principle, and the change suggested in the special franchise tax is important and fair.

"The one proposition open to serious objection is the 3-mill rate on personal property, with abolition of offset for debts. As investment capital is now reached by special laws, this change would affect chiefly merchants and manufacturers.

"To abolish offset of debt while taxing all credits and stocks of goods would be a serious matter to large enterprises. Nor would the low rate remedy the present difficulties of reaching and valuing assessable personalty and the resulting inequalities.

Long Island real estate developers and brokers, numbering more than 200, attended the seventh annual dinner of the Real Estate Exchange of Long Island at the Hotel McAlpin on Wednesday night. James Frank, president of the exchange, reviewed the work of the association during the past year, and spoke enthusiastically about the effect upon realty of the new roads throughout Queens and Long Island. Col. William M. Black of the United States Engineering Corps spoke of the plans for harbor improvements. Other speakers included Comptroller Prendergast, Public Service Commissioner Williams, President Connelly of Queens and Commissioner Pounds of the Department of Public Works in Brooklyn.

THE YEAR'S BUILDING.

Manhattan's Building Plans for the Twelve Months Show Large Gains.

According to the revised figures of the building superintendents of the five boroughs, the year 1912 closed with a better record for the amount to be expended compared with the preceding year 1911 by $34,364,522, although the number of new buildings filed was less than in 1911 by 866 in actual numbers. In Manhattan the increased specified cost over last year was $17,787,860, the gain being chiefly in stores and lofts costing over $30,000, office buildings and municipal buildings, while the decrease was 83 buildings compared with last year, showing a falling off in dwellings, churches, stores and lofts costing less than $30,000. In the Bronx the increased cost was $11,807,340, showing that more brick tenements are to be erected. In Brooklyn the increased cost was $3,874,137, the decrease being 183 buildings. In Richmond there was an increase of 97 new buildings, costing $895,185, showing that more garages and frame dwellings are to be constructed. In Queens there was a falling off mainly in brick tenements, brick stores and tenements, manufactories and work shops, stables and other frame structures. The following tables show the number and estimated cost of new buildings for which plans were filed according to the revised figures of the Building Bureaus, after allowing for the plans withdrawn, rejected and revised:

Big Auctions Help Real Estate Situation.

(By Joseph P. Day.)

The three successful sales of the Van Cortlandt estate, the Murray estate, and the Forster-Schmitt property not alone helped, to the writer's mind, to show the possibility of success of large lot offerings, but helped the whole real estate community. Some of the biggest operators have said to the writer that these three sales—but particularly the Van Cortlandt and the Forster-Schmitt sales—had not only helped the real estate situation as a whole, but had proved to a great many skeptics that real estate was a commodity that could be marketed at any time and under all conditions, if it were properly presented to the public and properly managed.

On Giving One's Opinion.

Tell the truth. That's different from telling your opinion—opinions differ, no buyer cares as much for your opinion as he does for your exact knowledge and statement of fact—that sells the property. A salesman's opinion is only a wishy washy one after all, the buyer knows that. Come now. Don't fool yourself as to the selling value of your own opinion. Conceit does not sell real estate.—R. E. Board of Brokers' Bulletin.

—The city of New Brunswick has authorized the sale of $8,500 worth of bonds to purchase a site for a new armory.

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for the American Real Estate Company.

The recommendation by the Mayor's Commission on New Sources of City Revenue to tax the "unearned increment" is a sharp reminder of the necessity for careful study of the elements of depreciation that are supposed to be taken care of by the sinking fund. An unearned increment tax is bound to increase the percentage of the cost of a building that has to be covered by the sinking fund, as under such a tax the increase in land value to offset depreciation in the building will naturally be smaller. There was a time when there was little need of close figuring as regards depreciation in buildings. So recently as twelve years ago John Howard Cromwell in his "American Business Woman," pubished by G. P. Putnam's Sons—the book, by the way, contains a lot of information valuable to men as well as to women—considered 1 per cent. to be a fair allowance for the purposes of sinking funds in the case of the first-class buildings. In 1900 there was some excuse for such a low estimate, an estimate based upon the probable duration of the structural, as distinct from the economic, life of buildings. But the rapid deterioration in the value of buildings that has taken place in late years, particularly in the last ten years, has forced managers universally to base their estimates upon the economic life of buildings, almost without regard to their structural wearing qualities.

Economic life is determined by a variety of influences, which, so far as we know, have never been made the subject of any thorough investigation. However, every building manager is familiar with some of the more important. He knows, for example, that the introduction of steel construction has rendered obsolete practically every business building in Manhattan erected prior to 1890. He has observed the effect of the shifting of trade centers to new localities in consequence of changes in transportation, and he has had some experience of the ways in which legislation can confiscate investment values. Building managers have not been in the habit of giving much thought to legislation as a cause of depreciation. However, legislation is just now among the principal influences affecting the economic life of buildings. Legislation is merely an expression of public sentiment, and public sentiment has probably undergone a more radical change with respect to fire protection, sanitation and taxation in the last ten years than it had in the preceding generation. Formerly public sentiment altered slowly in the matter of property rights, and legistures and the courts were conservative. Today all this is changed, and building managers are obliged to base their sinking fund calculations largely upon such an intangible thing as the popular sense of "social justice," as well as upon concrete economic factors.

Where, as is the rule in New York, the owner of the land is also the owner of the building, the prospects of a rise or of a fall in the value of the land should be taken into account in the sinking fund, as the purpose of such a fund is to offset any loss that can be foreseen in the owner's investment as a whole. If the land increases in value, the sinking fund may be smaller; for in that case the building, when obsolete, may be replaced with the assistance of a larger mortgage on the site. But the effect of the unearned increment tax will be to confiscate a substantial part of this augmented borrowing value. According to the commission's own showing, assuming that land values represent a capitalization of income on a basis of 5 per cent., the new tax will appropriate 12.5 per cent. of the increased rent underlying the increment of capital value. But, as we know, the borrowing capacity of the land is much less than its capital value. Hence, the new tax will make a big difference in sinking fund calculations.

The tax further complicates matters through the fact that as a rule land values rise faster than rents. The land increments are usually in neighborhoods that are building up rapidly with new constructions, and the supply of space is consequently ahead of the demand. Land values are, indeed, based on expected future rents, and the actual current rents are not always sufficient to show a proper return on the investment if an adequate sinking fund allowance is made.

The foregoing ideas have been thrown out in the hope that they may lead to a helpful discussion of the right practice with respect to sinking fund accounting. Unless the sinking fund accounting is correct, it is impossible to know whether a building is losing or making money for its owner.

IMPORTANCE OF PROPER MANAGEMENT

Sixty-Five Per Cent. of the Apartment Houses of New York Inadequately Kept Up—How Owners Can Save Money.

By G. RICHARD DAVIS

As the value of all real estate lies in the income which it produces, and as it requires a building of some kind to produce any income, except the immaterial one from the rental of vacant property, it is obvious that the care of the building and its occupants is of great importance.

Property owners pay insufficient attention to this matter unless they are directly in charge of their property, and unfortunately also they are not as a rule trained in the care and management of property and are apt to be guided more by general custom than their own best interests.

The owner of improved real estate who holds it as a permanent investment must consider not only the income that he will receive, but also the maintenance and value of his property.

The purchaser of a new building fully rented will obtain a maximum income for the first few years and the temptation is strong not to invest this income in maintenance or repairs. The result at the end of from three to ten years, according to the character of the property and as to how well or poorly constructed, is that it is in bad condition. No longer is it easily rentable, and the income, instead of being satisfactory, is quite the reverse. A large percentage of vacancies occur and the cost of upkeep and repair is very great.

Pays Double Measure for Neglect.

Such an owner is paying in double measure for his mistake of the previous years in not maintaining his property and keeping it always in first-class condition.

I believe that fully 65 per cent. of the apartment houses and business buildings in this city are maintained in the fashion above described; in fact, the percentage may be larger rather than less.

In making this statement I am aware that I am criticising the majority of property owners and not attributing to them the good judgment which it is naturally supposed men who are successful enough to own real estate as an investment should be possessed of.

The trouble is due partly to lack of knowledge, but more largely to the fact that the majority of owners place their property in the hands of brokers who naturally desire to obtain the best result at first, and are loth to influence the owner to spend money on his property and reduce the income, although they know from past experience that it would be wise advice to give and the proper thing to do.

Putting Off the Day of Reckoning.

In a great many cases the agents of the property are also the brokers in the sale of the property to the owner. In their natural wish to show the owner good returns from the investment made as a result of their advice, they fail to disclose the needed repairs, particularly if the building is poorly constructed, and put the day of accounting off as long as possible in the hope that it may never come.

Ask the tenants of the majority of the apartment houses and of business buildings in the city if the property they reside in or do business in is properly managed. Their answer will be the proof of the above statements.

Some of the large estates with their own trained staff of employees are conspicuously well managed; they insist on keeping their property in repair. Often at the inconvenience of the tenant and without his desire, he is obliged to allow painters, plumbers and other mechanics to go through his residence or business quarters to make repairs which the owner deems necessary, but which the tenant is willing to forego rather than be inconvenienced.

In the same way that the proper maintenance of property is neglected, so are the other details of management and upkeep likewise improperly conducted.

Poor and insufficient service is a common fault. The way to keep tenants is to make them satisfied and contented. Poor service is the quickest way to accomplish the opposite. Vacancies are expensive luxuries and the cost of repairs increases in ratio proportionate to vacancies. New tenants mean redecorating, which would be unnecessary if the old tenant remained.

Consequence of Poor Service.

Long established customs have governed the management of property and these are adhered to by brokers and property owners, despite the fact that times have changed, and that with altered conditions and the competition of new buildings, different methods are necessary.

The advertising of apartment houses is much the same now in method as it was ten years ago, except that its volume is very much greater. The advertising matter seen in newspapers, represents a great deal in volume and cost, but very little in result. The advice of a trained advertising agent is badly needed by apartment house advertisers.

Hints on Management.

The kinds and qualities of coal that are used for heating purposes should be varied according to conditions, but little attention is paid to this, and the majority of boiler rooms are supplied with coal, the quality and weight of which are unconsidered or unchecked by expert advice, easily obtainable, but rarely sought.

In electric lighting, the use of a modern Mazda lamp, with proper reflecting shades, make it possible to cut lighting bills in half. Despite this, one-half of the large office buildings, public lighted corridors and halls in apartments and business structures are poorly lighted at an extreme cost.

Many other items of expense and methods can be curtailed or obviated by careful consideration of the subject and by the adoption of up-to-date methods.

In the running of some buildings and in the training of their employees, the lack of system and efficiency is very marked. If the same amount of care were given to the detail of management and upkeep by property owners as is given by those in charge of our well run public corporations or of building managers, the returns to the investor would be greater and real estate would be more popular.

It is interesting to note that at a conference of building managers, held in Seattle last year, this subject was carefully discussed and the employment of efficiency engineers in systematising the management of a building, and the employment of the advice of experts in lighting, heating, etc., was voted a necessity by the up-to-date building manager.

—Soap should never be used on linoleum, because the alkalis in it eat out the oils giving the fabric body. Clear water has not so bad an effect upon it, but it is best to mix equal parts of raw linseed oil and turpentine and apply it to the linoleum at night and remove the excess with a cloth the next morning. A good way to restore life to linoleum is to apply ordinary floor wax in liquid form, which will make it look like new.

—"Never patch a dry piece of concrete and then let the finish dry out. You cannot get a hard surface without plenty of water and keeping it wet and free from use for at least a week."—Leonard C. Wason, President of the Aberthaw Construction Co.

NEW THINGS

Uninfluenced by advertising considerations, this information is offered on its merits for the benefit of building managers.

Scraping Office Building Floors.

Prospective tenants are more inclined to be influenced by the appearance of a well surfaced retouched floor in looking over suites than they would be by a dirty, splintery and unkempt floor. Floor surfacing is usually an expensive luxury. As a matter of fact, all that is required is a skillful operator and an efficient machine. Something new in the way of a floor scraper, which the average building employee can use, is being manufactured by the Fox Supply Company, of Madison, Wis.

The scraper has few parts, is complete in every detail, and has nothing to break or wear out about it. The machine is in a solid casting and is perfectly balanced on three wheels. While scraping practically all of its weight is on the blade, which lies flat against the planed surface on the front of the casting. A rubber pad is placed over the blade to prevent chattering or waving and protects the blade and flooring when going over rough or knotty spots.

The workman operating the machine pulls it toward him. This throws the weight of the scraper on the blade and two of the wheels. The third wheel serves as a brush to throw the shavings out of the way of the blade. When the scraper is pushed forward the weight is automatically lifted from the blade to the third wheel, enabling the operator to easily turn the machine in any direcion. Further data will be provided upon application.

Encaustic Burnt-On Enamel Ceilings.

The fact that these ceilings are completely finished in a handsome and serviceable manner before being erected, and that no painting or decorating is needed afterward, makes an instant appeal to owners or busy occupants of stores, etc. Ceilings composed of this material, it is said, can be erected at a cost about equal to the cost of putting up and painting the unfinished kind. The Wheeling Corrugated Company, of Wheeling, W. Va., claims these ceilings never need re-decorating or painting as they may be washed any number of times without affecting their surface. They can be furnished with gold decorations at a slight advance in price and are made in any color or shade desired.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Removing Stains on Brickwork.

An inquirer wants to know how to remove stains on brick work. Brown, white and yellow stains appearing on brick work are the result of a saline efflorescence, which may sometimes be removed by washing with slightly acidulated water when pure water proves inadequate. First try vinegar in proportion of about one gill to the gallon. If this does not suffice, use one part saturated solution of boric acid to one gallon of water. The stains are caused by particles of soluble salts, which have been carried to the surface by water, and are then crystallized by evaporation.

These salts comprise sulphates of potassium, sodium, aluminum, magnesium and calcium. Calcium is the most common form of stain and is the most resistent to rain or ordinary washing with pure water. Sometimes stains are also due to the presence of chlorides and carbonates in the brick. Because these salts eminate from the waters and earths from which bricks are made, building interests and especially architects will do well to study the source of brick supply and to stick firmly to that brand of brick in particular construction work.

Inasmuch as some of these salts preexist in some cements and mortars, trouble may be avoided by finding certain brands that give no trouble in the matter of creating brick stains and specifying only the brand found to be reliable in this particular. The reliability of the brick manufacturer is also important, because careless selection of coal used in the burning of his brick will inject into the finished product salts which will produce stains under favorable circumstances. Where salt water beach sand is used in tempering, great danger of stains appearing on finished brick work exists.

Valuation of Real Property.

I am in search of an American book treating of the valuation of real property, similar to the English work by Webb on the subject.

Answer.—The only American book we know of which in any way covers this subject systematically is Richard M. Hurd's "Principles of City Land Values," published by the Record and Guide. Cecil C. Evers's series of articles, entitled "The Commercial Problem in Buildings," which appeared in the Record and Guide from April 6 to October 26, 1912, is in effect a discussion of the correct principles underlying building values. This series will appear presently in book form. If any of our readers know of any other American book that would serve the purpose of the inquirer, we should be glad to hear from him.

I wish to secure a copy of your recent issue which contained an article concerning the operation of two elevator cars in one shaft. Will you kindly advise me which issue this appeared in?

How to Cut Down Water Bills.

Each citizen of New York must either directly or indirectly, whether his supply is metered or not, pay toward the cost of water. That is, water wasted even by consumers whose places are not metered becomes a burden on them through the necessity for increased taxation. The active co-operation on the part of consumers to check the waste of water would help to reduce this expenditure and will be of great general benefit to the city.

Consumers should inspect their meters frequently to guard against leaks, which are often the cause of water bills being larger than the consumer expects.

To determine the presence of hidden leaks, consumers should occasionally close all outlets and observe the meter to see if it registers or not.

Do not neglect leaking toilets, for a leaky toilet will waste from $10 to $30 worth of water a year. This leak may occur without being visible, but can be detected by listening on the pipe leading from the tank or on the tank itself.

If care is exercised when installing piping, to keep the hot water and cold water pipes at least a foot apart, it will be necessary to let a faucet run to get a cool drink.

The "Bulletin" of the Real Estate Board of Brokers says that if all exempt property in the city were taxed there would be an increased revenue of $29,410,072. This sum, the "Bulletin" points out, represents gifts on the part of the city which are not shown as an expense on the city's books.

Five men, contracting masons, dealers in masons' supplies, and a representative of the Bricklayers' Union were arrested this week and held in $1,000 bail on a charge of conspiring in restraint of trade. Evidently the "community of interest" principle as practiced in the building trades is to be subjected to scrutiny, too.

San Diego, in anticipation of the Panama-California International Exposition, recorded an unusual number of permits in 1912 for new constructions. These included a large proportion of hotels and apartment houses, and during the next two years such accommodations for exposition visitors will be multiplied. The new structures are not of a cheap or temporary character. While they are being erected to meet the demand that will come with the exposition, they are solid, substantial, modern, fireproof structures.

Fire Commissioner Johnson, in his report on incendiarism submitted to the Mayor, estimated that of the annual loss of $16,000,000 through fire in Greater New York at least $4,000,000 is due to arson. The Commissioner stated that the largest proportion of fires occurs in the district bounded by Madison avenue, the East River, and Ninety-sixth and One Hundred and Sixth streets, which he calls the "firebug zone." The Commissioner's figures were hotly challenged, but the debate over the precise figures seems to have lost interest after the "arson trust" case came up for trial.

The delay in signing the rapid transit contracts and the "unearned increment" tax proposed by the Mayor's Commission on New Sources of City Revenue are the themes of resolutions adopted by taxpayers' and other associations holding annual meetings at this time of year. From the tenor of the resolutions it is evident that there is a strong feeling among real estate owners that they are being inequitably treated, and the sentiment is also expressed in some cases that owners should combine for political action. Such action is contemplated by the Twenty-fourth Ward Board of Trade at the suggestion of its president, Christian C. Ruckert, and by the Real Estate Owners' Protective Association of the Twelfth and Twenty-second Wards.

About New Sources of Revenue.

As may be inferred from the interviews published on another page, the real estate interests of New York have been very much disappointed by the report of the Mayor's Commission on New Sources of Taxation. The Commission was appointed to meet a very serious situation. During the past six years the taxpayers have been obliged to meet a constantly increasing burden of public charges. The current tax rate applied to the current increase in assessed valuation has not been sufficient to meet the increased expenditures of the city.

The tax rate has been going up and so have the tax bills. The heavier burden of taxation has, except in a few favored regions, been sufficient to absorb any increase in real estate values; and this very fact is depriving the existing system of all elasticity. The increase in real estate assessments from which the city might derive a larger revenue is prevented by the constantly augmenting tax rate; and it is evident that if this condition continues indefinitely the result must be bankruptcy. The city is beginning to live not on its taxable income, but on its taxable principal.

A commission was consequently appointed to devise new sources of taxation. It was generally understood that its effort would be to suggest methods of raising money from classes of property other than real estate, on the general ground that real estate was already being taxed to the limit. In a preliminary statement issued some time ago it was announced that the committee, while opposed to the taxation of any business, which could escape the burden by removal, would propose to tax those peculiarly metropolitan forms of business activity which were tied to New York. But in its actual report the committee has done no such thing.

The only new source of taxation which it has devised is a new method of taxing real estate. If its proposals are adopted the city will automatically collect upon all increases in ground value an increased tax. The method proposed is, we believe, the best way which has yet been devised of collecting a tax on the "unearned increment;" but the excellence of the method does not make its proposal any less exasperating to the average real estate owner. He was not asking for any relief from existing burdens. He was only asking that in the future burdens be not allowed to accumulate so constantly that the taxation would be equivalent to confiscation, and the answer he gets is that the only means which he has of meeting these increasing burdens, viz., by increase in ground value, shall in some measure be hereafter taken away from him. Naturally he will claim that the committee's report is wholly without authority.

He will point out that the only representative of real estate interests on the committee, the late Edgar J. Levey, died during its deliberations. He will also remark that its membership did not contain an economist of importance. He may approve certain of the minor recommendations for increasing the city's income, but he will know that the increased money derived from these sources will only be a drop in the bucket. The committee depends for five-sixths of its increase in income upon the increment tax, and the real estate owner will feel that no committee in which real estate interests had enjoyed a fair representation would have made such a report. It has not devised new sources of taxation. It has simply recommended another method of getting more milk from the same old cow.

The Rapid Transit Crisis.

Many property owners in New York City have not liked the recent developments in the rapid transit situation. In spite of the fact that all negotiations have been completed between the city and the two companies, and that the contracts are ready for signature, apprehension is still acute that the arrangement may fall through at the last moment. At the present time the grounds for this apprehension are chiefly political. The most unreasonable and embittered opponents of the proposed dual system have been two Democratic newspapers, both of whom supported with great warmth the election of Governor Sulzer. One of these newspapers, whose support of Mr. Wilson was lukewarm, was peculiarly enthusiastic in its support of Mr. Sulzer, and the apprehension felt by well-informed property-owners hangs upon this fact.

A gentleman connected with this newspaper has been mentioned as a possible appointment to the vacancy in the Public Service Commission created by the expiration of the term of Chairman Willcox. Any such appointment would be received by New York public opinion with genuine alarm. It would mean the control of the Commission by a majority inimical to the dual subway system, for two of the members of the present Commission voted against it. These apprehensions were increased by the announcement that bills were to be introduced legislating the two existing Commissions out of office and consolidating them into one commission, whose jurisdiction would include the entire State. The only possible result of such a plan would be to deprive New York of that special attention to its rapid transit needs, which the local commission was intended to give.

The plan of consolidating the two Commissions is said to be abandoned, but nothing has transpired which indicates that the other danger is any less serious. Under such circumstances every New York property-owner who is in a position to exercise any influence in favor of the appointment in Mr. Willcox's place of a friend of the Dual System should not fail to do so. If the existing arrangement should be upset, and if a few more years should have to be consumed in order to work out a substitute, the property-owners and the people of New York would have reason for the profoundest discouragement. The future prosperity of the city and the health and comfort of its inhabitants depend upon the immediate construction of a subway system which will place at the disposal of the people of New York the cheaper land on the outskirts of the city.

The proposed dual system will give to the New Yorker a larger radius of choice in return for the payment of a nickel than any system which has yet been contrived. Indeed, no other system which can be contrived would accomplish as much, because it utilizes the credit of the city and the credit and machinery of the two existing transit companies just as far as it is physically and financially possible.

No alternative plan could put to such good use all the available resources. The objections to the new system developed at the hearings before the Public Service Commission have been trivial. In spite of the utmost efforts of hostile interests, no effective body of public opinion is created against the plan. The Governor should be made to feel that any action on his part which tends to upset it would be received with profound and almost unanimous disgust by the property-owners of New York.

THE WEEK IN REAL ESTATE.

Signs of improvement in the real estate market have not been wanting this week. There was a better investment demand, notably for apartment houses and mercantile buildings; and speculative purchases were more numerous than they had been. The influence of easier mortgage money and the presence of a good deal of ready capital in the hands of investors made themselves felt, although in a very moderate degree.

Despite an undoubted tendency toward expansion, the dealing was not what it might be expected to be at this season of the year, particularly at a time when the general industrial situation and an exceptional activity in public improvements would seem to encourage buying in anticipation of rapid growth in population and trade. The favorable influences just mentioned are, unfortunately, offset to a large extent by the delay in connection with the rapid transit contracts and by the increasing expense imposed by the city and State authorities upon real estate.

There is no doubt that many of those best informed concerning real estate investments are just now pretty much discouraged over the prospect. They feel that with new and exacting fire prevention laws, factory laws, employers' liability laws, and tax laws already in force or in prospect, the chance for real estate to earn a fair income is not what it should be. So strong, indeed, is this feeling that the taxpayers' associations and other organizations interested in real estate which are at present holding their annual meetings, almost without exception adopt resolutions calling for relief from the burden of taxation and the costly annoyance of all manner of orders and inspections.

Some of them are talking of combining for political action. This remedy, however, is of doubtful practicability. A better method would seem to be for all the associations having to do with real estate to form a confederation, not with a view to going into politics, but with a view to educating public opinion —in other words, to exercise the same sort of effective influence that the philanthropic associations of the city are exercising. This method was discussed a year ago by a group of leading real estate agents and operators, but nothing tangible resulted from the discussion. Possibly the recommendation by the Mayor's Commission on New Sources of City Revenue to tax the "unearned increment" may convince real estate men of the necessity of better representation before the Board of Estimate, the Legislature and other administrative and law-making bodies.

Such bodies are influenced by the arguments that are placed before them, and in recent years the arguments of propagandists of one school or another have been presented by men better trained in economics and sociology than the men who have spoken on behalf of real estate owners. This is true also of discussions intended to mould public opinion. The result is that just now property rights, and particularly rights in real property, are held in little esteem. In other words, while some years ago property rights were exalted too far, they are now being pretty generally ignored.

Real estate investments will never be secure or profitable until the social questions of the day have been equitably solved, but equitable solutions will hardly be effected if the men familiar with the economic laws governing real estate investments do not contribute their share to the discussion.

This general line of complaint and argument was heard during the week in the majority of brokerage offices. Professional sentiment was a curious mixture of optimism and pessimism. Meanwhile there can be no doubt from the reports of transactions closed that market conditions are gradually improving. The private sales were more numerous than they were the week before, and the budget of mercantile leases was especially encouraging.

HOW TO BUILD UP THE OUTSKIRTS.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

THE real estate interests, brokers and agents, in New York City would perform a splendid service to the city and directly promote their own business interests if they would combine and adopt a systematic and a vigorous plan to bring new manufacturing industries to New York.

Manufacturing industries mean good payrolls and create a demand for apartments, stores and homes, besides developing values and stimulating building activity. New factories coming in would put to use more or less of the acreage now being made available through present transit improvements. Factories would give employment to thousands of residents of the city within a reasonable distance of their homes.

There is a very important distinction between having available in the city large sums of capital for vast enterprises and having millions of dollars released weekly in wages through the payrolls of active industrial plants employing thousands of wage-earners. The latter is especially advantageous to the city when the product produced by the labor of those employed is distributed and sold and paid for in all sections of the country, so that the money flows back to the average household in New York, to stimlate rentals, construction and real estate activity.

There are three important steps in obtaining new industies.

First—Finding the prospect. This is made difficult because many factories refrain from letting their plans be known for the following reasons: (a) They do not wish their competitors to know their plans. (b) They do not wish their customers to know that their plant may be disturbed. (c) They do not wish their employees to know that their location may change. (d) They often do not wish their banking or financial arrangements disturbed which might be the case in the event of removal.

Without elaborating the four points above, it will be seen that it might easily operate to the disadvantage of the manufacturer to have his contemplated change of location widely known; but proper methods will result in securing prospects in spite of the reluctance of manufacturers to make known their wants.

Second—Getting the manufacturer's confidence, and getting him and his board of directors interested in a given city, or locality, or plot of property and induce them to investigate and examine it.

Third—Closing the deal. The real estate interests and brokers and agents in New York City could very profitably make a careful analysis of what is required to attract additional manufacturing plants to New York, and all of these interests would benefit, while they could engage in the sale of factory properties, and in case a new factory were established would stimulate the other branches of the real estate business.

Seaboard Sites Preferred.

Many European manufacturers are selling their product in the United States who are locating factories in this country, in order to avoid the transatlantic transportation charges and also the import duties. The proprietors of Peter's Chocolate have during the last two or three years established a factory in New Jersey, and "Pear's Soap," of London, is at present contemplating the establishment of a plant here. A large number of Western manufacturers who have developed a large export business with foreign countries are locating at or are about to migrate to Atlantic seacoast cities, in order to accommodate their export trade and avoid the railway transportation charges from inland points.

Through the co-operation of all branches of the real estate interests of the city, such manufacturers and others desiring to be located in the midst of so large a consumptive market as the metropolitan district could be brought to New York to utilize the hundreds of acres of unused property upon which taxes and interest are being paid year after year without any revenue.

As large plots of property hitherto unavailable for factory uses, owing to lack of transit facilities for employees are now to be made accessible through the rapid transit improvements, such parts of this property as are not suitable for residential purposes could be utilized for the erection of factories with profit to the entire community.

No other single activity in which the real estate interests could collectively engage would be so beneficial for the city. It would create taxable values, produce a revenue for improvements and also provide employment for the citizens of the city. No other pursuit would for the same expenditure in time or effort or money yield so large a profit, both immediate and permanent, to all branches of the real estate business.

W. R. MESSENGER.

Dinner of the Consolidated Credit Men's Association.

The Consolidated Building Trades Credit Association held its annual banquet Thursday night in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Astor. From the diners' point of view, the number and enthusiasm surpassed all previous ones.

There were nearly six hundred guests present, and among them most of the prominent building and loan men of the city. Peter C. Spence, first vice-president of the association, was toastmaster, while seated at a table with him were the honored guests and speakers of the evening.

Among the special speakers were A. C. Horn, president of the association, Commissioner John S. Murphy, of the Tenement House Department, Superintendent Rudolph P. Miller ,of the Bureau of Buildings, Commissioner Joseph J. Johnson, of the Bureau of Fire Prevention, and George Gordon Battle, of the well-known law firm of O'Gorman, Battle & Marshall. Charles F. Eberhart was chairman of the dinner committee.

At the guest table were also seated Charles Paterno, Leo Bing, Walter Stabler, Comptroller of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.; Frederick A. Snow, George Palen Snow, William Crawford, John C. Myers, John W. Moore, E. Skannel, Charles F. Murtha, Alexander Walker, Joseph Paterno, Charles F. Eberhart, and J. Sargeant Cram, member of the Public Service Commission.

Commissioner Johnson began his speech by making a suggestion that would be of great aid to both the builders and the fire department. "There is no law," he said, "which compels a builder to submit his plans to the fire department, but to do so would give the fire department an idea of the size and location of the exits, which might save the builders a lot of trouble." Mr. Johnson also said, in referring to modern fire insurance, that this country was paying ten times the amount that the European countries were paying in premiums.

Mr. Battle in his speech made the assertion that the present business conditions are good, and that the horizon for the association was commercially bright. He also said that although he could not speak for President-elect Wilson he knew it was his purpose to make this a prosperous year.

Following the speeches came a vaudeville entertainment. The souvenir was an antique brass ink well with the date and name of the association inscribed upon it.

BUILDING COMPANY EXPANDS.

Cauldwell-Wingate Co. to Increase Its Capital to a Quarter of a Million Dollars.

The Cauldwell-Wingate Company in the twenty-five months of its existence as a building organization has completed buildings aggregating $8,000,000 in value, and have additional buildings representing several millions more under contract. To provide for necessary expansion this company on January 31 will increase its present authorized capital of $150,000 to $250,000, paying for same out of profits earned. The officers and directors are S. Milbank Cauldwell, president; Walter S. Faddis, vice-president; Roy W. Wingate, secretary and treasurer. Frank C. Poucher is chairman of the Board of Directors, which include in addition to the officers A. Filmore Hyde, Paul R. Towne, and H. Oakey Hall.

—The Manufacturers' Association, for business reasons, is in favor of dropping all the local names within the bounds of the city that tend to differentiate in the mind of the people of the rest of the world between the respective municipal divisions, "A single borough," the association says, "enjoys the prestige, good will or trademark, so to speak, carried by the title or firm name of New York City." A good many manufacturers in the outer boroughs have adopted the expedient of giving their address as New York City.

—A pleasing variation from the monotony of grey tones which have dominated stone work in the metropolis for many years past is observed in the stone work of the new Synod House on the grounds of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. This beautiful Gothic building, now being roofed over, is walled with blocks of sandstone of a deep yellow color, quarried in West Virginia.

—The Ft. Washington section, which has quickly developed into a large civic center, is gradually acquiring the institutions necessary for a self-centered community. The Ft. Washington Reformed Church is erecting as an addition to its edifice in 181st street, a large brick church house and Sunday school in the Colonial style, from plans of Nelson & Van Wagonen, of 15 West 38th street. It is estimated to cost $35,000.

BUILDING MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

Cold Spell Tends to Equalize, Temporarily, Consumption of Basic Materials and Available Supply of Steel—Portland Cement Interests Looking Over Export Field—Brick Demand Lighter With More Barges Going Under Cover—General News.

THE U. S. Consular report quoting advices from Italy to the effect that a heavy tide of Italian labor is expected to turn toward America during the spring and summer was received by building material interests in the Metropolitan district with some evidence of relief, in view of the fact that scarcity of labor at present existing will have a powerful influence in bringing about higher prices when the heavy building movement begins next month. This promised flood of immigrants will release to the building material producers Hungarian and Polish labor that has been drafted from factories and mills to railroad construction and track work throughout the east, since the Turko-Italian and Balkan Wars began.

Open weather conditions have permitted such a large volume of building construction to go ahead this winter that the producing interests are already laying plans for taking care of a demand that is almost sure to result from the heavy inquiry now ruling in all lines. Here in New York, the scarcity of steel has offset the call for other basic materials, to a certain extent, but in the suburbs there has been practically no cessation of small building construction and this has resulted in a continual drain upon wholesalers' stock and jobbers' reservations.

Price advances have been announced in some lines, notably, building hardware, Portland and natural cement, roofing slate, crushed stone and some clay products, among them common brick. In the crushed stone department, prices remain very stiff, although winter quarry operations have been halted and in some cases, no orders of size can be filled, as the exceptional fall business took all the available supply of stone over and above the quantities reserved for subway construction. Since the work of burrowing under New York for greater rapid transit facilities has progressed much faster than stone producers estimated, holders are inclined to maintain the present stiffness of the market to large operations until quarry operations can be resumed.

In the steel department orders continue to come in for structural materials despite recent price advances, which are said to have been made to protect the mills against speculation and against crowding the outputs of furnaces. Rivets are up two dollars a ton and sheets are very firm at the dollar advance reported last week.

Common brick sales are being restricted because steel deliveries continue slow. In many building operations in this city work is either entirely suspended or only half of a building is going up at a time. Some North River brick moved out at $7.25 this week, although $6.75 to $7 for Hudsons and Raritans is basic.

In the oil and paint department crude oil has advanced and buyers are making purchases at the wells at approximately fifty per cent. in excess of levels prevailing last year at this time. This means that most of the oil and paint commodities used in construction may be expected to move up since raw chemicals are also stiffer on heavy demand.

ASBESTOS IN STRONG MARKET.

General Quotations Show Stiffening Tendency in Entire East.

ASBESTOS building materials are in a stiffening market. This is partly due to greater demand and exceptional inquiry for earlier 1913 delivery. Quotations follow:

Building felt and sheeting, less than ton lots, 3½c. per lb. light, 4 cts. per lb. heavy. Light runs from 6 to 30 lbs. and heavy 45 to 56 lbs. Standard sheet mill board, 40x40 ins. and 41x40 varying 1-32 and ½-ins. and from 2 to 27 lbs. per sheet, is quoted at 5 cts. per lb. in 100-lb. lots. Asbestos wood for fireproofing in standard shapes, 36x48 ins., 42x48 ins. and 42x96 ins., are quoted, Nashua, N. H., as follows:

Thickness.	Weight.	Price.
1/8-in.	1 lb.	$0.08
3/16-in.	1½ lbs.	.12
1/4-in.	2 lbs.	.16

BRICK SALES LIGHT.

Some Brick Moves Out at $7.25 Level—Basic Quotations, $6.75 to $7.

BUYING in the brick market was light this week reflecting that of last week. Navigation is still open, but shortage of steel continues to cripple building construction, hence brick requirements are not pressing. There are now 55 barges under cover.

Official transactions at wholesale docks last week with comparisons for the corresponding week in 1912 follow:

AFTER EXPORT BUSINESS.

Cement Interests Feeling Foreign Field to Take Care of American Capacity.

CEMENT manufacturers are now making a profit on the material they turn out, and the prospect is for enormous business in the vicinity of New York. The new dam in Westchester County will take 1,000 barrels a day; the new Bronx Park reservoir and filtration plant will call for 500,000 to 800,000 barrels; subway work will take a large quantity, and in addition there is much material which will have to be delivered to close up the Ashokan contract. Aside from all this, the demand for cement for road building purposes will probably be greater than any other one use. The Highway Department in Albany has been experimenting with cement roads, and it is probable that many million barrels of cement will be used on highway construction alone.

The exports of cement has never amounted to anything, comparatively speaking, except the cement which went to the Panama Canal. In 1913, however, it is expected that a new business will be developed, chiefly because the British and German manufacturers have all the orders on their books they can take care of without reaching out for foreign trade, and this business must of necessity come to America if it can be filled at all.

Conditions in the natural cement market are more favorable. There is a larger demand than has been reported in some time. Rosendale in New York is quoted at 90 cents a barrel, which new price level is being very well sustained.

LUBRICATING OILS STEADY.

Packing Prices Vary Within Wide Limit in This Market.

THE condition of the lubricating oil trade is stronger. Building managers seem to be in the market with more aggressiveness in anticipation of heavy oils following the recent price advance in lighter petroleum products such as gasoline and benzine. In 5 barrel lots for standard tested oils, quotations follow:

	Cents per gal.
Cylinder, dark	20@27
Cylinder, steam, refined	14@22
Stainless white, 32 to 34 gravity	28@29
Lemons, 33 to 34 gravity	17@19
Dark, 32 gravity	15@18
Crank case oil	15@17

Packing is another department of the building supply market which is meeting with rather exceptional demand for this time of the year. Quotations follow: Asbestos, wick and rope, 13c. per lb.; sheet rubber, 11 to 13c.; pure gum rubber, 40 to 45c.; red sheet packing, 40 to 50c.; cotton packing, 16 to 25c.; jute, 5 to 6c.; Russian packing, 9 to 10c.

Linseed oil is quoted at 46 to 47c. for raw, city American seed.

SAND PRICE CHANGES EXPECTED.

Heavy Demand Due to Subway and Other Construction.

SAND and gravel are in exceptional demand for this season of the year. Purveyors of this commodity declare that owing to the difficulty of mining and transporting sand and gravel under the existing high pressure demand, it seems entirely probable that present price levels cannot long continue. Open weather has permitted construction work in concrete to progress later and in heavier volume than usual for January.

STRUCTURAL STEEL STIFFER.

Advance of $1 a Ton Makes a Little Change in New York Conditions.

BUILDERS and contractors are considerably bothered to know just what to make of the advance of a dollar a ton in structural steel recently announced. They are inclined to criticise the steel companies for breaking faith with consumers.

The Record and Guide was able this week to obtain information from a very high source in the steel supply trade explaining the present conditions. According to this statement it seems that the demand for new structural steel instead of showing a falling off as was expected early in January, is no less to-day than it was during December. While a slight advance has been made, the real effect of it has been somewhat offset by use of discounts in structural specifications.

This action was made necessary in order to keep down speculative buying and to protect the market to legitimate buyers. While the speculative element is not prominent in the Metropolitan district at present, there is a very heavy western speculative movement which the steel companies must guard against.

Quotations in New York to-day on prompt delivery is unchanged at 1.75c., Pittsburgh. Pittsburgh quotations on I-beams over 15 inches, 1.55c.; H-beams over 18 inches, 1.55c.; angles over 6 inches, 1.55c.; deck-beams and bulb angles, 1.80c.; hand rail tees, 2.25c.; checkered, trough and concrete floor plates, 2.40c.

The general plate market is operating under heavy pressure but little of this is going into structural fabrication at the present time. Most of the pressure at the steel mills is on car orders.

Plate quotations are being steadily maintained at the $1 advance reported recently. Futures are being quoted at 1.50 and 1.55c., spot shipments are quoted at 1.75 and 1.80c., Pittsburgh.

An advance of $2 a ton is now effective on rivets. Structural rivets are now quoted at 2.10 and 2.20c. An advance has been made in the terms, and nuts, bolts and rivets are sold at 30-day contracts instead of 60 days.

REAL ESTATE NEWS AND NOTES

THE WEEK'S BROKERAGE SALES, LEASES AND PUBLIC AUCTIONS.

Practically All Parts of the City Were Represented in the Dealing.

Some very good transactions comprised part of the dealing in real property this week, and the general selling embraced many parts of the city. A parcel on 6th avenue was sold to Col. Thomas Dimond, who will be remembered for his sale of real estate near the Pennsylvania Station to the Pennsylvania Railroad. Several pieces in the West Side, toward the river, changed hands, as well as some dwellings near 5th avenue. North of 59th street the sale of several important properties took place, some of them being corner holdings.

The Manhattan sales totaled 22, against 26 last week and 34 a year ago.

The number below 59th street was 10, against 12 last week and 14 a year ago. The sales north of 59th street aggregated 24, compared with 14 last week and 20 a year ago.

From the Bronx 20 sales at private contract were reported, against 14 last week and 13 a year ago.

The amount involved in the Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $849,854, compared with $213,146 last week, making a total since January 1 of $2,689,343. The figure for the corresponding week last year was $386,452, making the total from January 1, 1911, $2,057,961.

Burden of Workingmen's Compensation

Since the adoption of drastic liability acts dealing with workingmen's compensation, the rates charged by liability insurance companies for insuring employees have necessarily been heavily increased. In some cases they have been quadrupled as a result of the curtailment of the employers' defenses against suits, and of the liberal guarantees made to the employee. Leaving aside all question of fraud and "soldiering" on the part of the employees who are slightly injured or indisposed, there still remains a very heavy burden, and one which in many cases is likely to bridge the difference between profit and loss.

Under such circumstances any legitimate means for reducing the cost of such insurance will be hailed as a direct benefit. Such a means is at hand in the shape of mutual liability insurance written without the use of brokers, and thereby saving their commissions of 17½ to 30 per cent. of the premiums. Norman F. Hesseltine, manager of the Contractors' Mutual Liability Insurance Co., of Boston, points out that a reduction of this sort, while perhaps of minor importance to a concern with heavy capital, is a vital matter to small concerns turning their capital over several times in the course of a year, such, for instance, as some contractors; and that the enforced payment in advance of the sums contemplated by recent legislation, becomes in the latter case a very great hardship.

River and Harbor Bill.

The river and harbor bill, carrying a total of $40,000,000 for waterway improvements throughout the country, was reported in the House of Representatives Monday.

The bill provides $20,000 for the improvement of Flushing Bay. Other harbors in this vicinity that come in for appropriations are the Great South Bay, $5,000; Hempstead Harbor, $5,000; Jamaica Bay, $300,000; New York Harbor, $200,000; the East River and Hell Gate, $250,000; Harlem River, $100,000, and Newtown Creek, $30,000.

Mayor Gaynor's Proposed New Avenue.

"Upper Fifth avenue, from 23d street up, has gone, so far as I can see," said Mayor Gaynor, in an address before the Washington Square Association. "It has gone, I think, as a residential street, because people up there did not have enterprise enough to have another avenue opened up between Fifth and Sixth avenues, a distance across of, I think, 1,100 feet, where two avenues could be placed, and every time I mention it now some of them up there are frightened to death. They think I am going to destroy Fifth avenue by having another avenue opened up in that long block of about 1,100 feet from Fifth avenue over West. Why, it would have saved Fifth avenue if it had been opened up years ago. It would do no harm if two avenues were opened up there."

Tenement Law Debate.

The City Club conducted last night a hearing on proposed amendments to the tenement house law permitting toilets to open upon public stairways, reducing the minimum width of rooms from seven to six feet and creating a board of appeals to construe the tenement house law or suspend some of its clauses in individual cases.

Charles H. Strong, the club's president, gave each side an hour to present its case and a quarter of an hour for rebuttal. Professor Charles F. Chandler, president of the Tenement Economies Society, led off for the advocates, followed by George F. Canfield, vice-president of the Charities Aid Association; Dr. William Shannon, of the New York Academy of Medicine; Miss Mary de G. Trenholm, head worker at the East Side Settlement, and Henry Atterbury Smith, architect of the Vanderbilt and John Jay model tenements, on the upper East Side.

They confined themselves to advocating the first two amendments. The argument for toilets and bathrooms opening upon the public stairway pre-supposed an open air stairway in a court. The toilet's presence there would give more outside wall space, they contended, for living and sleeping rooms, and would reduce rents. Smaller rooms, they argued, would permit a greater segregation of the sexes by increasing the number of rooms.

The opponents, led by Lawrence Veiller, secretary of the Charities Organization Society and former Deputy Tenement House Commissioner, insisted that the ventilation of toilets on public stairways would increase the fire risk, the sanitary risk and the moral risk. They denied that it would provide more rentable space and lower rents. As for the seven-foot room, they considered any reduction in size a step backward.

John J. Murphy, the Tenement House Commissioner, followed him in opposition to the proposed amendments; E. R. L. Gould, president of the City and Suburban Homes Company; Alfred T. White, head of the Improved Dwellings Company, Brooklyn; William Guerin, acting chief of the Fire Prevention Bureau; Otto M. Eidlitz, of the board of governors of the Building Trades Employers' Association, and Albert L. Webster, a sanitary engineer, also spoke in opposition.

MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS.

PUBLIC AND LOCAL WORKS CONTEMPLATED IN THE GREATER CITY.

A Summary of the Proceedings of the Local Boards, the Board of Estimate, the Supreme Court and Various Commissions and Bureaus Relating to Street and Other City and Borough Improvements.

The news collected here under the general head of Municipal Improvements is intended to be of service to property owners as well as contractors and brokers. It covers every measure looking toward a change in the City Map, toward the acquisition of title to real estate by the city or toward construction work, including the grading of streets, the laying of sewers, the building of schools, etc. Each such measure is acted upon by one or more—generally by several—official bodies before it becomes a valid ordinance. In these columns the successive official acts pertaining to it are noted from the time it is introduced in a Local Board or in the Board of Estimate. Wherever public hearings on it are granted, the fact is also announced.

Municipal improvements may be divided into two classes—those that are paid for out of the general tax levy and those that are paid for wholly or in part by special assessments on the property owners benefited. The latter, which are the more important to real estate owners, originate in the Local Boards. However, every local improvement, except certain street improvements calling for an expenditure of not more than $2,000, must be submitted to the Board of Estimate for authorization.

The news is classified and is printed in this order: Local Board Calendars, Local Board Resolutions, Proceedings of the Board of Estimate, Public Hearings, Assessments Due and Payable.

LOCAL BOARD CALENDARS.

As regards the majority of city improvements, including all that call for special assessments, the Local Boards are in a sense neighborhood legislatures. They have absolute authority over certain street improvements, costing not more than $2,000. With respect to all other local improvements, they exercise full legislative functions, subject to approval by the Board of Estimate. The Board of Estimate seldom vetoes a measure coming from a Local Board. It is before the latter that the property owner should be most watchful to make himself heard concerning proposed improvements. When a Local Board resolution comes before the Board of Estimate, the presumption of expediency is on the side of the measure, as this has been adopted after open consideration by a body supposed to be familiar with local sentiment.

There are twenty-five Local Improvement Districts in the city, each with its Local Board. This is composed of the Borough President and of the Aldermen who represent the Aldermanic districts within the Local Improvement District. The Borough President's secretary acts as secretary of the several boards. Each board has jurisdiction over matters relating to its district. In the case of matters relating to two or more districts, the boards of the districts affected sit in common. The meetings are subject to call by the Borough President.

Such hearings are noted in this news department of the Record and Guide under the general head of Local Board Calendars. Hearings by all other bodies are noted in the present column.

In acquiring title to land for streets, sewers, parks, approaches to bridges, etc., condemnation proceedings are commonly resorted to. A proceeding having been authorized by the Board of Estimate, the Corporation Counsel makes application to the Supreme Court for the appointment of three commissioners. If the cost of the land is to be paid wholly or in part by property owners benefited, the commissioners are known as commissioners of estimate and assessment. They hold their meetings at the Bureau of Street Openings, a clerical and legal organization under the supervision of the Corporation Counsel charged with the management of all legal proceedings which involve awards for damages or assessments for benefit to land.

If the cost of the land is to be paid by the city as a whole, as in the case of school sites, dock property, etc., the commissioners are known as commissioners of estimate and appraisal, whose place of meeting is at 258 Broadway.

In the case of assessments for local improvements of a physical nature which do not have to be confirmed by a court of record, the assessments come before three permanent commissioners appointed by the Mayor. They constitute the Board of Assessors, which has to do with assessments for such improvement as the regulating and grading of streets, the laying of sewers, etc.

PROPOSED ASSESSMENTS.

The following proposed assessments have been completed and are lodged in the office of the Board of Assessors, 320 Broadway, Manhattan, for examination by anyone interested, and all persons who are opposed to these assessments, or either of them, must file their objections, in writing, with the Secretary of the Board, on or before Feb. 11, at 11 a. m., when testimony will be taken:

National Tax Association's Claims.

The enclosed letter, descriptive of the work of the National Tax Association, is being sent to enlist interest in and support for the association. It is dated from the office of the treasurer, A. E. Holcomb, 15 Dey street, New York.

"No subject is of more vital and personal importance to all citizens and taxpayers at the present time than the proper solution of the vexed problem of how to secure, efficiently and equitably, the revenue needed to defray state and local expenditures. Beyond question, serious attention must at once be given to the subject. Public expenditures are everywhere increasing enormously and the need of careful, scientific and accurate study of ways and means for providing the necessary revenue is apparent. Existing laws, enacted long ago, under far different conditions, are found in many cases to be inadequate to meet present conditions fairly and equitably and, in consequence, much thought is being given to the problem by legislatures, special commissions and executives.

"This association, founded in 1906, furnishes a practical agency for adequately meeting the situation. Under its auspices, representatives from all the various states meet in annual convention, when addresses are delivered upon various topics by students of economic problems, administrators, representative taxpayers and experienced investigators. Thus, careful consideration is assured, with the opportunity to compare conditions in widely separated localities and note the effect of the operation of various forms of legislation designed to cure existing evils free from local or political influences. A great advantage, also, is the opportunity for practical discussion by public officials, charged with the duties of administration, and by the taxpayer, as such, who is free to express his views and to receive full and fair discussion thereof.

"We appeal to all public-spirited citizens to support this movement by joining the association and thus helping to supply the moderate funds necessary to place before the public the volumes containing the proceedings of these annual conferences, in which may be found the opinions of those most competent to make suggestions of value. It would seem evident that these volumes will be of the greatest value towards informing the public mind about a matter which so vitally affects the welfare of the citizen and taxpayer."

How Advertising Helps a Real Estate Man.

One of the great possibilities of advertising is that it assists a man in becoming known as an achiever of results. Every time you dispose of a difficult lease or close a big sale, let the public know who did it; it will inspire confidence in you. A man will watch your sales for a while; then some day he will casually drop into your office and ask what you've got for sale. He reasons that if you are successful in making money for yourself and others, perhaps you can show him a good investment.

To succeed in the real estate field in a large way it is necessary to have practically unlimited capital to draw on. It is not at all necessary that this be individual capital.

As a legitimate and profitable field for the promoter, the real estate field cannot be excelled. Opportunity and the man with money combine to furnish the required raw material for your business, but as raw material, you will discover early in the game that money works up in an incredibly short time. You will never be able to control enough to swing all the deals which you know could be profitably undertaken. You will find that your appetite for promotion will grow by what it feeds upon. It is necessary to be constantly reaching out for new pocketbooks. Constantly reach out and form new groups of men who have money to work with. Attract them to yourself and your business.—From an address by W. W. Hannan of Detroit, as reported in the National Real Estate Journal.

Calder's Opinion on Immigration.

Congressman William M. Calder, of Brooklyn, formerly Superintendent of Buildings in Brooklyn, in an address in the House of Representatives on the subject of immigration, took strong grounds against severe restrictions.

He said the recent immigration has not displaced the native American wage earner and the earlier immigrant, but has only covered the shortage of labor resulting from the excess of the demand over the domestic supply. He added:

"I am competent, I believe, to discuss this question. I have studied it from every phase as affecting the business interests of New York City and the wage earning of the American workman; neither has it increased the hours of labor of the so-called skilled American workman. The real fact in the matter that can be demonstrated clearly is that this immigration has tended to actually decrease the hours of labor and increase the wages of the skilled American workman. I am engaged in the building business in New York City, and from my own observation have noted in the past 25 years first a reduction of the hours of labor of men engaged in that industry from 10 to 8 hours and an actual increase in compensation for every branch of labor of from 30 to 100 per cent."

When Organizing a Real Estate Syndicate.

"Watch the men who are succeeding in their line," was the advice given to a body of real estate men by W. W. Hannan of Detroit, as reported by the National Real Estate Journal. "Just as soon as a man begins to lift his nose from the grindstone and take notice of what other men are doing, you are pretty safe in approaching him. The desire to associate himself with other successful men in promoting big deals is the invariable sequence to individual prosperity. The man who has had a long, hard struggle to attain a position of assured financial ease, has as a rule been a lonesome man.

"He has had to be. All other men were his potential rivals for standing room in the industrial highway, but when the golden moment comes, when he feels he can afford to quit fighting, can join in the general game and keep up his end, he is eager to do so. He is hungry for the pleasure of working with other successful men for a common interest. Watch the coming man, be on the spot with a tempting proposition at the right moment.

"Don't make the mistake of bunching several newly arrived men in a deal together. What they want is to be flattered by having their success recognized. Invite one such man to join you and a half a dozen prominent men in some new enterprise and you will win him as a staunch supporter, who will back your projects to the extent of his resources."

State Cannot Speculate in Realty.

A proposed homestead commission in the state of Massachusetts, was recently declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of that state. The commission was to have been organized with power to buy, sell and own real estate, primarily for the purpose of providing "homes for mechanics, laborers, and other wage earners."

In some respects the plan resembled the proposal which New York is considering, termed "excess condemnation proceedings," with the object of lessening somewhat the burdens of taxation.

The court held that to permit such a commission to be organized as a state institution would be to give to it the power of eminent domain and thus private property might be condemned to aid in the sale to individuals of the same property, whose ownership again would be private.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

Including Contemplated Construction, Bids Wanted, Contracts Awarded, Plans Filed and Government, State and Municipal Work

To Change Equitable Plans.

F. M. Andrews & Co., 1 Madison avenue, are making changes to the new Equitable Building plans. Forty-two stories, instead of thirty-six, may now be the height. Members of the company which bought the Equitable block and will erect the building are considering the matter. The plans as filed a short time ago are also to be changed to allow for a rearrangement of elevators. The new arrangement will admit of as good service for forty-two stories as for thirty-six, so the additional floors are likely to be added. If this addition is made, it will add another seventy-five feet to the height of the structure, which will then rise 550 feet instead of 475, as originally planned.

State School of Agriculture Plans.

Herman W. Hoefer, state architect, Capitol, Albany, has started plans for the new building to be erected by the Board of Managers of the Long Island School for Agriculture somewhere on Long Island. It is expected that the selection of a site will be made within a few weeks. Franklin W. Hooper, secretary of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Science, Lafayette avenue, Brooklyn, is a member of the board.

Plans for Market Buildings.

The James S. Maher Building Construction Company, 1328 Broadway, has been selected to prepare plans for the three and six-story market buildings to be erected on the block bounded by 9th and 10th avenues, 14th and 15th streets, for the W. W. Astor estate, of 23 West 26th street. John J. Gillen, 14 West Washington Market, is the lessee. Operations will be started at once.

Another Theatre for Seventh Avenue.

W. W. Hoffman, 610 Empire Building, Philadelphia, Pa., is preparing plans for an up-to-date theatre building with a seating capacity of about 1,000 to be erected on Seventh avenue near 42d street by G. H. Earle, of the Finance Company of Pennsylvania, 424 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Pa. The architect will probably call for figures early in March.

Lewis G. Morris to Build.

Lewis G. Morris, a broker in antiques at 80 Broadway, has purchased property at the southeast corner of Park avenue and 85th street, 25.6 feet on the avenue and 82 feet in the street. The plot is covered with a five-story flat building, which is to be demolished and replaced by Mr. Morris with a handsome residence for his own occupancy. It is probable that an architect will be selected sometime in February.

William A. Porter Not to Build.

William A. Porter, of J. P. Morgan & Co., 3 Broad street, Manhattan, has issued the statement denying the report that he will erect a new residence at Glen Cove, Long Island, as was reported in the daily press this week.
